PRINCE PAYS VISIT TO WEST POINT AND REVIEWS CADETS

LUNCHEON IN MESS HALL

Makes Short Speech to Future Officers, Who Cheer Their Royal Guest.

GIVES DINNER ON RENOWN

Finishes Eventful Day at Play, Where Audience Greets Him with Applause.

The Prince of Wales added new lessons to his rapidly maturing education in America and the ways of Americans during the third day of his visit to New York. In view of the arduous programs of Tuesday and Wednesday, things were made somewhat easier for him yesterday, and again he went through the series of functions arranged for him with cheery good nature and the same smiling display of appealing youthfulness.

By the time he was back on the British battle cruiser Renown, late last night, both he and his official and unofficial hosts were keenly aware of the approaching end of his visit, and on both sides there was manifest a genuine and growing regret that his stay must be limited to five days.

Just as the city surrendered him for a time on Thursday that he might be entertained by his fellow-countrymen resident here, so yesterday she gave him up for the best part of the day that he might be once more the nation's guest, this time at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

There he reviewed the cadets, lunched with them, the members of his party being interspersed among the future army officers at their tables, and made them a little speech in which he talked convincingly of the need for willing discipline in a democracy, and reminded the young soldiers of the noble traditions they must uphold.

This was the first time he has been among men younger than himself, and he proved just as able to capture their admiration as that of older gatherings he has won so quickly to himself.

Back from West Point in the middle of the afternoon, the Prince ran away from his long train of aids and attaches and guards and escorts and went to the Racquet and Tennis Club, where he got a bit of much-needed exercise and a surcease from the gazing eyes which had hemmed him in all day.

From there he returned to the Renown, where he had a few minutes' rest before it was time for him to receive a limited number of guests whom he entertained at dinner aboard, at which there was no speechmaking.

After dinner he came ashore and attended the Ziegfeld Follies, where the audience gave him a greeting that stopped the show for five minutes. Meantime a throng of sightseers along Riverside Drive were entertained with a display of fireworks from the decks of the Renown, which was brilliant illuminated for the occasion.

Cadets on Their Mettle.

The Prince's visit to the Military Academy was accompanied by stirring martial pageantry and seemed to delight both spectators and participants. Edward Albert himself appeared to take particular delight in starring once among his juniors, after the long list of occasions when he has been, perhaps, the youngest man present. He appeared more at ease, more sure of himself than at times when he has faced his elders and has been compelled, rather diffidently, to make speeches to them.

The cadets accepted the royal visitor with the same apparent liking which has marked his every appearance. It is hazardous to say that on any occasion West Point cadets did better than their usual best, but it may have not been mere fancy that as they swept across the parade ground in review before him they added just a last touch of snap to perfection.

Certainly no eyes ever looked more squarely into those of the reviewing officer than did the nearly one thousand pairs which gazed at the Prince as the command "eyes right" gave each succeeding platoon a chance to get a glimpse of this youthful celebrity without being "skinned" for a breach of discipline.

The visit to the academy pleased the guest's entourage, particularly the predominating military section of it, as has no other function during the three days Edward Albert has been here, one British Colonel going so far as to pronounce it "a good show"—praise worthy of the second battle of Ypres.

The Prince, his staff, and his military

German Pillagers Prisoners; Leon Informers Must Die

LILLE, France, Nov. 20, (Associated Press.)—Captain Herman Toffesvorff, Peter Gunicel, Philippe Gerichtsamstaut, Christian Ruskh, and Frantz Klassa, former officers in the German Army, arrested recently in Germany, are now in Lille citadel, charged with pillage and robbery in French districts during German occupation. Allied officers are searching for 150 others wanted on similar charges.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The Court of Cassation today rejected the appeal of the "Laon informers," convicted on July 8 for denouncing compatriots to German authorities. Eight were sentenced to death and six to imprisonment at hard labor.

LANSING DEMANDS JENKINS'S RELEASE

Further Molestation Will "Seriously Affect Relations," Note to Mexico Says.

JENKINS'S STORY GIVEN OUT

Bandits Seized Him, They Said, to Show Helplessness of the Carranza Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Secretary Lansing today sent a note to the Carranza Government demanding the immediate release of William O. Jenkins, the American Consular Agent at Puebla, who has been rearrested and imprisoned by Mexican authorities, and warning the Mexican Government that any further molestation of Jenkins would "seriously affect the relations between the United States and Mexico, for which the Government of Mexico must assume sole responsibility."

This official announcement regarding the action taken was authorized by the State Department:

The Department of State today sent a note to the Mexican Foreign Office, through the American Embassy at Mexico City, calling for the immediate release of William O. Jenkins, the American Consular Agent at Puebla.

The note, which is based on the rearrest of Consular Agent Jenkins at Puebla, points out that the United States Government is "surprised and incensed" to learn of the reimprisonment of Mr. Jenkins, particularly in view of the suffering and losses already sustained by him in connection with his kidnapping through lack of protection by the Mexican authorities and in connection with his first arrest by Mexican officials.

The note expresses the view, based on the information in the possession of the Department of State, that his rearrest is absolutely arbitrary and unwarranted and warns the Mexican Government that further molestation of the Consular Agent will seriously affect the relations between the United States and Mexico, for which the Government of Mexico must assume sole responsibility.

This action was taken after the department had been notified today of the rearrest of Jenkins, and had received a complete report from Jenkins himself regarding his kidnapping. For several weeks efforts have been under way in Mexico to bring about the arrest of Jenkins on a charge of collusion in his own kidnapping. The State Department has found no proof that in any way justifies the charge.

The rearrest of Jenkins appears to have taken place after this Government had already sent a memorandum to its Embassy at Mexico City directing it to request the release of Jenkins and after certain assurances had been given that he would not be molested.

Jenkins's Own Story.

Simultaneously with the dispatch of Secretary Lansing's note to the Carranza Government, a letter from Jenkins giving an account of the kidnapping was made public by Representative E. L. Davis of Tennessee, who represents the Congressional district where Jenkins was born, where he resided until he went to Mexico and where he now maintains citizenship.

Jenkins declares he was kidnaped because he was a representative of the United States, that he was seized in the Consular office and that part of the money stolen was consular funds. The bandits told him that their principal object was to show the helplessness of the Carranza Government and force that Government to pay the large ransom. The Mexican authorities, Jenkins says, did nothing to obtain his release, but caused him "every possible inconvenience."

The letter as made public tonight is, in part, as follows:

"On Sunday night, Oct. 26, about 9

GRAND JURY MOVES TO PUSH INQUIRY IN SWANN'S OFFICE

Declares to Court Belief That "Willful and Corrupt Misconduct" Exists.

INCLUDES CITY OFFICIALS

Again Writes Governor Asking That Attorney General Supplant District Attorney.

SWANN'S LETTER REVIEWED

Foreman Almirall and Juror Einstein Accuse the Prosecutor of Misstatements.

The Extraordinary Grand Jury notified the court yesterday that they had initiated, in compliance with the law and the public interests, a "general investigation of the municipal offices and the departments and of the office of the District Attorney of New York County, inspired by reasonable grounds of belief that public officials have been guilty of willful and corrupt misconduct in office."

Previous to submitting their pronouncement to the court the members of the jury had agreed to send another communication to Governor Alfred E. Smith, reviewing the situation as they saw it, and requesting him to designate the Attorney General as their legal adviser on the ground that they are being deprived of proper legal counsel.

A large part of the jury's letter to the Governor deals with the answer of District Attorney Edward Swann to their prior statement before Governor Smith to the effect that the prosecutor was not properly co-operating, at which time they also asked that Mr. Swann be replaced as legal adviser by special counsel.

In the jury's second letter, sent yesterday to the Governor, they speak of one part of Mr. Swann's reply as: "But his statement, in self-defense, lacking in truth and characterized by subterfuge." The District Attorney had informed Governor Smith that in his opinion certain of the jurors were disqualified for continuing as investigators in the transit situation because of interest in bonds of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, and he declared that the prestige of the Grand Jury was being used for the "advancement of private business ends," and to further the cause of higher transit fares.

Governor Smith, who declined to accede to the former request of the jury to designate special counsel, said last night that he had not read this second letter and that he would make no comment until he had considered the communication.

District Attorney Swann last night issued a statement in which he termed the action of the jurors as "wholly without warrant of law." He made a spirited defense of his office and called upon the Grand Jury to produce evidence, if it had it, of any wrongdoing. He added that if the jury had any evidence of crime he would assist them "to develop it to the fullest extent, no matter who or what the criminals are."

When Justice Weeks conveyed his part of the Supreme Court, Criminal Branch, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. Swann and his Chief Assistant, A. J. Talley, were in court. The District Attorney objected to the court receiving any presentment on the ground that the function of the jury was limited to reporting indictments or no indictments.

Swann Protests.

"May I note a formal objection on the record," Mr. Swann said, "to any presentment being handed up by the Extraordinary Grand Jury, and that the Extraordinary Grand Jury be directed by the judge either to hand up indictments or no indictments. In the case of the matter of Osborne, 38 Mis., it has been distinctly held by the Supreme Court that there is no such thing as a presentment in this State. And the duty of the Grand Jury is to either indict or not indict. There is no justification in law for the handling up of any presentment, especially one which criticises any one, for the reason that the person criticised has no opportunity to enter court and defend himself. If the paper that he proposes to read is going to criticise—"

"You are perfectly aware of it," said Justice Weeks. "I have just submitted it to you."

While these statements were being made the foreman of the jury, Raymond F. Almirall, holding a paper in his hand, waited with the other members of the jury for the court to direct him to proceed.

"I am thoroughly advised of it," continued District Attorney Swann, "and for that reason I am making my motion in court and ask the court not to re-

Rumania Must Sign Treaty or Be Dropped from Alliance

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The note sent by the Supreme Council to Rumania last Saturday, after praising the services rendered by Rumania during the war, recalls the difficulties which arose at the signing of the Treaty of St. Germain, according to a Berne dispatch to the Presse de Paris.

The communication adds that, in view of Rumania's unyielding attitude on the decisions of the Council, the latter is at a loss to know whether Rumania really desires to follow the allied policy. If it is her intention to follow this policy, the note says, the Council requests that she sign the Austrian Treaty immediately; otherwise Rumania will be considered as having withdrawn voluntarily from the alliance.

COAL MINERS SCORN OPERATORS' OFFER

CONFERENCE DEADLOCKED

Government May Step In Within 48 Hours Unless Agreement Is Reached.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Operators and miners of the central competitive district again failed to reach an agreement after conferences lasting several hours today, and it is reported semi-officially that unless a settlement is arrived at soon the Government will take charge of the situation and use drastic measures to break the deadlock and produce the coal necessary to the industrial life of the nation.

Today's conference ended in a serious deadlock, and while the sub-committees of the Scales Committees of the operators and miners will meet again tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, no assurance was conveyed tonight by either side that an agreement was in sight. In fact, quite the opposite viewpoint was expressed.

The first conference was started at 10 o'clock in the morning and a recess was taken at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. At this conference the operators submitted counterproposals which granted 15 cents a ton increase to pick and machine miners, and a 20 per cent. increase for day labor. The increase of 15 cents a ton, it is held by the operators, would represent an increase of 33.2 per cent. to pick miners and 35.1 per cent. to machine workers.

The operators also proposed that the new contract should extend to March 31, 1922, thus obviating the danger of another strike occurring in the Fall. They asked that supplies and tools be furnished to miners at not below cost. Other provisions were that the national organization and national officers of the United Mine Workers of America be made responsible for the enforcement of the contract, and that a uniform automatic penalty clause for strikes in violation of the contract be drawn and included in the contract.

Miners Reject Proposals.

The representatives of the miners rejected these provisions.

A recess was then taken and the conference was resumed at 4 o'clock, continuing until nearly 8 o'clock tonight. At that time the operators permitted it to be stated that in their proposals they had not only "gone the limit," but had granted more than some of their members felt should be granted.

This was vouched for by W. T. Guthrie, of the Western Pennsylvania operators, and by George B. Harrington, of the Illinois group. Mr. Harrington was asked what he expected would happen in the event the deadlock remained unbroken.

"That is a difficult question to answer," he said. "Frankly, I don't know what to tell you."

He admitted that it was apparent at the present situation could not be permitted by the Government to exist.

John L. Lewis, acting President of the Mine Workers of America, at the conclusion of tonight's conference said:

"We got nowhere. The operators offered nothing further. The proposals made this morning were preposterous and ridiculous."

He was asked if a counter-proposal had been made by the miners.

"No," he said, "the proposals made by the operators were so ridiculous that they did not justify making any counter-proposal."

He said the operators apparently were not prepared to make any concessions concerning hours of employment, and that an agreement was impossible on its present basis.

T. T. Brewster, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the central competitive field operators, said that the

FACE TRADE COMPLICATIONS

Treaty Delay Means Failure to Send Consuls to Germany.

RIGHTS IN SHIPS UNSETTLED

Protection of American Interests Before Reparations Commission Sought.

ASSAIL PEACE RESOLUTION

Supreme Court May Be Required to Pass on Constitutionality of the Lodge Measure.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Although it has not changed technically the status of relations between the United States and Germany, the Senate's failure to ratify the Peace Treaty at its special session is expected by administration officials and diplomats to have an indirect result of some importance on the steps now being taken to restore the world to a peace basis.

One of the first consequences, according to the view taken here, is likely to be the hastening of the negotiations in Paris, including promulgation of the procès verbal, which will restore full commercial and diplomatic relations between Germany and the powers which have ratified the treaty. Paris dispatches have said that this step was waiting for one thing, on the action of the Senate, but it is thought there will be no further delay now for that reason.

Once the other great powers have gone ahead with their establishment of full trade and diplomatic relations with Germany, officials say that new arrangements will have to be made by the United States to fit into the commercial scheme, has created, whatever trade the United States has with the Central powers.

At present the war arrangement by which Spain is taking care of American interests in Germany continues in force, and that is not expected to be disturbed. The rationing of supplies of various sorts to Germany must begin under the treaty terms, however, and the powerful Reparations Commission will be set up to determine all the details of Germany's commercial intercourse with other nations.

On this commission the United States will have no representation, though it is hoped to work out a plan by which this country can keep in close touch with the body's work, in order to protect American interests. The Administration officials were not prepared today to predict just what form this unofficial connection would take, nor to outline what could be accomplished by such a connection.

Sending of Consuls Waits.

The State Department is emphatic in its stand that no American Consuls can be sent into Germany until peace has been definitely established between the United States and that country, and declares that only an imperfect trade relation can be built up without the consular officers, who are in charge of the legal end of international trade.

A contrary view is held, however, by some of the Senators, who oppose ratification of the treaty. Notable in that connection is the stand taken by Senator Knox, a former Secretary of State, who holds that by the language of the treaty full commercial and diplomatic intercourse can be resumed with Germany by all of her late enemies as soon as the procès-verbal is exchanged.

Senator Fall, Republican, of New Mexico, has said repeatedly in the Senate that the United States is already trading with Germany in the full sense of the term, and that American consular agents could be installed without overstepping international law.

There seems to be little prospect that the State Department will accept such a construction, and officials there say that American trade will have to accommodate itself to the facilities of the Spanish agents in Germany until a state of peace has been defined directly between that country and the United States.

With the President's authorization of blanket licenses under the Trading with the Enemy act last July, commercial intercourse with Germany was practically freed from legal restrictions, and it continues in that situation. There are some prohibited articles, such as drugs, chemicals, and dyestuffs, but the bars are down as to most of the ordinary articles of commerce.

It is explained that this condition applies chiefly to imports from Germany, though it affects to less degree shipments from this country to Germany. It is in the import situation that the Government is chiefly concerned and for which the American Consuls in Germany are needed. Of course Germany also seeks consular representation here, though arrangements have been made to admit certain German trade agents to

Senate Action Taken Philosophically by England, But Premier Says British Alone Can't Feed Austria

LONDON, Nov. 20, (Associated Press).—Nearly all British public men are silent concerning the United States Senate's dealings with the Peace Treaty. The reason for this is that they understand Americans regard the question as an American domestic political affair, and fear that any expressions from them might give offense and be taken as attempts to influence American politics.

Lord Robert Cecil and Lieut. Gen. Jan Christian Smuts were the British sponsors for the League of Nations, and are largely responsible for the details thereof, and both have registered their disappointment at the latest turn of events, General Smuts in his appeal to America and Lord Robert Cecil in a brief speech in the House of Commons Monday. Lord Robert stands on that speech, and refers all questioners to it as being all he has to say on the subject for the present.

Premier Lloyd George, replying to questions in the House of Commons today, said he saw no hope of amelioration in the economic situation of Vienna without the help of the United States. The British had already given aid to the Viennese Government amounting to £3,500,000, but the Premier announced that Great Britain did not intend to continue to bear the greater part of the burden of the famine in that country.

It would be impossible to try to summarize public opinion. The first view reflected by the newspapers was that America had gone back on her agreement. Later advices from Washington, however, softened this feeling. American affairs generally, the relations between the President and Congress, the rule regarding a two-thirds majority, and how a concurrent resolution might bring peace with Germany are puzzling problems to the average man.

The point the Liberal papers are laying stress on is that if America keeps out of the League of Nations the world will be thrown back into the old whirlpool of competitive armaments. A question much debated is whether it will be possible to carry on the League without America, how far the American example would influence other nations which have not yet committed themselves to keep out of the League, and whether the South American Governments would follow the lead of the United States.

ALLIES GO AHEAD ON PEACE PLANS

If by Dec. 1 a Compromise Is in Sight Here There Might Be Another Wait for Us.

FRENCH BITTER TOWARD US

Many Difficult Questions Before Peace Council Confused by Failure to Ratify.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 20—France, England, and Italy have decided tentatively to put the Versailles treaty into effect on Dec. 1. This action was taken after receipt of news of the adjournment of the Senate without ratification of the treaty.

If between now and Dec. 1 word comes from Washington that the Democratic and Republican leaders have agreed on a compromise and it is probable that the Senate will ratify the treaty in the first days of December, the Allies will, in all probability, await that action.

News of the adjournment of the Senate without action on the Versailles treaty and leaving its fate in doubt was received in Paris at noon today and quickly spread through all diplomatic circles. At first it produced a feeling of uncertainty and dismay, but within a few hours the move became generally accepted as meaning that in the ten days between now and the beginning of the session the first Monday in December the leaders on both sides would get together and reach a compromise, after which a treaty ratification would be resubmitted containing reservations both sides would accept.

Up to tonight the American delegation had received no official news from Washington on the treaty, although both the French and English delegations received reports from their embassies at Washington. Lacking definite news, it is the belief of the American delegation that the treaty is not dead, but that it will be resubmitted to the Senate in December if a compromise on reservations can be reached.

American diplomats here believe a compromise will be reached, but because in some quarters the opinion is expressed that the Senate has killed the treaty the American delegation has asked the State Department if it is to continue to participate in the supreme council negotiations between now and Dec. 5, when the delegation plans to leave Paris.

It appears now there is grave danger of the Allies having to attempt to put the treaty into effect on Dec. 1 without American participation, and all chance of the United states participating in the treaty enforcement from the start is not gone if the Senate can find a compromise in the first week of December. In addition there is a desire to wait for America as long as the waiting offers any reward.

It develops today that the German Protocol Commission has entered into the negotiations with the French, English, and Italians in a highly controversial mood and are fighting the demand of the Allies that the German Government pay for the Scapa Flow fleet. The protocol must be signed before the treaty is put into effect, and there is a

LINES IN SENATE HOLD ON TREATY

Some Middle Grounders Regret Its Defeat, but Find No Progress Toward Agreement.

WANT AN END OF DEBATING

Moses Declares That Committee Will Obtain Data Which Wilson Failed to Give.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The views of Senators on the future of the Peace Treaty, as expressed today, indicated that no progress had been made toward developing a substantial movement for compromise.

Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, one of the leaders of the middle-ground group, who upbraided the Administration forces in the Senate yesterday for having failed to deal with the mild reservationists in moves for compromise, said he believed that if the Democrats would agree upon a change in the preamble the way for a compromise would be open.

"I do not know that compromises can actually be accomplished," said the Senator. "The situation is entirely mixed. Any compromise that is effected must be based upon the understanding, so far as I see, that the bulk of the majority reservations must be accepted by the minority. A change might be made in the reservation on Article X. to conform to the reservation offered by Senator Hitchcock, which would provide that the United States does not assume any obligation under that article until Congress gives assent.

"If the Administration Senators want to have the treaty ratified they must make concessions. The matter will not be fought out on the floor of the Senate, but will be done in the Foreign Relations Committee, which will report the treaty out if agreement is reached. Otherwise the treaty will remain sidetracked, or 'pocketed' by the President.

"So far as I can see, the treaty, in any event, will not come to the Senate again until the majority leaders are assured that there are sixty-four votes behind it for ratification. There would be no point in offering it again, simply to be talked upon again for six months or so, with the likelihood of the treaty again going to defeat."

Moses Talks of New Inquiry.

Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, one of the fourteen "bitter-enders" who voted against the Lodge resolution, and a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said that the treaty, unless withdrawn by the President, would remain in the committee for many months.

"The President withheld data from the committee that was greatly needed in considering the treaty," said Mr. Moses. "Before the treaty again reaches the Senate this data will be in the hands of the committee, for it intends to wait until it arrives. The committee's inquiry will be a real one and will go exhaustively into all phases of the treaty, including secret negotiations at Paris.

"Republican Senators who voted against ratification of the treaty believe that a powerful public sentiment is behind them. The American public, it is assured, do not want the treaty as it was handed to them by the President.

TREATY 'INERT,' LODGE SAYS

Republican Leader Sees No Prospect of an Agreement.

APPEAL TO PUBLIC OPINION

Wilson Puts Hope in Popular Demand—Hitchcock Says 80 Voted For Ratification.

RUMOR OF SOUNDING ALLIES

Democratic Leader Frames Mild Reservations Which He Hopes Will Win Favor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The fate of the treaty with Germany at the next session of Congress, which convenes on Dec. 1, was the subject of diverse speculation today at the Capitol. Upon the attitude of President Wilson, leaders generally agreed, the likelihood of ratification depends.

The majority forces declared that they would make no effort to hasten consideration of the treaty when the Senate reconvenes. The Republican plan, according to leaders, is to keep the treaty in the Foreign Relations Committee indefinitely, unless President Wilson, on the opening of the session, withdraws it. No indication came from the White House as to what Mr. Wilson intends to do.

Under the procedure governing treaties, the President has the option of withdrawing a treaty at any time from the consideration of the Senate. If Mr. Wilson, at the reconvening of Congress, decides to call back this treaty, he might hold it, leaders say, for an indefinite time, in the hope of compromises being effected on reservations that the President could accept.

Along with their idea of holding up the treaty, the Republican leaders were talking of trying to obtain the adoption of the concurrent resolution offered last night by Senator Lodge, declaring a state of peace between the United States and Germany, immediately upon the reconvening of Congress. Some Senators favored changing it into a joint resolution, so that the signature of the President would be necessary. Senator Lodge, it was said, would insist upon the resolution as offered.

Report Peace Will Be Sounded.

A report was current in Washington today that the President might sound out the principal allied powers for the purpose of ascertaining what reservations to the treaty would be acceptable to them. This report lacked confirmation in any responsible official quarter.

There was also a report that steps had been taken to ask the President to ascertain what reservations the other powers might accept. When Senator Hitchcock, leader of the Democratic minority in the Senate, was asked about this report tonight he said to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent:

"I don't know anything about that. It's all news to me, and impresses me as being a wild guess more than anything else."

The intimation was given at the White House that the President would have no announcement to make as to his future course respecting the treaty until Congress again convened, when it was said, he might withdraw the treaty, unless in the meantime there were indications that an agreement could be reached on ratification.

The President, it is said, counts considerably upon public opinion to change the attitude of Senators who voted against the Democratic overtures last night for compromise. Mr. Wilson believes that the country wants the treaty ratified and that Senators on getting back home will find a sense of distinct disappointment over the Senate's failure to come to an agreement.

Says 36 Voted for Ratification.

Senator Hitchcock, the minority leader, said today that it was evident that compromise must come if the treaty was to be ratified. He pointed out that sixty Senators, in the various votes last night, had voted for ratification, in one form or another, with Senator Glass taking his seat at the next session, the supporters of ratification, he said, would have sixty-one votes.

Although in the list of sixty Senators voting for ratification last night, Mr. Hitchcock went on to say, there was a appreciable number who, because of qualified acceptance of the treaty, still felt that it was time for compromise that would bring the "friends of the treaty together."

As to the fourteen irreconcilables among the Republicans and the sixteen Democrats, who voted against ratification in any form, Mr. Hitchcock declined to make any prediction. These Senators he seemed to think, would oppose the treaty to the end.

Among the middle-ground Senators the opinion was expressed by some that compromise could be effected through the elimination of the preamble, requiring acceptance of the Senate reservations by three of the four allied signatories, and a change in Article X.

touching the guarantee of territorial integrity of nations in the League of Nations, along the lines advocated early this week. Although the middle-grounders are manifestly irritated over what they call the abrupt refusal of the minority, until the last moment yesterday, to talk compromise, still they are willing, it appears, to do what they can to reach a point of agreement that will ultimately save the treaty.

Leaders in the confidence of Mr. Lodge said today that if the President did not withdraw the treaty at the beginning of the next session, the Foreign Relations Committee would endeavor to hold it up, with prolonged hearings, in an effort to keep the Senate from acting upon it. These Senators said that the committee, dominated by the radical group, would go into every phase of the treaty negotiations at Paris, calling an almost inexhaustible list of witnesses and drawing out the committee deliberations over a span of months.

The Administration forces, however, it was indicated, might block any such scheme of the majority, by insisting, on the floor of the Senate, that the treaty be brought out of committee. This they could easily accomplish if, in the meantime, the efforts for compromise with the middle-grounders were productive.

In a brief statement Senator Lodge reiterated his assertion of last night that the treaty was dead.

"The Administration Democrats killed it," said Mr. Lodge. "The treaty remains now in the Senate archives, just as I said it would be if the Administration forces voted it down. It will remain in the Senate sidetracked unless the President withdraws it. If he does that and resubmits it, the treaty will face the same fate as before unless, in the meantime, the Administration Senators agree to accept the majority program. I fail to see any symptoms of compromise."

Hitchcock Sees a Deadlock.

Senator Hitchcock challenged Mr. Lodge's insistence that the treaty had been "killed" through the votes last night by which ratification was defeated.

"I do not agree with the proposition that the treaty is dead," Mr. Hitchcock said. "To my mind, the Senate is now in a deadlock over the treaty. It voted on three distinct propositions of ratification, as follows:

"First—It voted on the Lodge resolution of ratification. Thirty-nine votes were cast for it and 56 votes against it. Later, on reconsideration, the same resolution received 41 votes to 51 votes against it.

"Second—It voted on the resolution of ratification, containing five moderate reservations, presented by me. Forty-one Senators voted for that resolution and 50 Senators voted against it. (This was the Hitchcock substitute which was overruled by the majority on a point of order.)

"Third—It voted on a resolution of unqualified ratification presented by Senator Underwood. Thirty-eight Senators voted for it and 53 Senators voted against it.

"Thus the sentiment of the Senate was sounded on three distinct propositions, no one of which could secure a majority vote, whereas a two-thirds majority is necessary.

"Summing these votes, however, and taking into account Senators who were paired, it appears that only 15 Senators voted against ratification in every form. Fourteen of these were Republicans and one was a Democrat. On the other hand, 50 Senators voted for ratification of the treaty in some form.

"In my opinion, if the President sends the treaty back to the Senate in December it will be possible out of the 50 Senators who voted for ratification in some form to find 64 Senators who will agree upon a compromise.

"By that time also Secretary of the Treasury Glass will have taken his seat as a Senator, so we will have 31 Senators who favor ratification of the treaty in some form or another.

"I realize that it will require very genuine efforts at compromise to bring this about and that concessions on both sides must be real and not merely nominal.

"Heretofore the overwhelming sentiment and pressure of this country has been in favor of ratification. From now on I believe that the sentiment of this country will be for compromise. That will be the keynote of the popular demand. Compromise and adjustment of differences are necessary not only for the resumption of normal conditions in the United States but to save international relations from chaos. In my opinion, public sentiment will not tolerate a condition in which longer delay is sure to ripen into disaster.

"It is unfortunate that in the past the eighty Senators who believe in the treaty in some form have not been able to negotiate among themselves on reservations. These reservations [illegible] together and must be freed from the dictation and influence of Senators who are opposed to the treaty in any form. Those Senators have had entirely too much voice in formulating the reservations."

Hitchcock Frames Compromise.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (Associated Press).—Senators Hitchcock and Underwood called at the White House today and although they did not see President Wilson are understood to have left for him their estimates of the possibilities of a compromise.

Tonight the Democratic leader had drawn up a new set of compromise reservations which he did not make public but which are understood to propose principally a modification of the preamble requirement in the Foreign Relations Committee draft that three of the other powers must accept affirmatively all the Senate's qualifications.

Everything indicated that the Administration had no intention of letting the treaty fight lapse, even during the interval before Dec. 1, and that there was no thought of abandoning the treaty and negotiating a new one. The general opinion seemed to be that the President, in order to get the treaty in an advantageous parliamentary position again, would probably withdraw it and then submit it again in the opening days of the new session.

As an alternate to consideration of the treaty with Germany at the beginning of the new session, it has been suggested that the treaty with Austria, which also contains the covenant of the League of Nations but does not refer to the Shantung settlement, might be submitted and pressed for ratification. That would raise in a new way many but not all of the issues involved in the fight over the German treaty, and some Senators believe that an understanding might be reached making the way easier for the latter.

Might Face League in the End.

Although it is understood that there is no present intention of attempting to negotiate a separate peace with Germany, officials have considered that as an ultimate possibility should the present treaty be definitely rejected. In that connection some officials hold that the provisions of this latter agreement already accepted as between Germany and four of the great powers, require the Berlin Government to submit to the League of Nations for approval any treaty made in future. They interpret this clause as applying to any separate treaty the United States now might propose to Germany, although of course the stipulation would not be binding on the side of this country.

PUZZLED ON LEAGUE FUTURE.

Jusserand Says No One but Wilson Knows the Outcome.

HARTFORD, Nov. 20.—Ambassador Jusserand of France was the guest today of the Connecticut Society of Colonial Dames at Wethersfield and spoke on the conference of General Washington with General Rochambeau in the Webb house in that town in 1781.

Afterward, in response to a question as to the effect of the Senate's action on the Peace Treaty, the Ambassador said:

"No one in the world but President Wilson knows what will become of the League of Nations. What England, France, Italy, and Japan will do remains to be seen and cannot be prophesied.

"All Washington is anxiously awaiting the result of the disappointing action of the Senate and its effect on Mr. Wilson. It all lies in the hands of the President."

ALLIES GO AHEAD ON PEACE PLANS

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

chance that this cannot be done before Dec. 1.

It is useless to try to hide the fact that anti-American feeling is growing in Paris. The French are becoming especially bitter, and French spokesmen today are talking of a demand for a new treaty. It may be stated that England is not favorable to negotiation for a new treaty and it is not regarded as at all feasible. Yet the demand serves to show that the state of mind of the French who declare they were persuaded to make sacrifices which now may be in vain. Without America a live force in the League of Nations with its guarantees to France, Frenchmen say France's boundary must be carried to the Rhine and safer bonds placed upon Germany. In this effervescence of feeling the English attitude of sitting tight lends stability to the situation. Englishmen are urging the other diplomats not to despair of America's final ratification of the treaty.

The American delegation, of course, is in a quandry. It doesn't know which way to turn and isn't welcome no matter where it turns.

Should the treaty go into effect without America the situation of the American troops on the Rhine will be very vague. If the Senate declares the United States at peace with Germany before America ratifies the treaty the American troops which are on the Rhine under the armistice would have to be withdrawn, it is believed here.

Washington will be asked in the next few days to make this situation clearer. Commissioner Noyes, who represents the United States on the Rhineland commission, came to Paris today to say that the German authorities had refused coal to the American army. This is believed to be the beginning of the troubles General Allen's command faces unless its status is made more definite.

If the treaty comes into effect without America, the question naturally arises as to what authority will govern American occupied territory. There will be no American on the Rhineland Governing Commission and the right of military rule will die when the treaty comes into effect.

Mr. Polk will not return until Tuesday, and M. Clemenceau also is out of Paris until that day. Therefore it is probable that, whatever the action taken at Washington means, the Supreme Council will not take official cognizance of it before next Tuesday.

While as soon as the news from Washington was received today the report spread that the Allies would immediately put the treaty into effect and leave America to follow her own lone path, it is perhaps well to go slow about accepting that view. Next Tuesday will be Nov. 25, six days before the Senate goes into session again. The Allies have now waited two months for American ratification, and if the adjournment of the Senate means a ten days' vacation to try to reach a compromise—and that appears the best opinion here—it may well be that the Allies will wait to see what happens when the new session starts.

An editorial yesterday in La Presse de Paris concerning reservations proposed by the Senate said:

"The most serious battle among all those which have followed one another in the American Senate was fought over the Monroe Doctrine and Article X. of the League covenant. Reading the text of these reservations, we can scarcely believe that any person in good faith can see an irreconcilable conflict with the purely Constitutional interpretation adopted by the American Senate."

The editorial then quotes Article X. and says:

"The American reservation opposes such an engagement on the part of America unless for each particular case Congress, which by the terms of the Constitution has sole power to declare war or employ the naval or military forces of the United States, approves the action. It seems to us, so far as we are concerned, that the reservations complement rather than oppose the provisions of the treaty. We cannot seriously believe that there would ever be found on this side of the water three or four big powers, or even one, to take offense at the American reservation to Article X. and demand that America renounce her own Constitution so far as this article is concerned.

"As far as our information goes, it seems the same with the reservation concerning Shantung and with all the other reservations.

"Passions are poor counsellors, and so are politics. We hope that those passions which have manifested themselves in the debates in the Senate can be restrained to the end that questions of parties or personalities may not finally affect the high interests of civilization."

It is assumed that this article was inspired by the French Government, which wishes to make the best of the situation which has been created.

Of an entirely different tone is the article by the editor of L'Action Française, the Royalist journal, who says:

"While France was occupied with the elections the Senate at Washington proceeded to demolish the work of Mr. Wilson and M. Tardieu. The League of Nations, upon which the Peace Treaty of Versailles was founded, received the coup de grace. The wish of the Americans is plain. The reservations voted by the Senate signify that the United States withdraws from the League. What remains of a League of Nations in which America does not take part? A shadow of shadows; silence to those who are responsible for this illusion.

"The responsibility of Mr. Wilson is heavy. Irritated by the votes of the Senate, he threatens to withdraw the treaty entirely. Does he ignore on this point his country, which has not approved such a step? Complying with the views of this Democratic dictator, our negotiators have sacrificed some essential interests of France. The League of Nations has evaporated. The Wilsonian policy is dying. Were our sacrifices all in vain?

"If the new Chamber wishes to comply with the national mandate which it has received it will occupy itself with the situation created for France by the attitude of the United States. It will demand an accounting of those who in deceiving themselves have deceived our country."

LONDON PRESS VIEWS VARY.

Regret Expressed by Some—Morning Post Applauds Defeat.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Nov. 21.—Comment in the London morning newspapers on the American Senate's treatment of the Peace Treaty varies, but all admit the seriousness of the situation.

The Daily News, discussing the prospect of the treaty being resubmitted by President Wilson, says:

"The interval between now and then will be fraught with issues momentous not merely to America, but for the world. It may be putting it too high to say as the Prime Minister said yesterday of the relief of the starvation in Europe, that without America's cooperation we are helpless, but the League of Nations with America not associated would find its power and its moral authority curtailed. With or without America the League will go forward, but it is no derogation to the dignity of the European members of the League to appeal directly to America to share with them henceforward the burdens of peace as she has shared with them for the last two years and more the burdens of war.

There is no war interval for consideration and reflection, and short though it be, it is long enough for the true will of America to assert itself, and long enough for the opposing parties in the Senate to come to agreement, perhaps on the basis of the mild reservations.

"The world will await the decision with an anxiety it need not affect to conceal."

LONDON, Friday, Nov. 21 (Associated Press).—"If this was the end we should have occasion for acute dismay, says the Express of the treaty failure. "With the withdrawal of America, the League could have small chance of survival as a preventative of war, but we do not believe the idealism which brought America into the war will allow that great republic to leave its work undone. We regret these perilous delays, but still have confidence in America and the treaty."

The Morning Post thinks that the obvious reason for the Senate objecting to the covenant of the League of Nations was that "there are in America still citizens who have robust faith in their own nation and heartfelt pride in the sovereign freedom of the United States."

"When they found their President bent on transferring their rights and independence and subordinating the United States to a committee on which their country must always be in the minority," the newspaper adds, "their pride of race and nationhood revolted."

The journal regards the attitude of the Republican party as "worthy of freemen and citizens of the great republic and a refreshing change from the international spirit which has grown sick of the native hue of British patriotism."

The Morning Post concludes its editorial by denouncing the League of Nations as "a system which contains the seeds of national destruction."

TENNESSEEANS DEMAND THAT SHIELDS RESIGN

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 20.—The Memphis Cotton Exchange today adopted resolutions disapproving the action of Senator John K. Shields in voting against ratification of the Peace Treaty without amendment.

The resolutions call on him to resign so that "the Governor of Tennessee may appoint a Senator who will more truly reflect the sentiment of the citizens of Tennessee in the December session of Congress."

DUTCH FOR LEAGUE IDEA.

Premier Says No Military Alliance with Belgium is Expected.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 19.—Jonkheer Ruijs de Beerenbruck, the Dutch Premier, told the second Chamber of Parliament today that the Government was gratified by the Chamber's attitude on the proposal of a military alliance with Belgium.

The Dutch Government, he said, adhered to the principles of the League of Nations and did not contemplate any military arrangement with another power.

The Telegraaf says that the Dutch Army is to be reduced and that the compulsory training period will be shortened from eight and one-half to six months.

WILL SIGN BULGAR TREATY

But Jugoslav Peace Delegates Tell of Exasperation Against Italy.

PARIS, Nov. 20, (Associated Press)—Conditions in Serbia are appalling and reconstruction work is proceeding with discouraging slowness, Dr. Nikenko R. Vesnitch of the Jugoslav delegation to the Peace Conference told the correspondent today. The whole trouble, he explained, lay in the crippled condition of the railroads. The Bulgarian invasion was conducted along lines of thorough devastation and resulted in not one railroad bridge being left intact in the kingdom.

Dr. Vesnitch refused to talk concerning the Adriatic question, but the lesser members of the Jugoslav delegation were outspoken in saying that the Serbian people had reached the limits of their patience.

The delegates, while dissatisfied with some clauses in the Bulgarian treaty, said they would sign it without reservations.

PRINCE PAYS VISIT TO WEST POINT

and civilian aide and escorts reached Grand Central just before 11 o'clock. His coming had been anticipated by half an hour and a large crowd had waited to cheer him as he passed through. Heavy details of police guarded the entrance he used, and a double lane of uniformed gatemen was drawn up to insure him an easy passage to his special train.

Wears His Uniform as Colonel.

He wore the blue uniform of a Colonel of the Welsh Guards. Despite his having fulfilled every item of an arduous program Wednesday, winding up with late attendance at the Reid ball, those New Yorkers who were on hand saw him looking particularly fresh and fit.

The special took him up the Hudson at a moderate clip. The trip was without incident. When the train stopped at Harmon while a steam locomotive was substituted for the electric one, the little crowds of visitors craned about the rear end of his car in the hope of catching a glimpse of him. He remained in the sitting room and they were disappointed.

Garrison, where he detrained, was ambitiously decorated, and a crowd of tiny school children, waving miniature American and British flags, tried to stand stiffly at "attention" as he passed through them, but couldn't help wriggling about a bit in their pride of sharing in the celebration.

Prince Edward exchanged broad smiles with every one of them and left them happy as he stepped aboard the ancient ferryboat, which doubtless would have been used to convey his grandfather to West Point if that earlier Prince of Wales had visited there.

Brig. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commandant of the Military Academy, awaited the Prince at the ferry slip with his staff drawn up behind him and the Academy detachment of cavalry, their sabres at salute, flanking him.

"This is indeed a pleasure, sir," the General said, as he and the Prince exchanged salutes and grasped each other's hands. The two fell into easy conversation. After they had chatted a moment the escort wheeled into column formation, and, with the visitors riding in army automobiles, started up the hill to the parade ground. Just then a distant gun started a dull booming of the twenty-one gun salute, and a flourish of trumpets came echoing from among the dull gray walls of the Academy buildings.

Gay Scene at Parade Ground.

The side of the parade ground was liberally fringed with wives, daughters and friends of the officers, and the scene as the Prince and his staff took their stations in the centre was gay. It was a brisk morning, and the gray-clad cadet columns debouched quickly from among the trees at the far side of the green campus, while the military band, in its contrastingly drab khaki uniforms, played a feverish quickstep.

There were a few quick and sharp commands, and in a twinkling this aggregation of human clockwork had resolved itself into a line of battalions stretching immobile across the field.

The band was hushed for a moment and then it blared forth with "The Star-Spangled Banner," while that nerveless line came to "Present Arms" as if some one had pulled a lever, the reviewing party came to a salute, and the civilians bared their heads. An instant later, the notes of Britain's national anthem succeeded the last sound wave of America's, and once more the tribute to flag and country held every one motionless.

Then the Prince, with General MacArthur, went stepping down to them. Inspecting platoon after platoon, buckles and buttons gleamed in the sunlight that had come to brighten the picture; the crossed white web belts that set off the cadets' Winter full dress were spotless; their rifles were equally speckless, and had Edward Albert been a young man far harder to please than he has shown himself to be, he could have found no fault.

Has Luncheon with Cadets.

The inspection over, he returned to his post, and the whole cadet corps paraded past him in review. When he had paid his respects to the colors, and had returned the salute of the last company commander, the head of the column already was disappearing among the cloisterlike buildings.

The Prince and his entourage then were taken to the mess hall where the cadets were waiting to take their places at the tables. The visitors were distributed, two to a table, among the student officers, and then the corps, with one resounding voice, thundered the cadet yell for the Prince. After that they had luncheon. At the end of the meal there was another yell for the Prince. Then, without the formality of an introduction, the Prince arose and said:

"I am very glad to have had this opportunity of visiting the military college of West Point. During the great war I had the privilege of visiting several United States divisions in France and on the Rhine. This enables me to realize how valuable the officers trained here at West Point proved to their country in the great emergency.

"Now that I have seen a parade at the college itself, I understand what a splendid tradition of military conduct and discipline the college inculcates. I am an officer of the Brigade of Guards which claims to know something of discipline and drill. So I watched your parade with a very careful eye, and I congratulate you all on the high standard of drill and discipline which you displayed.

Dwells on Willing Discipline.

"There are just two things which I always try to say to young sailors and soldiers who are kind enough to invite me to meet them. The first is about discipline. Free and willing discipline is the basis of all law and order, and is just as necessary for great nations in peace as in war. And discipline is not merely learning how to do your duty—that is only half the battle—it is learning how to do it in perfect comradeship with other men.

"Autocracies may trade on the unwilling discipline of slaves, but democracies live and must always live by the willing discipline of free men—discipline such as that of a well-trained football team.

"My other point is tradition. Remember what the splendid traditions of this college have done in the last two years. Value this tradition and this training now, for the more you value it the greater will be its worth not only to your own great nation but to all nations which have the same democratic purpose and ideals in the world.

"You cadets have a great example before you, and you can never go astray if you follow as closely as you can the men who fought and won in the great war."

The Prince ended his visit with a brief tour of the post, after which he was escorted back to the ferry. On his way to Garrison he stood outside conversing gaily with a few officers' relatives who had been presented to him.

Visits Roosevelt Grave Today.

Today the Prince will motor to Oyster Bay to place a wreath on the grave of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, after which he will be luncheon guest at the Piping Rock Club.

In the afternoon he will receive a thousand school children aboard the Renown, and in the evening he will be entertained at dinner by the Pilgrim Society. The later evening will be divided between a visit to the Hippodrome and attendance at a reception in his honor given by Rodman Wanamaker and Mrs. Wanamaker at the 7th Regiment Armory.

If he can find time in the morning he will plant an English elm tree in Central Park, as his grandfather did in 1860.

He sails tomorrow for Halifax.

PRINCE'S SHIP ILLUMINATED.

Thousands See Beautiful Spectacle on the Hudson.

Except for the shrill, wintry blasts, it seemed like July 4 along Riverside Drive last night in the vicinity of the British and American warships, which comprise the naval escort and guard of honor for the Prince of Wales.

Just as the Prince himself came ashore about 9 o'clock, thousands who had assembled along the heights in anticipation of a promised illumination of the ships saw the beautiful battle cruiser Renown, aboard which the Heir Apparent came to America, flash into a blaze of light that etched out in the surrounding darkness every inch of her exquisite lines.

A moment later a great display piece, fashioned to depict the Prince's features which have become so familiar to New Yorkers these last few days, glowed high above the water, where it was strung between the aft tunnel and the mainmast. The red and yellow lights cast a glow on the white decks, just visible where the great, invincible looking craft lay far out in the Hudson.

Not a soul could be discerned aboard, but the lights served to bring out every mast and turret, and to give the whole, massive yet graceful ship, with its softened outlines, the appearance of a man-o'-war touched with a fairy's wand.

The crowds on the shore and in the windows of tall apartments earlier had been entertained with the strains of the Renown's orchestra, while the Prince entertained at dinner aboard. The function was a merely private affair, and it was said there was no speech making. The guests were drawn largely from those who have paid courtesies to Prince Edward since he has been in New York. They included:

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Miss Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Kahn and Miss Maud Kahn, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Doubleday, Miss Elizabeth Emmett, Mr. and Mrs. John Magee, Lady Ward, Lady Allison Levison Gower, Miss K. Mackay, Col. and Mrs. H. H. Rogers and Miss Millicent Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Miss Vanderbilt, Capt. D. E. Wallace, M.C., Mrs. Joseph Leiter of Chicago; ten members of the Prince's staff, Vice-Admiral Atmorran Sinclair, Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey, K.C.M.G., D.S.O.; Major-Gen. Bethell, C.M.G., D.S.O.; Commander Dudley North, C.M.G.; Lieut.-Col. Grigg, C.M.G., D.S.O.; Major-Gen. Sir Henry Burstall, K.C.M.G., D.S.O.; Sir Godfrey Thomas, Bart., Private Secretary to the Prince; Lord Claude Hamilton and Captain, the Hon. Piers Legh.

When the dinner was over and the music had died away, those of the watching crowds who stood on the Drive and along the slopes watched the royal barge dock at the foot of Eighty-sixth Street.

Further up the river, the U. S. S. Delaware burst into light, and then the Renown, as though to show she could do better than that, began shifting the colors of her lights, so that every few seconds she displayed the beauty of her lines under a glow of another tint.

About the time the illumination had begun to pall on the spectators, sailors stationed on the long decks started sending up rockets. First a few here and there flamed skyward, and then seemingly hundreds shot into the air, to shower stars upon the gleaming water below.

While the fireworks were entertaining the onlookers the Prince himself was speeding downtown to the New Amsterdam Theatre, where he and some of the guests he had entertained occupied boxes at the Ziegfeld Follies. The curtain was held about thirty minutes, but the show was in progress and Bert Williams was in the midst of his antics when the guests arrived. The performance stopped while the orchestra played the appropriate anthem, and then there was another five minutes' delay while the audience applauded and cheered.

As on the occasion of his appearance at the Metropolitan Opera House, the Prince seemed somewhat at a loss as to just what was expected of him and though he apparently started to make acknowledgment he finally sat down without returning the greeting, evidently anxious not to delay the performance longer. He looked tired and several times leaned forward and rested his head on his hands, but after a bit he brightened and looked as if he were enjoying himself.

The Prince sat at first with Admiral Halsey and one of his State Department guards, but in a few moments Brigadier General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Lady Ward, daughter of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, entered the box, and the two men withdrew, the Prince seating himself between the women.

During the performance the Prince expressed a desire to hear sung the song, "Great Big Picture Hat," which had been recommended by Mrs. Vanderbilt. Mr. Ziegfeld was notified and Eddie Cantor included it in his program.

The Prince left the theatre through the lobby, packed with theatre goers, and the car slowly made its way through a crowd of 3,000 or more persons in Times Square who cheered his Highness. He arrived at the Eighty-sixth Street landing at 12:20 o'clock, and at once entered the royal barge to go aboard the Renown.

The staff and members of the Motor Ambulance Corps of which Colonel Helen Bastedo is the head, gave a dance on the roof of the Waldorf-Astoria last night for officers of the Renown—and the Constance—her consort, and the American warships Delaware and Columbia. Admiral Glennon and Admiral Hughes were present.

GRATEFUL TO NEW YORK.

London Times Expresses Appreciation of Reception to Prince.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The London Times, which devotes two and a half columns to a dispatch describing the Prince of Wales's visit and welcome in New York, says editorially:

"The republic which has thus done honor to the heir to the British throne sees in the Prince of Wales a representative of the living reality that lies behind, and its historic institutions.

"The crown of Edward the Confessor is of its nature conservative, both in its dignity and in its sense of its great obligations. It has also proved itself progressive in its endeavor to find an ever wider sphere for its legitimate functions. As it is a symbol of historic continuity, so also is it a symbol of imperial unity and of national ideals. A great democracy, proud and jealous of its own republican traditions, has now made the Prince of Wales the object of the spontaneous expression of its good will.

"For that tribute, the peoples of the Empire will be grateful, not merely because they desire that our American friends should understand the enduring quality of their affection for the throne, but because this tribute marks the establishment of a new bond in Anglo-American relationship."

LINES IN SENATE HOLD ON TREATY

If it is ratified it will not be done without reservations precisely along the lines of those projected by the majority."

Edge Regrets Treaty's Failure.

Senator Edge, Republican, of New Jersey, a middle-grounder, expressing regret over the failure to ratify the treaty, said:

"I consistently voted against all amendments because I have been convinced from the start that the duty of the Senate was to protect the independence and sovereignty of America by reservations, and not attempt to dictate by textual amendments the control of other nations. I always and throughout have felt that a fair and businesslike League of Nations could contribute to the world's welfare, and I regret that such a League has not been sanctioned, after proper provision for it was made through reasonable reservations.

"On the other hand, all attempts at compromise must at some time come to an end, and, after six months of continued discussion and compromise, participated in by practically all the members of the Senate on both sides and of all shades of opinion, it would seem to me the time had arrived for all real friends of the treaty to accept the result of such extended deliberations.

"It was too late to talk of further changes on the very eve of voting. The adamant disposition and unqualified statements on the part of the leaders of the minority, that the treaty must be ratified without the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 't,' which disposition was never modified—and in which program they could not hold their own party—until after six months of negotiations was not conducive to getting together.

"Perhaps there was some obstinacy on both sides, but all of the compromises that were effected, and there were many, were brought about by the sincere efforts of the friends of the treaty on the Republican side of the Chamber. Certainly there is no justification for any friend of the treaty to assume that our allies would not have accepted the treaty with the reservations adopted. We had all to gain and nothing to lose by at least submitting it to them.

"It, of course, was clearly understood that the other nations had the same right and power likewise to make reservations, and, personally, I think they should have made such reservations as would protect their domestic situations and if they felt so inclined they could have protested against some of the territorial dispositions provided in the treaty. By expressing our objections through reservations we in no way prevented those nations committed to carrying out their promises from doing so. We simply spoke for America."

Calder Says People Oppose League.

Senator Calder of New York, who voted for the Lodge resolution, said:

"The rejection of the treaty clearly demonstrates that the American people are opposed to the League of Nations in the form in which it was presented. They adhere today, as they have from the inception of the Republic, to the policy laid down by Washington and upheld by every President until Mr. Wilson's time, that the future of America can best be safeguarded by refraining from intermeddling in the affairs of Europe or permitting Europe to meddle in ours.

"This principle is so deeply imbedded in the hearts of the people of this country that they are unwilling to give their approval to this scheme of international government which many believe would ultimately lead to the destruction of the ideals for which our country has always stood.

"I voted for the treaty yesterday with the reservations which had previously been adopted by the Senate because it seemed to me that it had been sufficiently Americanized not to endanger our institutions, and because with those reservations I am willing that our country should make the trial. I am quite convinced that it will be useless for the President to submit it again unless he is willing to accept reservations fully as effective as those which his party associates defeated yesterday.

"If the treaty is not laid before the Senate again, Congress will undoubtedly pass a resolution declaring the war with Germany at an end. Personally, I would prefer that the matter be determined by a formal treaty of peace, but declaring peace by resolution is greatly to be preferred to ratification of the treaty in its present form.

"The American people need have no fear as to the future. Our country is at peace today. It will be well now to direct our attention to problems within our own country, and engage in our normal life without hesitation or fear of the future."

Expects French Treaty's Adoption.

Senator Penrose, Republican, of Pennsylvania, who acted to reject the treaty, said he did not believe the country was in any mood for delay over the treaty at the next session of Congress.

"I believe that the Senate responded to the public sentiment when it adopted the reservations to the treaty with Germany," said Mr. Penrose. "I do not believe there is any real sentiment for the League of Nations as proposed by the President.

"I cannot conceive that the Senate will act any differently on the treaty, unless the President offers compromise along the lines contained in the reservations of the majority. In my opinion the Senate will pass the Lodge resolution declaring war with Germany at an end and follow this by ratifying the treaty with France, by which the United States would go to France's aid, in the event of unprovoked attack by Germany. The country wants peace, and I do not believe that the Senate dare give any prolonged time to further discussion of the treaty with Germany.

"When the next session opens the Senate will get down to pressing legislation, such as the railroad measure and matters concerned with labor and reconstruction. Therefore, whatever is done about the treaty must be done speedily so as not to interfere with the Republican reconstruction program."

FAR TRADE COMPLICATIONS

arrange for shipments of raw material from this country.

Figures on America's trade with Germany in October have not been fully compiled, but during September the United States imported nearly $2,000,000 worth of goods from that country and sent it goods valued at $9,000,000. For the nine months ending with September the import trade totaled nearly $3,000,000, and exports about $34,000,000. This compared with pre-war exports of about $70,000,000 for a nine-month period. A further increase is to be looked for in the figures for October.

Property Rights Unsettled.

The Senate's failure to act left on the hands of the Administration a big collection of knotty problems, chief among which is the question of property rights in the German ships and other property of enemy aliens seized by the Government in this country. The State Department experts say there is no legal sanction for the retention of this property unless the treaty, which contains a provision legalizing it, is ratified.

A corollary to this problem, stands the question of what is to become of the vast American interests in Germany, especially if the technical state of war is to continue and no American consuls or diplomatic representatives are to be sent to take up the subject directly.

In Germany property questions are understood to be one of the chief objections of the Administration to the plan of Republican leaders to declare the state of war ended by a resolution of Congress. Without the treaty provisions, officials say, a state of peace would leave this country in an awkward position when it came to establish its title to the German ships and the other German interests taken over and in many cases liquidated by the Alien Property Custodian.

There is very evidence, however, that the Republican leaders in Congress, anxious to get the country to an actual peace basis so that the many war time legislative provisions may be erased and a more normal legal foundation placed under the country's trade, are going ahead with their plan of declaring peace by resolution as soon as the new Congress meets.

Supreme Court May Decide.

If the resolution is passed the constitutional authority of Congress to take such a step is sure to be questioned. In the opinion of some officials a situation will result which only the Supreme Court can untangle.

As presented by Senator Lodge, the peace resolution is a "concurrent" measure of the nature which, under Senate practice for many years, does not require the signature of the President. The Administration Senators are prepared to urge against its validity the following provision of the Constitution:

"Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill."

Under this provision the Administration Senators say that any concurrent resolution meeting with the disapproval of the Chief Executive could be vetoed or disregarded by him, and never could be repassed by a two-thirds vote. The reply of the Republicans is that the constitutional limitation applies to legislation only and that the sole right of Congress to declare war carries with it the right to declare peace.

In that situation, many officials foresee a possibility that the President and Congress may soon find themselves in a disagreement which will have to be thrown into the courts to be decided. On such a question the courts would be without precedent and it is taken for granted that only a ruling from the highest tribunal in the land would be accepted as final.

Troops to Stay at Coblenz.

It was pointed out that the effect of the Senate's failure to act would be of a negative character only with regard to the American troops in occupied portions of Germany. War Department officials said it would mean no change in the present disposition, which had been based entirely on the terms of the armistice and which did not depend in any respect on the terms of the treaty.

The Fight Against Criminals!

The vigorous pursuit of Wall Street thieves by the Police Department of the City is producing splendid results.

It has already become clear that the large thefts in the financial district, as we have all along asserted, have been the work of a well organized and extremely dangerous gang of criminals, who have been directed by a head, and who have made dupes of the brokers' messengers.

Some recoveries have been made and more are indicated, but better than all else is the probability of the arrest, punishment and dispersal of the organized band. We hope shortly to be in a position to say the menace is removed.

Messengers must be solemnly warned by their employers to avoid "traps" that may mean imprisonment or finally their own lives!!

SCOFFS AT FEAR OF GERMANY NOW

Gen. Maurice Declares That She Is Powerless to Renew Hostilities.

LACKS SUPPLIES FOR ARMY

Allies Can Obtain Reparation, He Urges, Only by Helping the Country's Recovery.

By Major Gen. Sir FREDERICK B. MAURICE.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The fiction that the German armies were not utterly and completely defeated at the end of the war has been exploded by authoritative statements made by Germans and it is hard to see what purpose is being served by reviving it now.

It is stated that Germany has today a great secret army amounting to 700,000 men, and that the German militarists are preparing for a renewal of war. Now, it is ridiculous to suppose that Germany could have prepared or be preparing secretly an army of 700,000 men. There are today scattered over the whole of Germany commissions of allied officers engaged on various tasks in connection with the enforcement of the terms of peace, the repatriation of allied prisoners of war, and the dismantlement of German munition factories. It has never been easier than it is today for the Allies to obtain accurate information of what is happening.

Secret preparations for a renewal of war, even if there is any considerable party in Germany which contemplates such madness, is, therefore, out of the question. The allied powers may be confident of obtaining early and reliable information of any military measure which may be contemplated on the other side of the Rhine.

There are reasons which make it quite impossible that the Germany of today can take any aggressive military action. The whole railway system of the country had an intense strain thrown upon it by the war and by the surrender to the Allies, under the terms of the armistice, of great quantities of rolling stock. It is not today capable of doing more than meet the bare necessities of the population during the coming Winter. It is not of the question that Germany could concentrate 700,000 men or anything approaching that number in any one area and keep them supplied with their needs.

Deterred by Danger of Starving.

Further, the food situation in Germany is such that she is living from hand to mouth, and has no margin for rationing large military forces. Any considerable military concentration in Germany today would simply mean that a great part of the population would either starve or perish from cold during the coming Winter.

There are today a number of British business men in Germany who are seeking to trade. They all tell the same story. Germany has very little to sell. She has practically no materials with which to manufacture goods for export. Germany knows perfectly well that in these circumstances she is quite helpless and that a renewal of the blockade would spell for her almost irretrievable disaster. It is, therefore, nonsense to talk of the Germany of today as possessing any real military power and as constituting a menace to the security of others.

On the other hand, the internal condition of Germany is unquestionably very serious. The junkers and the underlings of the military caste have found their occupations and their means of livelihood gone. They owed everything to the Hohenzollerns and they see in the restoration of the monarchy the one means of getting back something of what they have lost.

There is no question that they are very busy intriguing today. They are intriguing in the Baltic provinces, where bands of Prussian officers and soldiers who disregard and treat with contempt all orders sent to them from Berlin, have assembled. They are intriguing in Berlin, and the Hindenburg demonstration is an outward and visible sign of these intrigues.

The existing Government is daily losing power and influence because the problem of reconstruction in Germany is a hundred fold more difficulty than it is with us, and large numbers of Germans are today disposed to make the Government responsible for their present discontent. The militarists are obtaining recruits from many who have come to think that any change must be for the better.

Parties of Discontent Gain.

For exactly the same reason the Spartacides and the extreme Socialist Party are steadily gaining adherents, particularly in South Germany. In Saxony, Bavaria, and Baden there are many and increasing indications that revolution is in the air, and the situation is almost certain to get worse as the pinch of Winter is felt.

Those who know best what is going on today are anticipating that a reactionary rising in Prussia may break out at any time, and will be the signal for a Red rising in South Germany. Thus there is grave danger that the large area of Europe which today is in a state of chaos may be greatly extended, a condition of affairs which can only react unfavorably upon ourselves and upon the rest of the world.

If revolution does break out in Germany our chances of making Germany pay, never very bright, will almost disappear. The one means which the Allies have of obtaining from Germany their just demands is to assist by all means in their power in the establishment of a firm Government in that country and in the restoration of German industries. It is high time that the rubbish which is being talked about German dumping and about the military power of Germany ceased, and that we exercise a little plain common sense in dealing with a very serious situation.

The attitude of mind of the people who are today trying to drive Germany to extremes is that of a man who, having killed a poisonous snake, proceeds to pound it into a jelly. A nervous reaction of this kind after escape from a great danger may be excusable, but it is neither sensible nor dignified.

California Hits Pier at Launching.

VALLEJO, Cal., Nov. 20.—The superdreadnought California was launched at 11:45 A. M. today at the Mare Island Navy Yard. The brakes rigged to slacken the momentum of the big battleship as she slid from the ways failed to hold and she crashed into a pier, tearing away piling. The damage was slight and no one was injured.

GRAND JURY MOVES TO PUSH INQUIRY

ceive the communicatoin, and ask the Grand Jury not to present it."

"The request of the District Attorney that the communication of the Grand Jury be not received is denied," said Justice Weeks.

Mr. Swann said there were only two decisions of the matter of a presentment. To this the court replied:

"The two cases to which you refer are the only two cases in this department, but there is another case in the Appellate Division, Second Department, of which I must assume you are familiar, holding that under certain circumstances a presentment is authorized under law."

"I then ask that the Grand Jury reconsider," said Mr. Swann, "and shall not either read or file the alleged presentment."

The court offered the Grand Jury opportunity to reconsider, if they so desired, but this was not done. Foreman Almirall told the court that the members of the Grand Jury had voted unanimously on the communication they had to make. The foreman then read, as follows:

The Jury's Presentment.

November 20, 1919.

Justice Bartow S. Weeks, Criminal Courts Building, New York City:

Your Honor: The Extraordinary Grand Jury begs very respectfully to pronounce in open court its judgment that:

The Mayor's charges of criminal conspiracy against the officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and of the Brotherhood of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company employes to foment a strike, and against a Federal Receiver and others to intimidate a public officer, may not properly be determined at the present time nor until a thorough investigation of the origin and causes of processes of these charges shall have been made; and that the pursuit of such an investigation for the purpose of developing the facts leads into the municipal offices and the office of the District Attorney of New York County; and that in compliance with the Code of Criminal Procedure, Chapter 2, Section 250, the institution of a general investigation of the municipal offices and the departments and of the office of the District Attorney of New York County by this Extraordinary Grand Jury inspired by reasonable grounds of belief that public officials have been guilty of wilful and corrupt misconduct in office is in the public interests, and this Extraordinary Grand Jury respectfully advises the Court that such an investigation has been initiated.

The unusual and serious predicament of being deprived of proper legal counsel in the matters above referred to has impelled this body again to address a communication to the Government of the State, reviewing the situation and requesting the designation of the Attorney General of the State as legal advisor and counsel to this Grand Jury. Yours respectfully,

RAYMOND F. ALMIRALL,
Foreman.

The jury's communication to the court was entitled a "pronouncement," but the District Attorney referred to it as a presentment. When the foreman had concluded, Justice Weeks, addressing the jury, said:

Justice Weeks Gives Warning.

"Mr. Foreman and Gentlemen of the Grand Jury—The section of the criminal code to which you refer requires you to investigate any wilful or corrupt misconduct in office of public officials of every description in the county. This is really within your right and in fact is one of your duties. But in conducting such an investigation I cannot impress upon you too forcefully the language of the statute that the misconduct of a public officer must be not only wilful, but corrupt. Official misconduct either from ignorance or error of judgment, from misapprehension of law, or from misguided views of public policy do not constitute any proof of corruption, and the proof of corruption must be clear before any action under that section of the statute would be justified.

"The corruption need not, of course, be an actual monetary corruption, or, if a monetary corruption, need not be of a large amount. But in your investigation you must guard yourself with great care against doing a wrong to any person, and especially to any public official. In the course of your investigation you have had disagreements with the District Attorney, but this would not justify any suggestion that you should investigate his office under the guise of seeking for corrupt misconduct.

"The District Attorney as an individual and the members of his staff as individuals are entitled to the fairest protection even from an insinuation of corruption. They may have made mistakes, they may have been unwise in some steps they have taken, but that is not official misconduct, and in the examination affecting a public official it is of the greatest importance that the action of the Grand Jury should be without the slightest personal or political bias, and any departure from the strict enforcement of that rule can only bring discredit upon the Grand Jury.

"On the other hand, if in any of the city departments proof of corruption or misconduct is found the offender should be brought to book, and if warranted should be convicted upon the findings."

The District Attorney thanked Justice Weeks and said he would like to supplement the remarks of the court.

"The Grand Jury," he said, "like any other public body, is very apt to receive communications, anonymous or otherwise, from persons with motives, and I think it would be not out of place to suggest to your Honor this fact. The District Attorney's office is constantly receiving communications from persons, and when we investigate we find that they have some improper motives.

"The Grand Jury, on account of the secret nature of their deliberations, would be an opportunity for persons with motives to try to get them to investigate some enemy. Now, this is very interesting which I am going to speak to you about, and I hope your Honor will bear with me, because I think it is interesting. The coming year there is going to be a very momentous election. It is Presidential year."

Justice Weeks interposed with the statement: "I have already made reference that no personal or political bias should influence their deliberations."

"I do not mean to say that there is any member of the Grand Jury who would be swayed by any such condition," said the District Attorney.

"The Grand Jury would not be influenced by any such matters," Foreman Almirall remarked.

"What is the District Attorney to understand?" asked Mr. Swann. "I am perfectly willing to do whatever I can. This is an extremely embarrassing situation. I will give the Grand Jury every aid possible; they might select any one, two, or three of my assistants they want to help them entirely without me."

Court Wants Milk Inquiry.

"There is no need to discuss that," said Justice Weeks. "One thing the court would suggest, there appears to be a matter which should be presented to this Grand Jury. The matter of the Milk Trust, colloquially speaking. If that subject has been completely submitted to the Grand Jury the Grand Jury should dispose of it. If it has not been submitted completely to the Grand Jury, then the District Attorney should submit whatever he has bearing on the subject.

"This Milk Trust matter was submitted to the Grand Jury on Aug. 20, and I understood at the time that all the matters relating to it were in possession of the District Attorney and ready for presentation. It is now three months since the matter was first submitted, and the milk situation in this city is still in as critical condition as it ever was. Now, at the very first opportunity, I would suggest that that matter be finally submitted to this Grand Jury and disposed of by indictment or otherwise."

Chief Assistant District Attorney Tolley said:

"The reason was that I was directed by the Grand Jury on a certain day after we had taken some testimony on the milk inquiry, when the sessions were resumed to take up the traction matters and finish the traction matters, and while we were in the process of finishing the traction matter this Grand Jury came into court with their extraordinary statement."

"Now," Justice Weeks replied, "the suggestion of the court is—I have no absolute control over the District Attorney—the suggestion is that the milk inquiry be concluded at the earliest date."

"If the District Attorney is to exercise his option in this matter," said Mr. Swann, "I would not like to present to this Grand Jury anything except facts bearing upon corruption in the city offices or in the county offices. I do not think that anything should stand in the way of that."

"The court has already stated," observed Justice Weeks, "that in the opinion of the court the milk situation should be first disposed of. There is not very much more testimony to be taken, and that testimony should be taken."

"I think that from this presentment that has been handed up here many city officers or county officers," remarked Mr. Swann, "may be suspected of being, in the minds of the jury, as having conducted something corrupt. I am going, if your Honor please, to let nothing come before this Grand Jury to interfere with that. I want them to investigate that."

"Now, Mr. District Attorney," interjected the Justice, "if the District Attorney says what the court gathers as to the meaning of his language; if he means what the court gathers from what he says, it is an expression on the part of the District Attorney that he does not intend to submit the evidence in the milk situation to the Grand Jury until after the investigation of the traction officials is completed."

"No," said Judge Swann, "if I have my election."—

"You had your election, commented Justice Weeks, "and the court made a suggestion"—Judge Swann interrupted the court to say he would follow the suggestion, and Justice Weeks continuing, said: "And if the District Attorney would not act upon the court's suggestion it would compel the court to direct the District Attorney to proceed at the earliest possible moment with the presentation of the balance of his evidence in the milk inquiry."

This is the jury's letter to Governor Smith:

"Raymond F. Almirall, Architect, 12 East Forty-sixth Street, New York, Nov. 20, 1919.

"Hon. Alfred E. Smith, Governor, Capitol, Albany, N. Y.

"Your Excellency: I beg to acknowledge the due receipt of your letter, dated Oct. 24, 1919, inclosing a copy of a letter dated Oct. 23, 1919, addressed to you by the District Attorney of New York County.

"These letters have received the very careful and serious consideration of the Grand Jury.

"Obviously the Grand Jury is unable to present in strict legal and technical form such additional circumstances and conditions as, in its opinion, should be publicly known.

"It feels impelled to reiterate and emphasize every statement made in the foreman's letter to you of Oct. 21.

"This letter represent the consensus of opinion of the Grand Jurors, all of whom were selected only after challenge; whereas the District Attorney's letter is but his statement, in self-defense, lacking in truth and characterized by subterfuge.

"Your attention is particularly directed to the following:

"The Mayor's first charges were made in a letter to the District Attorney, dated Aug. 11, 1919. This letter and inclosures were never mentioned or brought to the attention of the Grand Jury by the District Attorney, until recently discovered, when they were called for by our body. The only letter of which the Grand Jury had previous knowledge was the Mayor's published proclamation to the Brotherhood, dated Aug. 17, 1919. The difference in these letters is that the former one charged the Receiver appointed by the Federal Court with conspiring to intimidate the Mayor, while the latter charged the conspiracy between the officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brotherhood to foment a strike; and it was this second charge alone that apparently concerned the District Attorney. This is evident from the District Attorney's statement in his letter to you, Page 1, lines 4-8:

Immediately after this Grand Jury was directed by Justice Bartow S. Weeks to consider the charge made that the officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company had conspired with its employes, known as the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Employes, to foment a strike, I proceeded to present all the evidence upon that subject which was available.

"Which statement omits reference to the charge of the Court relating to a further violation of the statutes.

"The District Attorney states, Page 2, lines 4-9:

I deny in full the statement of Mr. Almirall, made in his letter to you, that the examination of the Mayor and the editor of The New York American was in any way impeded or interfered with by the District Attorney, or that their proper examination was in any manner "evaded." The minutes of the Grand Jury disclose an entirely different state of facts.

"The Grand Jury submits that, if the District Attorney believes he states the truth, he could best have substantiated his position by offering to petition the Court to disclose these minutes, not only in regard to this particular subject, but also as they elucidate as to his conduct and the question of fares, and the Grand Jury hereby invites the District Attorney to join in its petition to the Court to this effect.

"The District Attorney states, Page 2, lines 19-27:

I did not assail or falsely criticise in open court or elsewhere the Grand Jury or any member of it. When the Grand Jury filed into court and read to the court a request to permit them to open up a general inquiry into the transit situation in Manhattan and asking that clerks, stenographers, and accountants be provided for them for that purpose, the District Attorney in open court informed the Court, in accordance with his official duty, that some of the Grand Jurors were disqualified, by reason of interest, to impartially pass upon such a question.

"The District Attorney continues, Page 2, lines 28-51:

The foreman, Raymond F. Almirall, had been in the employ of the Interborough Construction Company, 98 per cent. of whose stock was owner by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, the two companies occupying the same offices and under the same management and that the said Almirall had been on their pay roll for $500 per month for four years and had received checks in large sums from the company under investigation; that he was a near friend of certain of the company's managing officers; that he was a near neighbor at Hempstead, Long Island, where he lives, with the man who financed the subway and who was for many years the President of his social club; that the said Almirall selected as his counsel to bring an action against the city the office associate of the Receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. That Mr. Brainard, the secretary of the said Grand Jury, holds his business position as the representative of J. P. Morgan, of the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., Mr. Morgan owning approximately $800,000 of bonds which are a first lien upon the business conducted by Mr. Brainard. That Mr. Einstein, another active member of the said Grand Jury, is a Wall Street stock broker specializing in the purchase and sale of the securities of the Interborough and other traction companies under investigation. That besides the above mentioned members of the said Grand Jury, there were at least three other members who own bonds of the said Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

Says Swann Was Rebuked.

"The attempt is apparent to have you believe that the foregoing were the reasons of his challenge made in open court on Oct. 10, whereas the facts are that the District Attorney was severely rebuked by the court for illegally challenging unnamed members of this jury; and the District Attorney's statement to a large group of jurors assembled immediately after the court proceeding and before which he was called, specified but two men, the foreman and the secretary, charging the first with employing De Lancey Nicoll as his attorney, and the latter with representing J. P. Morgan & Co., in his position as President of Harper & Brothers. The foreman then stated to the District Attorney that he had never met and did not know Mr. De Lancey Nicoll, and the secretary stated that he did not represent J. P. Morgan & Co. in his position with Harper & Brothers, and that his only connection with the Morgan firm was that the Morgan family owned bonds of Harper & Brothers, securing a personal loan of the late J. P. Morgan made many years ago.

"As to the reasons subsequently formulated by the District Attorney and appearing as above in his letter to you, the foreman states that John B. McDonald, contractor, was given full authority by the Rapid Transit Construction Company to appoint three experts, and designated me among them in January, 1904, at a salary of $6,000 a year, to supervise, inspect, and report on structures in probable zone of movement, by reason of the construction of subway between City Hall, Manhattan, and the Long Island Railroad Terminal, Brooklyn. This committee's office force consisted at times of six engineers or draftsmen, two stenographers, one clerk, which expenses, including rent, telephone, &c., were all volunteered, and for the full term of three years amounted to $11,142.80. The full cost of the supervision, inspection, and report was approximately 35 cents per lineal foot of frontage of mouth. The company has never paid any damages. My work was finished in 1907. I am not acquainted with the managing officer to whom reference is made. The attorney who is in charge of collecting some of my bills, voluntarily wrote the District Attorney on Oct. 24, as follows:

"'In the morning papers I have read your letter to Governor Smith, and write to call your attention to a serious misstatement of fact which it contains. You say that Mr. Almirall selected as his counsel in a certain action an associate of the receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, your object being, of course, to infer that there exists some connection between the foreman of the Special Grand Jury and the receiver. Had you taken the trouble before you made this inaccurate and unfair statement to learn the date of the said action, you would have found that it was instituted on June 20, 1916, which was over two years before Mr. Olney was appointed receiver, and, therefore, there exist no ground for your statement.'

Statement by Einstein.

"The Mr. Einstein referred to by him, states that:

On Jan. 5, 1917, I purchased three $1,000 bonds of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, 5s, due 1966. Since that date, and as far as my records show previously (a period of at least six to eight years), I have not personally had any commitments whatsoever, in any Interborough securities of any description up to and including today, other than the above purchase. * * * That at no time have we by public announcement or advertisement, or in any manner whatsoever, classified ourselves as "specialists" in traction securities, nor have we solicited any business in said securities as such. Further * * * we are not professionally known as "traction specialists," but as "outside or unlisted brokers" only, would state here in that to my best recollection and that of our clerks, that if I were to specify in detail each individual transaction that we may have had in traction securities, as brokers purely, such total for a period of at least five years, would not number one dozen.

"The preceding statements prove conclusively that the District Attorney had not obtained evidence of the facts upon which he based his charge of unfitness.

"The District Attorney states on page 2, lines 52-56:

As soon as the District Attorney obtained evidence of the facts which precluded in his opinion a fair and impartial inquiry, he requested that the Grand Jury confine itself to the inquiries as to criminal anarchy for which it had been originally impaneled.

"It must be manifest from the foregoing statement that the District Attorney had not obtained evidence of the facts, inasmuch as his allegations were not facts; and, therefore, that there was absolutely no justification whatsoever for his insistent request to the Grand Jury that the Grand Jury allow him to withdraw the case from the further consideration of this body, thus usurping a function limited to the court itself.

The District Attorney became convinced that the ultimate purpose of certain members of the Grand Jury was to pervert the true functions of the Grand Jury and aid the traction interests in their endeavors to procure the payment of an 8-cent fare. This became manifest as soon as they made their request upon the court to permit them to inaugurate an investigation of the entire and complete transit situation; accompanied by the request that they be supplied with clerks, stenographers, and accountants. The necessary and unavoidable conclusion from their request for accountants, together with their suggestion as to the high cost of materials and labor now being paid by the company, was that they were seeking an opportunity to go into the financial status of the company for the purpose of recommending to the public the necessity of an 8-cent fare. I deem it my official duty not to sanction without protest the use of the prestige of the Grand Jury for the advancement of private business ends.

Calls Statement Wholly False.

"This statement of the District Attorney is wholly false and absolutely without warrant from anything that transpired in the proceedings or otherwise. There has at no time been apparent the slightest indication that any Grand Juror did not fully understand his exact duties, or that he thought for a moment it was within his province to determine anything in relation to fares. The sole purpose of this body is to investigate and consider evidence of crime, without fear or favor, including wilful and corrupt misconduct in office of public officials.

"Summarizing the situation, your attention is respectfully directed to the report made in 1917 by the Hon. George L. Ingraham, Special Commissioner, in regard to District Attorney Edward Swann; to the fact that the District Attorney did not present all the testimony in connection with the court's full charge, and that what he did present was done neither properly, expediently, nor without bias; to his misrepresentation of this Grand Jury and the misstating of its position; to his attempt to mislead and prejudice your Excellency and the public as well as this body; and, to the final consideration, that pursuant to the Code of Criminal Procedure, Chapter 2, Section 250, this body has instituted an investigation of the municipal offices and of the office of the District Attorney of New York County.

"In order that this body may properly fulfill its sworn duty, it may not be longer deprived of competent legal advice and counsel without obstructing justice by actually estopping it in the exercise of its vital and mandatory functions.

"In view of these further and additional compelling reasons, the Extraordinary Grand Jury begs to request that you designate as its legal advisor and counsel, the Attorney General of this State.

"I am, with great respect, faithfully yours,

"RAYMOND F. ALMIRALL,
Foreman."

The investigation conducted by former Supreme Court Justice George L. Ingraham, referred to in Mr. Almiral's letter, concerned the prosecution of indictments arising out of labor disturbances. The original charges in the matter were filed against District Attorney Swann by James A. Delehanty, at that time a Judge of General Sessions, and by the City Club of New York, alleging misconduct in office and incompetency, neglect and violation of law in that the prosecutor filed with the Court of General Sessions misleading and false recommendations for the discharge of bail of certain defendants. The District Attorney was also charged with misconduct in that it was alleged that he attempted to coerce and intimidate a witness, Lucien S. Breckinridge, at one time an Assistant District Attorney, whose testimony would be material in any inquiry into the District Attorney's conduct.

Commissioner Ingraham found that these charges had not been sustained and that they should be dismissed, which was done. He criticised, however, the methods of handling witnesses.

"Every one of these witnesses who was willing to meet the views of the District Attorney and his assistants," the report set forth, "was discharged, but one who insisted that his testimony was true was detained in prison, subject to a conviction and long term of imprisonment. From this evidence, as it stands, the conclusion is irresistible that if Judge Delehanty had not filed the memorandum that he did, and if formal charges had not been presented against the District Attorney there would have been no further investigation and no indictments for perjury."

Statement by Swann.

District Attorney Swann last night made this statement in regard to the pronouncement of the jury:

"The Grand Jury has made a public statement containing reflections upon public officials in the City of New York. The making of this statement is wholly beyond the scope of their jurisdiction and is wholly without warrant of law. If this Grand Jury has any evidence of the commission of a crime by a public official or any one else it is their duty to find indictments. The law and their oath as jurors require it. They have no right by innuendo to attack any one. Judge Goff, in striking from the records of the court a similar document in the 'matter of Osborne,' aptly said:

"'The powers and duties of a Grand Jury are defined by law. No matter how respectable or eminent citizens may be who comprise a Grand Jury they are not above the law, and the people have not delegated to them arbitrary or plenary powers to do that, under an ancient form which they have not a legal right to do.

"'There is not a line of evidence to support any suggestion of misconduct on the part of any one connected with the District Attorney's office. If the Grand Jury has any evidence of criminal wrongdoing on the part of any one, it is, as the Grand Jury well knows, its duty to find an indictment or indictments. The mere fact that the publication of this document took the form of having the foreman read to Judge Weeks in the court room does not alter the fact that the publication of it was illegal and improper. Their power to inquire does not give them a license to defame. They cannot, to serve private ends of their own or others, make public defamatory statements of an extra-judicial character. When they do, it is they, and not those who are the objects of their unlawful attacks, who bring the law into disrepute.

"'If the usefulness and efficiency of that body called the Grand Jury is to be preserved, its members should confine their activities to the exercise of their lawful functions and duties—the investigation of criminal charges and the filing of indictments if warranted by evidence, and the dismissal of such charges if not warranted by evidence.

"'If the Grand Jury find any indictments on legal evidence, they well know that such indictments will be prosecuted by me, as District Attorney, with all the power at my command. They should not make public statements, by whatsoever name they may choose to call them, which are in effect gratuitous insults to public officials in general. I repeat that the whole power of my office is at the disposal of the Grand Jury to aid them in the performance of their lawful duties. I will not aid them to serve private or political ends or selfish interests. If they have evidence of crime I will assist them to develop it to the fullest extent no matter who or what the criminals are. That is my sworn duty and I shall now and in the future, as in the past, perform it without fear or favor."

WALL STREET CALM OVER TREATY ACTION

Bankers Look for Still Lower Prices in Foreign Exchange—Sterling $3.98½ Yesterday.

Wall Street and the general financial community were surprisingly calm yesterday in face of the defeat of the Peace Treaty and the prospects of several months' more delay before a final conclusion of the war. The stock market, the cotton market and the market for foreign exchange all displayed weakness at the start. Stock prices were down 1 to 5 points at the outset, cotton was ¼ to ¾ of a cent a pound lower than at Wednesday's close, and sterling exchange opened at the extreme low for all time of $3.98½ to the pound, as compared with the closing price Wednesday of $4.01½.

Within less than an hour all the markets had begun to recover, and from then throughout the day the recovery was steady, although not unusually rapid. There were no signs of uneasiness and no outstanding apprehension over the defeat of the treaty, in either market or banking circles. On the contrary, many leading bankers who have taken the attitude that it was vitally important to have a ratified treaty, at almost any cost, were not at all cast down over the action of the Senate Wednesday night.

Those who felt most keenly the defeat of the treaty and the probable extended delay in getting some sort of treaty ratified were the bankers most concerned with financing foreign trade. These men were inclined to lament the inability of the factions in the Senate to come to a compromise because of the retarding effect it will have on putting a comprehensive foreign finance program in operation.

Even here the disappointment was somewhat tempered by knowledge that the market for all kinds of investment securities, both domestic and foreign, had become decidedly listless. For some time it had been realized that it would be virtually impossible to market any great quantity of either direct obligations of foreign Governments or debentures of any American corporation designed to help the foreign trade situation. Under the circumstances the failure of the treaty was not considered such a severe blow.

In most places it was felt the failure of the treaty will have little influence on the course of the securities market in the next few months. If the foreign trade situation becomes deadlocked, if overproduction of American goods results and prices for goods and commodities begin to fall, then bankers believe the influence will be felt in the securities market. But if some other way is found to finance Europe's needs, as it is believed likely there will be, then it is said the Senate's action will have had little or no effect on the market.

As for the foreign exchange market, bankers almost as a unit look for lower prices. The delay before another treaty can be written or the old one revived is likely to put additional barriers in the way of foreign applicants for credit here, it was said, and without recourse to American credit, foreign buyers will be driven into the foreign exchange market in constantly increasing volume. The pressure of bills thus exercised is expected to force prices considerably lower than they are even now.

COMMITTEE TAKES UP COURT HOUSE PLANS

The plan for building a new court house took definite shape yesterday at a meeting in the County Court House of the Justices of the various parts of the Supreme Court, Controller Craig, representing the Board of Estimate, and Guy Lowell, the architect who drew the plans for the circular court house that was at one time projected to occupy the land that has been cleared directly north of the Municipal Building. Justice Robert F. Wagner was chosen Chairman of a Committee to consider the plan and report upon it later.

Mr. Lowell presented plans for the new building. After the meeting one of those who had attended it said that while the plans agreed upon presented so many divergencies from the "Colosseum like" plan of former days that it might best be described as a new one, there could be no doubt that the hexagonal building would be monumental in character and a worthy addition to the city's public buildings. The new building will cost $6,000,000 and it will be completed in about two years.

Y. M. C. A. DEFEATS DECENTRALIZATION

Attempts Fail at Detroit to Have Regional Bodies Select Own Members.

OCCUPATION MEN OBJECT

Dr. Galloway Says That Ousting of White Slavery Won't Solve Sex Problems.

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 20.—Attempts to establish control of the Young Men's Christian Association met with defeat in today's session of the fortieth convention of the organization.

The test came on the question of the constitution of the so-called Regional Committees into whose hands it is proposed by the Committee on the "Occupation of the Field," whose report was submitted to the convention, to assume some of the work of planning and administration heretofore done by the International Committee in New York. Delegates who spoke professed concern lest these committees be hand picked by those in control of the International Committee, and proposed various amendments designed to place the power of selecting their own representatives in the hands of the regional organization. To these proposals the members of the Committee on "the Occupation of Field" offered determined opposition.

The report of the Committee on Prayer was submitted and was passed also almost without question or amendment. President Brown of Vanderbilt University made an address in which he appealed to the "Y" workers to pledge themselves to make the 1,000,000 young men under their direction "greatest agencies for the kingdom of God."

Not a single sex problem will be solved by the elimination of white slavery or sex disease or both, according to views advanced today by Dr. T. W. Galloway, associate director of the sex hygiene department of the Y. M. C. A., before a sectional meeting of the international convention. Industrial injustice and perversion of sex impulses are the two biggest elements, he contended, which the world today must correct.

The Army and Navy Section heard Commander Claude B. Mayo, Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, and Lieut. Col. Jason C. Joy, U. S. A., officer in charge of the Camp Activities Section of the Educational and Recreation Branch of the War Plans Division, War Department.

Enlarged

It is pleasant, isn't it, to see a picture of "Her" or "You" or "Her and You" that brings out all the character of a face—that makes a moustache look like a moustache and not like a shadow—that is large enough to be "just right." And you will be pleasantly surprised at the possibilities of this or that snap-shot if you have it enlarged

For enlarging a photograph brings out details otherwise overlooked and artistic enlarging leaves out details that should be overlooked. But, speaking of enlarging, be sure not to overlook the sale of "Sepia de Luxe" enlargements at 54c that would regularly be 74c.—Several weeks ago we held the first sale of this kind for a year. So many people took advantage of this sale that for the benefit of those who missed the announcement we are staging an encore!

We will make from your negative an 8x10 inch Sepia de Luxe enlargement mounted on our special triple border. We regularly charge 74c for this service, which is the lowest-in-the-city price. Now, for this sale, the cost is twenty cents less. The savings will amount to quite an item if you have several enlargements made. We also make copies from prints or photographs. This incurs an extra charge of 49c. You have until Saturday November 29th, to take advantage of this offer.

COURT ORDERS HALT IN COLORADO TIEUP

Miners' Leaders Restrained from Putting Into Effect Order for Strike.

WAS TO BEGIN TODAY

Called Because All of the Striking Miners Were Not Reinstated by the Operators.

DENVER, Nov. 20.—A restraining order preventing the strike called for tomorrow morning of Colorado coal miners was issued here tonight by District Judge Frank J. Morley. George O. Johnson, District President; H. C. Stewart, Secretary, and other officials are restrained from putting the strike into effect.

The order was issued at the request of Victor E. Keyes, State Attorney General, just before 6 o'clock. Within five days the Attorney General will ask for a temporary injunction, he announced. The State Industrial Commission law, requiring thirty days' notice of a strike, was the basis for the request of the Attorney General.

The strike was called by George O. Johnson, District President of the United Mine Workers of America, because of allegations that not all the striking miners had been taken back to work. The chief grievance of the miners was with the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, largest producer in the State, which announced recently that all men would be taken back except those active in promoting the recent strike. Men re-employed by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company were required to sign an agreement to settle all grievances solely through the Rockefeller industrial plan.

Company officials said that union men were not refused employment because of union affiliations, but because of alleged connections with the Industrial Workers of the World.

HARDING WOULD RUN MINES.

Iowa Governor Asks Executives of Other States to Meet on Situation.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 20.—Governor W. L. Harding sent messages today to Governors of other coal producing States, suggesting a conference at which the question of concerted action toward resumption of mining under State control be discussed.

While the Governor was preparing his messages reports received here indicated that the limited supply of fuel in the State was diminishing rapidly.

In Des Moines decision was reached to close the schools again tomorrow for an indefinite period. All unnecessary street lights will be out tonight.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Nov. 20.—Governor Sproul tonight made public the following telegram to Governor Harding of Iowa:

"Conditions here are not so critical as you describe. A large proportion of our miners are now working. I would hesitate a long time before I would make a scale such as you suggest. It would establish a very high price for coal and a great burden upon consumers probably for all time and would undoubtedly complicate conditions in the Washington conference and probably work great hardship.

COLLEGE WILL STRIKE.

F. and M. Students to Quit, Following Court Hearing on Hazing.

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 20.—Seventeen members of the sophomore class of Franklin and Marshall College, charged with hazing Charles Duttenhoffer, a freshman, a week ago, were held for court at a hearing before a local magistrate tonight. Twenty men were under arrest, but Duttenhoffer was unable to identify three of his alleged assailants. The seventeen men were each put under $200 bail.

Late this afternoon the entire student body voted unanimously to strike tomorrow. Pickets will be placed around the school grounds to prevent students from attending classes until the fifteen suspended students are reinstated.

Another development late today was the decision by members of the F. and M. football team to strike. It is probable that the annual letter game with Gettysburg will be called off because of the strike.

THE DAIRY MAID

Milk, butter and eggs are called dairy products because in the early English days the maid who cared for these products was called "dey," and her department the "dey-ry".

Originally CHILDS restaurants were called "Dairy Restaurants" because they specialized in milk, butter and eggs.

Today, although their cuisine is far more extensive, they still specialize in these all-important dairy products.

In quality and freshness they are unsurpassed.

o'clock, I was attacked in my own home in this city by five armed rebels, who had been able to get into my house during the evening and had disposed of the watchman by overpowering him and tying him securely, and then took advantage of finding me out in the yard to overpower me as well.

"My house is situated in the southern part of this city, Puebla, a large manufacturing town of about 125,000 inhabitants, and I have my home on the same block as my cotton factory, both of them occupying the entire block. There is direct connection between my residence and the factory, both of them opening on the same patio, or yard. I am only a few minutes distant, however, from the heart of the city. The United States Consular office is located in my own office, as I am and have been the Consular representative here for a number of years.

"Upon being attacked by these men I was told that if I made any outcry whatever or attempted the least resistance whatever I would be killed immediately, and, not being armed in any way, and realizing that the odds were entirely against me, I was forced to submit, thinking that it was a case of robbery only. I was searched for any weapon, but had none, and had my hands tied firmly together and then was forced to go to the office, where the two safes were completely emptied of all money, amounting to a few hundred pesos more than 50,000.

Purpose of the Kidnappers.

"When the safes had been rifled, two of the men were sent forward with the money and the other three advised me that I would have to accompany them. This was my first intimation that I was to be kidnapped, and I made every possible plea to dissuade them from their purpose, but I was informed that it was their principal object to carry me away, to demonstrate that the present Government of Mexico was not able to give guarantees, not even in the second city of the country, as these rebels are violently opposed to the present Government of Carranza.

"Seeing the futility of argument with them, I requested permission to speak to my wife, who was still in the house and knew nothing of what was going on, and they reluctantly allowed me to call her, and she came to add her pleas to my own, but to no avail. They repeated to her what they had told me, that they had nothing against me, nor against my Government, but it was necessary to carry me off to show how powerless the actual Government of Mexico was, and also to make it pay a ransom of 300,000 pesos in gold for my release."

Mr. Jenkins then tells how he was carried off to the mountains and held a week without shelter. He became ill with rheumatism.

"As a matter of fact," the letter says, "I was in such a shape that I think that I would have died in a few more days. My friends were very active during this week, but it took several days to get in contact with the particular band of rebels that held me prisoner, due to the fact that the man who held me did not want it known to the other rebels who have their strongholds in these mountains, as he did not want to have to divide up with them. And due to this delay, it was on Saturday that my friends finally managed to get in direct contact with my captor. He absolutely refused to give me up except through the payment of the entire sum of 300,000 pesos, but it was pointed out to him that my physical condition was such that I would live only a few days, and once dead I would not be ransomed at all; the extraordinarily large sum that he demanded was difficult to get up in a day and on account of its bulk and weight it was difficult to transport, the weight being nearly 700 pounds, and that the Government of the State would surely prevent it being sent to him.

"In view of these circumstances, it was finally agreed between him and my friends that he be paid a certain amount in cash, and the balance would be paid as he demanded it, up to the complete amount of 300,000 pesos. This agreement was approved by Mr. Hanna, the Secretary of the embassy at Mexico City, who had come down to Puebla to assist in the matter, and who rendered the most valuable assistance at all times. On Sunday the sum of 50,000 pesos was paid in cash, and five of my intimate friends here responded with their lives for the payment of the balance, and I myself promised to complete the payment as demanded. My friends were forced to sign a document to that effect, and upon the delivery of this document and the cash payment I was released on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 26.

"The Mexican Government has officially published its reply to a note from our Government, in which it is clearly stated that it will under no condition accept the responsibility of the payment of this ransom, and therefore my only hope for assistance is with my own Government.

"Representative Davis will remain in Washington during the congressional recess to co-operate with the State Department in an effort to safeguard the interests of Mr. Jenkins. Mr. Davis declared that if the diplomatic efforts of the State Department should fail to produce satisfactory results he would introduce a resolution in the House immediately after the House reassembled in December demanding reparation and satisfaction from the Carranza Government.

EMBASSY SENDS SECRETARY.

Hanna at Puebla with Jenkins—Note Not Yet Received.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20. (Associated Press.)—William O. Jenkins, the American Consular Agent at Puebla, spent Thursday in the penitentiary, where he held a long conference with Matthew E. Hanna, Secretary of the American Embassy in Mexico. Mr. Hanna has gone to Puebla to keep the Embassy advised as to the developments of the case.

The American Embassy here announced tonight that the State Department's note of warning to Mexico had not been received up to a late hour. It was said, however, that Embassy officials have been in conference with the Mexican Foreign Relations Department several times during the week concerning the case of Mr. Jenkins.

ANGELES TRIAL TODAY.

Court-Martial at Chihuahua City to Decide General's Fate.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20.—Felipe Angeles, Chief Lieutenant of Francisco Villa, who was captured near Parral, will be tried by court-martial in Chihuahua City on Friday.

Reports received here are to the effect that Angeles and ten of his men were surrounded by a Federal force under General Gabino Sandoval and that the Villa lieutenant surrendered only after five of his men had been killed.

The Government today distributed 10,000 pesos among the captors of Angeles as a reward for running him to earth.

proposals were considered a great concession by the operators and that the increases proposed, with those which had been granted since 1913, brought the wage increases considerably above the increase in living costs.

The operators hold that the increase proposed will amount to about $170,000,000 in wages to the miners. This they hold, would mean that the price of coal at the mouth of the mine would be increased from 35 to 40 cents a ton. The actual profit made by the operators is now so low, they contend, that the increase could not be borne by them, but must be paid by the purchaser of the coal. As to how Fuel Administrator Garfield will view this the operators say they have no information.

Firm Against Six-Hour Day

In making their proposal to the miners the operators waived the stand they had taken that the present contract must be observed until it ended with the formal proclamation of peace. But on the question of the six-hour day they remained firm. They contended that to grant such a demand at this time would be to invite similar demands by other branches of labor, a situation which could not but result in chaos.

It is possible that the Government may call upon the disputants to submit to immediate arbitration, with the miners returning to their work in the meantime. The present indications are that this course would not serve the purpose unless the officials of the union miners were able to give assurance that they could get the men back in the mines without delay and begin production of coal.

That a critical stage in negotiations had been reached was evidenced today by the fact that both sides were apparently more anxious to get the particulars concerning their claims before the public. Up to today there has been no such disposition shown, and while the private conferences were on there was scant consideration given to the public's very vital interest in the situation.

CHICAGO HAS 10-DAY SUPPLY.

City Faces Crisis Unless Coal Operations Resume at Once.

Special to the New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—A thorough investigation of the fuel situation in Chicago discloses that within ten days 40 per cent. of the city's apartment buildings, thousands of residences and a great number of business and public utility plants in Chicago will be entirely out of coal. Of the remaining apartment buildings, few have enough of a reserve to last beyond Jan. 1, according to Louis T. Orr, Chairman of the Coal Committee of the Chicago Real Estate Board.

"The mines must be put in operation at full capacity in order to avoid greater distress, suffering, and property loss than this city underwent as a result of the Chicago fire," said Mr. Orr.

A number of large Chicago business firms have been caught by the fuel shortage and are searching frantically for a coal substitute. Many are following the experiment of the Manhattan Building, a big office structure on Dearborn Street, and are burning crude oil. The Hyde Park Hotel is adapting a number of its boilers in anticipation of the continuation of the strike. The Schulize Baking Company is experimenting with liquid fuel in one of its large bakeries. The Western Union Building management is contemplating a similar change.

MORE QUIT IN WEST VIRGINIA.

New Strike in New River District Closes Several Coal Mines.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 20.—While the situation in the Kanawha coal fields is gradually improving, the New River mining district is being swept by a new strike of miners. Ninety-five per cent. of the mines are operating in the Kanawha fields, according to a statement issued by the Kanawha Coal Operators' Association. The working force at these mines, it was said, was about 80 per cent. of normal.

The mines at Kayford and Whitesville did not resume operations as union leaders had predicted.

CUT SHIPMENTS TO NEW YORK.

Dock Officials Assert Coal for Two Days Goes to West and Canada.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Nov. 20.—The shipment of tidewater coal in the Port of New York will be reduced by more than half of the present output during the next week, it was learned today at the Pennsylvania Railroad coal dock at South Amboy, where from 300 to 350 cars of soft coal are dumped to barges and shipped away each day.

This condition is brought about by the fact that for a period of two days all coal mined is to be shipped to the West and to Canada.

At present, according to officials on the docks, there are about 1,500 cars of soft coal in the New York district, that is, between this city and New York, each day.

TO GIVE IMPERATOR BACK TO BRITAIN

Shipping Board Officials Intimate That Dispute Will Be So Settled at Once.

HOLD UP SEVEN OTHER SHIPS

Those Wait on Action on American-Owned Tankers Held by Supreme Council.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Settlement of the controversy over the disposition of the German liner Imperator was indicated tonight by Shipping Board officials, who intimated that the ship would be tendered immediately to Great Britain.

Action with regard to the seven other German steamers in the same status had not been determined, it was said. It will depend, it was indicated, on final disposition of the tankers under the German flag but American owned, now held in the Firth of Forth by direction of the Supreme Council.

The Imperator and the seven other ships were allocated to the United States after the armistice to transport American troops from overseas. Great Britain had expected to obtain them when they had completed this service, and the Cunard Line had made all arrangements for placing the Imperator in the New York-Southampton passenger service.

When the War Department had finished with the ships it turned them over to the Shipping Board, which refused to surrender them to the British Ministry of shipping at New York. While officials made no explanation, the general understanding was that this action resulted from the decision of the Allied Naval Armistice Commission ordering American-owned tank steamers of German registry to be delivered at the Firth of Forth for allocation to Great Britain, France, Italy, and Belgium.

Recently the Supreme Council at Paris directed that the tankers be held in British waters under the guardianship of Great Britain until a decision as to their final disposition had been reached. President Wilson recently took up the matter.

HOSPITAL FUND $301,530.

Yesterday's Contributions $56,937—Form $1,000 Minimum Club.

The $56,937 contribution reported yesterday brought the United Hospital Fund to a total of $301,530.25. This is barely more than one-quarter of the sum needed. Three-quarters of a million dollars must be raised before Monday night to enable the nonmunicipal hospitals of the city to give the necessary free treatment.

The Industrial Committee yesterday organized a "$1,000 Minimum Club." The committee said they had positive information of at least 500 men and firms who ought to contribute at least $1,000.

Charter members of the "$1,000 Minimum Club" of the Industrial Committee are E. H. Outerbridge, Joseph Emery, Julius Keyser, Passavant & Co., Auffmordt & Co., Theodore F. Whitmarsh, the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, William Skinner, Deering, Milliken & Co., the Cuban-American Sugar Company, and the National Biscuit Company.

Call for Relief Workers.

A call for men to serve in a unit of expert relief and welfare workers to aid in the rehabilitation of the Jews in Poland was issued yesterday by the Joint Distribution Committee. Applications will be received at the office of the committee, 20 Exchange Place.

TRAIN ROBBER WIRES HIS THANKS TO ROAD

Carlisle, Who Robbed Limited, Steps into Station at Casper, Wyo., and Sends Message.

SAYS "SOME DETECTIVES"

Is Recognized by the Manager, but Pays for His Telegram and Gets Away.

CASPER, Wyo., Nov. 20.—William Carlisle, train bandit, walked into the Western Union office here today, while scores of heavily armed men searched the surrounding country for him, and sent a telegram to the Union Pacific Railroad office in Cheyenne, thanking the railroad for the money he secured from passengers on the Los Angeles limited train which he held up near Medicine Bow Tuesday night. The message read:

Union Pacific, Cheyenne:
Thanks for haul on your limited. Some detective force! CARLISLE.

Carlisle was dressed in a soldier's uniform, according to the Western Union officials.

As he entered the office and walked to a desk to write the message Carlisle was noticed by R. K. Forbes, manager of the telegraph office, who recognized him from his published photographs.

"There's Carlisle," Forbes said to a clerk.

Carlisle apparently heard the remark, and dropping his head, finished the message. He walked to the counter, laid the telegram down and departed. When the counter clerk picked up the message she found a half dollar upon it to cover the tolls.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 20.—Soldiers, trappers, sheriffs, detectives all were searching the country around Casper for William Carlisle, the bandit.

Tonight the police agents of the Union Pacific are nervous. They do not hesitate in expressing the opinion that the next time they hear from Carlisle it may be in the form of a notification that another passenger train has been robbed. There are three Union Pacific trains in succession.

Will Review Mine Sweepers Here.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Back from the hazardous task of cleaning up more than 50,000 mines planted in the North Sea, 22 mine sweepers, which arrived at New York yesterday and today, will be reviewed by Secretary Daniels in the North River Monday. In addition to the fleet of mine sweepers, the detachment consists of the Blackhawk, flagship the Panther, two tenders, and twenty-one sub-chasers.

CHILD ON TRIAL FOR KILLING.

Girl of 13 Accused of Poisoning Baby for Revenge.

Frances Sullasky, the 13-year-old girl charged with killing Solomon Kramer, 14 months old of 589 Georgia Avenue, Brooklyn, was put on trial yesterday before Justice Samuel D. Levy, in the Children's Court, in that borough.

Medical Examiner Edward F. Martin testified that death was caused by lysol poisoning and Dr. Alexander O. Gettler of the Medical Examiner's Office told of an analysis of the stomach of the dead child. Detective Frank A. Doherty related a confession which he said the girl made to him in which she admitted giving the poison to the baby to get revenge on Brandel Nussbaum the baby's aged nurse. The trial will be continued today.

ARE YOU

One of the 700,000 Americans Who Say "I'd Like to Own the Britannica But—"

HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW?

This question decides your rating in the world in which you live. It gets you position and promotion. It fixes your salary. It extends or limits your influence with others. It determines the number and kind of friends you have. It achieves or halts your ambitions.

This is equally true of men and women, always of men and far more today of women than ever before, as they have been required to take the places, on account of the war, alongside of men in the industries.

"Knowledge is power"—that is, accurate, practical, usable knowledge. Ignorance is a millstone which holds men and women in the below-the-average class.

The Road to Success Lies Right Before You

Think it over. Ask yourself, "How much do I know?" "Do I know all I can know?"

When you have answered these questions, when you come face to face with the truth that only the lack of easily obtainable knowledge holds you back; THEN ACT.

Make yourself more intelligent—grow. Own a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica, the greatest educational factor ever put into book form, and read. Open this wonderful storehouse of human knowledge and take from it what you need to put yourself in your rightful place.

What Makes the Britannica So Wonderful?

First, within its 30,000 pages every subject under the sun is discussed, including history, religion, art, agriculture, science, politics, inventions, mythology, mechanics, physics, electricity, law, medicine, and everything of any human interest.

Second, it is an accurate and complete record of all knowledge. It is written so interestingly, so fascinatingly, that it entertains and stimulates alike child and college professor. It is the work of 1,500 recognized authorities, each an expert.

Third, the new Eleventh Edition, which is the latest edition, includes 41,000 articles, totalling 44,000,000 words. More than 500,000 separate and important facts are indexed and easily accessible. There are 15,000 illustrations and maps.

SUEDE VELOUR COAT with TAUPE NUTRIA FUR COLLAR
Sizes 6 to 16 Years
39.50

WHETHER the Winter coat should be for school or dress wear can best be answered by this coat which fulfills the needs of both. The simplicity of style and sturdiness of fabric are appropriate for school wear. The taupe nutria collar and sash ends give a dressy touch. And the interlining assures warmth when Jack Frost "nips the toes and bites the nose". By satisfying two purposes it eliminates the need of a special coat for one or the other, and its price is less than the usual cost of a coat for either.

A CHIFFON VELVET AFTERNOON FROCK FOR MISSES

Combines Cleverness as to Design, Excellence as to Quality and a Certain Reasonableness as to Price

68.00

NOWADAYS, the dress that makes a success must mind its P's and Q's as to Price and Quality. And, it must mind its smartness in design. All three of these are points well taken by this frock of chiffon velvet. For smartness, it has the new Turkish skirt, elbow length sleeves and a piquant tassel trimming on both bodice and skirt. As to quality, the material is lovely chiffon velvet in brown, navy blue, or black, and the price moderate.

Nicely Made for the Mother's Sake

18.50

THE quality of attractiveness, the prettiness of youth, is required of the young girl's party dress. It must add all the charm and originality of the older sister's frock to all the wearability of the little girl's dress. And here is a party dress of chiffon that accomplishes these requirements. It has deep tucks on both bodice and skirt, a narrow girdle of contrasting ribbon, and is made entirely over net.

ASKS CUT IN PROFITS ON HOLIDAY TURKEYS

Food Administrator Wants Retail Butchers to Hold Down Margin for Thanksgiving.

ASSOCIATION TO ANSWER

Vice President of Borden Co. to Present Plan for Lower Cost in Milk Distribution.

Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator, held a conference yesterday in his offices with a committee representing the Master Retail Butchers' Association of Greater New York to urge upon the butchers a reduction in their margin of profits for turkey on Thanksgiving Day. At the close of the conference the butchers promised to "do what they could." Another meeting will be held between now and Monday, when a price list will be issued.

As matters stand at present, the butcher is allowed a margin of 20 per cent. on his selling price. That is, on a turkey retailing for $5, the dealer gets $1 profit. This is the same margin as was allowed last year, and Mr. Williams admitted to the butchers that he appreciated the fact that it represented a concession on their part to take it. But he pointed out that turkeys are higher this year; a turkey selling for $5 this Fall cost only $4 last year, with a profit of 88 cents for the dealer. He asked them to consider a 5 per cent. reduction in their profit.

"I realize that you men have shown a very fine spirit so far in helping the Food Administration in this city," said Mr. Williams. "You have made a splendid reputation for yourselves as among the most patriotic of our citizens. I am asking you now to make a concession to the spirit of the times and to cut down a little on the margin of your profit for Thanksgiving Day only."

The dealers in reply pointed out that prices had risen so in their business, including a recent rise in wages due to a strike, that it was nearly as much as they could do to keep to the same margin of profit as last year. Also, they said that almost their entire business in the holiday season was in poultry and that a reduction in profit in this kind of foodstuff made a serious inroad in their year's profits.

However, they agreed with Mr. Williams that the country was passing through a crisis in which it was necessary for every citizen to bear his share of the burdens, and they promised to put the matter fairly before their association.

Mr. Williams said that action by the Master Retail Butchers Association with its membership of 2,500, would force the other dealers, more than 5,000 in number, to do likewise.

In a statement issued yesterday, the State Division of Farms and Markets declared that the producers out of the city were much at sea even as late as yesterday over the prices they were to get for Thanksgiving turkey. The cold storage plants report less turkeys in stock, than last year, said the statement.

Big dealers said yesterday that prices have been ranging from 40 to 48 cents a pound for the birds wholesale and from 60 to 65 or 70 cents retail. The price, it is said, will be a little higher for Thanksgiving stock.

Meetings in Manhattan, Queens, and the Bronx have been arranged for every evening this week for men and women to gather under the auspices of the Community Councils of Greater New York to discuss the high cost of living in general and the milk situation in particular. A meeting will be held Sunday night at the Biltmore at which Herbert Hoover has been asked to preside. The Governor, if his mother's health permits, has promised to speak at this meeting. Another speaker will be Patrick D. Fox, Vice President of the Borden Farm Products Company.

Has Plan to Cut Milk Cost.

Mr. Fox said that, if given the opportunity, he would present for the first time, to consumers of this city, a concrete plan for a more economical method of milk distribution in the metropolitan district. The plan he will offer, Mr. Fox said, provides, among other things, for:

Public participation in the fixing of profits derived from the milk business.

Change in the hours of milk delivery so that drivers can work a full eight-hour shift, using wagons of increased carrying capacity.

Increase in the amount of milk handled at country depots and pasteurization plants.

Payment of a deposit on bottles by consumers.

Mr. Fox stated that under the present system a bottle, costing five cents, seldom lasted more than thirty trips and thousands were lost.

"There are no statistics which furnish the basis for venturing a prediction as to what the savings would be under such a plan," Mr. Fox said, "but we believe they would be material."

Samuel Shapiro, President, and Henry Eiselberg, Secretary of the Shapiro Candy Manufacturing Company of 11 Emerson Place, Brooklyn, were arraigned in the United States District Court, in Brooklyn, yesterday, on an indictment charging them with selling sugar at an excessive price. They pleaded not guilty and were held by Judge Garvin in $1,500 bail for a hearing on Nov. 25. The indictment against the men cites various sales to candy manufacturers totalling 26,000 pounds as alleged violations of the law.

Hugh Chalmers's Condition Serious.

ROCHESTER, Minn., Nov. 20.—Hugh Chalmers, President of the Chalmers Motor Company of Detroit, Mich., who is confined to St. Mary's Hospital here, is reported today to be in a very serious condition. Mr. Chalmers underwent an operation here a week ago.

A surgeon at the hospital said Mr. Chalmers's condition was so uncertain that he may live only a few days, but might rally and show some improvement.

RARE VIOLINS FOUND IN SHONTS ESTATE

"Priceless" Works of Noted Masters Revealed by Inventory Made Before His Death.

DELIGHTED TO PLAY THEM

Appraisal Shows Articles Belonging to Mrs. Thomas Were Kept in His Apartment.

The inventory and appraisal of personal belongings and furnishings in his New York home at 960 Park Avenue and his country place near Philadelphia, which Theodore P. Shonts caused to be made shortly before his death in September, discloses that the Interborough President had a collection of rare violins, which dealers in musical instruments say ranked among the best in the country. The violins, which were kept in the Park Avenue home, were the work of the leading masters and are regarded as virtually priceless.

From a source close to Mr. Shonts it was learned that he took much pleasure in acquiring these instruments in his travels about the world. When alone in his apartment he frequently played them for hours at a time. Few of even his intimate friends knew of his musical talent.

Five of the more valuable violins are mentioned specifically in the inventory, but the appraiser withheld placing a value on them. The market value of the collection will be made public after experts have examined them to determine the transfer tax. The oldest bears the marking, "Nicolaus Amatus, Filius Anthony, decit anno 1622." Another is inscribed "A. Stradivarius, Cremona, 1715." A third is attributed to "Jacobus Stainer, in absum prope Oenipontum, 1644." The inventory says one of the collection was made several centuries ago in the workshop of Ludwig Neuner in Berlin. The fifth instrument specifically mentioned is inscribed, "J. Delete Zonsun, 1768."

At the recent proceedings before Surrogate Fowler to oust Mrs. Shonts as temporary administrator of the estate, attorneys for De Lancey Nicoll, E. J. Berwind, and the Guaranty Trust Company, the executors under the will offered for probate, exhibited an inventory of Mr. Shonts's stock holdings, but made no mention of the musical instruments. The attorneys valued the estate at less than $500,000.

The inventory was made June 1 of this year. It listed only five paintings in the rooms of Mr. Shonts's city apartment; none was by an artist of note, and no value was placed on them.

He had an extensive library, containing many rare volumes. Included in his books were a six-volume set entitled, "Rapid Transit and Railways," of which he was the author. Among the articles itemized as belonging to Mrs. Amanda Thomas, his residuary legatee, contained in an inventory made two days after the first, was a gold deposit Minton dinner set, comprising 170 pieces. A set of copper plate, Sheffield design, with grapevine edge, also belongs to her.

The inventory sets the gross value of the estate at $575,863. Securities having a present market value of $423,055 are listed. Mr. Shonts owned real estate valued at $130,600, and a mortgage of $7,700. The balance of the estate is in cash. The inventory discloses that Mr. Shonts was a large holder of Interborough stock, but no itemized statement of his shares have been submitted to the Surrogate. He pledged 2,420 shares of Interborough-Metropolitan common and 174 shares of Interborough Rapid Transit, with other securities, for a loan of $201,268 from the National Bank of Commerce. His equity in the securities amounts to $38,963.

When Mr. Shonts made his separation agreement with his wife in the Summer of 1917, in which he assumed her debts up to $90,000, he borrowed $90,000 from E. J. Berwind, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. He gave as security 1,000 shares of Interborough-Consolidated preferred and 225 shares of Interborough Rapid Transit.

Due to depreciation in market value of some of the securities thus pledged, the inventory explains that a deficit of $58,325 exists. Mr. Shonts's realty holdings, in addition to the Bucks County, Penn., farm included seventy-four lots in Chicago of an estimated value of about $100,000. His obligations included $13,400 due to Albert Miller and $10,000 due to Monmouth College, the latter a gift promised by him to the institution and for which he gave his note.

Pierson, John Milton, Senator Thomas Brown, and Senator Arthur Whitney.

MARY PICKFORD SAYS SHE FEARED A SUIT

Actress Says Dread of Court Proceedings Made Her Accept $10,000 a Week Contract.

HER MOTHER TESTIFIES

Both Witnesses Deny Mrs. Cora C. Wilkening Negotiated Agreement for Which She Seeks Commission.

Mary Pickford and her mother, known as Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, but whose real name is Mrs. Charlotte Smith, were witnesses yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Platzek, in the suit brought by Mrs. Cora C. Wilkening to recover 10 per cent. of Miss Pickford's contract with Adolph Zukor in 1916, by which the actress received $1,080,000. Both Miss Pickford and her mother denied that the plaintiff brought about the contract, although they admitted that she negotiated two other contracts at about that time which did not materialize.

Miss Pickford testified that she made a new contract with Zukor at $10,000 a week for two years, when she wanted to leave his employ, but was advised that he had threatened to sue her, and feared he might win. She admitted that Mrs. Wilkening told her that, "Mr. Zukor was very angry with me, and said he would fight me in court if I persisted in leaving him, and would make my name so vile and filthy that no exhibitor would dare show my picture."

"I told Mrs. Wilkening that he couldn't do that, because I had done nothing to warrant it," said Miss Pickford, "and she replied: 'He doesn't have to tell the truth, does he? He can make up lies?'"

Mrs. Pickford said her daughter had been on the stage since she was 5 years old, and that since the death of Miss Pickford's father when she was 3 years and 10 months old, she has been "mother, manager, companion, adviser, and everything to her." She testified that the plaintiff never asserted she was entitled to a commission at the time she was trying to arrange a contract for Miss Pickford. She said that when Mrs. Wilkening wanted the defendant to sign a contract at $10,000 a week with the Mutual Film Company she asked the plaintiff "where she came in on the proposition," and Mrs. Wilkening said: "My dear, I don't want anything in the world but the prestige of having Miss Pickford sign a contract in my office. I get a commission from the stories I supply."

The trial of the case will be finished today.

LAW'S PUNISHMENT SWIFT.

Five Men Who Broke Jail Last Friday Now Serving Life Terms.

LEMARS, Iowa, Nov. 20.—Five men who escaped from the County Jail last Friday night after fatally shooting William Maxwell and seriously wounding his father, Sheriff Hugh Maxwell, were today on their way to serve life sentences in the penitentiary at Fort Madison.

The men were recaptured last Monday, indicted on a charge of first degree murder, and brought here late last night from Sioux City, where they had been held to prevent lynching. They pleaded guilty and at midnight were sentenced in District Court to life imprisonment. Early today they were started for the prison.

All five men were in jail here charged with robbing a bank at Westfield, Iowa, when they attacked the Sheriff and his son and escaped.

POLICE AID MEMORIAL.

Members of Force Contribute $1,600 to Roosevelt Fund.

The Roosevelt Memorial Fund received yesterday from Police Commissioner Enright subscriptions to the fund totaling $1,604.54, which was collected from members of the Police Department.

Lieutenant Otto Raphael, who was a close friend of Colonel Roosevelt when he was Police Commissioner, gave a pay check for $100.54. Lieutenant Raphael also spent his ten days' vacation getting subscriptions to the fund.

Reports from Harvard University show a total of $2,000 from students there. Yale students gave $1,500 and the University of California $1,000.

THERE MUST BE A TREATY.

Nothing in the final debate on the Peace Treaty stands out with sharper distinctness than the determination of the Republican Senators to destroy that Treaty. Despite the pretense which the majority of them have held out, that they really wanted the Treaty and only wished to safeguard the interests of the United States, their actions defined their position more clearly than their words did, and in a totally different way. If they had been altogether sincere in their pretended wish for a Treaty and a League of Nations, and had merely believed that the Treaty before them was not satisfactory, they would have at least harkened to the proposals of conciliation and compromise. But, as out of conciliation and compromise there might have emerged a Peace Treaty of some kind and a League of Nations of some kind, they voted down these proposals. Their ears were deaf to any voice seeking to point out to them a middle ground.

Their own reservations were doomed. In a matter of so much moment to this country and the rest of the world, if they had been willing to compromise in order to save some sort of peace and some sort of league, they would have been willing at least to hear what could be said in behalf of other reservations on which agreement might have been reached. But when the Lodge reservations had been defeated and the Vice President ruled that other reservations were in order, his ruling was overturned by a vote of 51 to 42. There was no debate, of course.

The preamble contained the proposal that three of the great Powers must accept the Lodge reservations. No one can devise a plausible reason why we should thus flaunt a red flag in the faces of our associates in the war, unless it is the plausible, not to say obvious, reason that their certain refusal would kill the Treaty so far as we are concerned. Senator McCumber offered an amendment which, while leaving the Treaty thoroughly Lodgeified in all other respects, would have taken out this gratuitous insult. Senator Pomerene raised a point of order against it, the Chair overruled it, and the Republicans overruled the Chair by 50 to 46.

Senator Pomerene then proposed a "Committee on Conciliation," headed by Senator Lodge and Senator Hitchcock, for the purpose of seeing if the contending factions could not get together on something that would satisfy both sides. The Republicans would not hear debate on this proposal, either. On motion of Senator La Follette they tabled the motion by a vote of 48 to 42.

It is needless to say that these are not the acts of men who seek the peace of the world and the formation of a league to preserve it, despite the fact that their leaders have rendered lip service to both ideas. The acts are as destructive as their discourse pretended to be constructive. The tabling without debate of the Pomerene motion is the clearest proof possible of their determination not to amend but to destroy. What can be the reason of this inveterate hatred of an ideal which the nation cherishes, even supposing that there are particular clauses in the Treaty which should have intelligent, reasonable, and careful reservations? Senator Lenroot blurted it out in a moment of anger. When a Democratic Senator, Mr. Fletcher, begged the Republicans not to block any well-meant effort to bring about agreement, Senator Lenroot, "his face flushed," angrily replied:

"There will be no compromise. If the President wants this Treaty he must take the reservations substantially as adopted today.

"If the President wants this Treaty!" As if nobody but the President figured in the matter at all; as if the country and the other nations had nothing to do with it. To the passion-blinded minds of these Senators it is merely a duel between the Senate and the President, no compromise to be considered as between the two fighters. The nation has no interest in it at all. It is not a matter of satisfying the people, it is simply a matter of conquering an obstinate man from New Jersey who has hurt the Senate's feelings.

The country is too much interested in the creation and preservation of peace to accept this view of the matter as merely a political row, or to let it prevail. Peace we must have; a League of Nations we must have. The Treaty must be presented to the next session of the Senate, which will begin in eleven days, and these passions must cool. Most particularly the Republican Senators must get out of their minds the idea so shockingly expressed by Mr. Lenroot, that there is nothing involved except the giving to or the withholding from one man, the President, of something he "wants."

MR. JUSTICE LAUGHLIN.

We are informed by a number of members of the New York Bar that certain Tammany Hall "influences" are laboring with Governor Smith in the hope of inducing him not to redesignate Justice Frank C. Laughlin as a member of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the First Department.

It is difficult to believe that this report is anything more than surmise. Mr. Justice Laughlin was first designated by Governor Roosevelt in 1901. In his service of almost nineteen years he has won the unanimous confidence and respect of the lawyers and of his associates in the Appellate Division. He is a man of great learning, of a clear and penetrating intellect, of remarkable industry and skill in the dispatch of business. The Judiciary Committee of the Bar Association and the New York County Lawyers' Association have united without a dissenting voice in asking Governor Smith to rename Mr. Justice Laughlin to a post which he has held so long and so ably.

The only pretense of an objection to Mr. Justice Laughlin's redesignation is the fact that he is a Republican. Why not make the Appellate Division "Democratic"? The voters of the First Judicial District gave their opinion of politics on the bench last election day. The Appellate Division of this department has been conspicuously free from the slightest taint of partisanship. Who of us has thought of Mr. Justice Laughlin as a Republican? He has been a sound and strong Judge. It is hard to believe that anybody in Tammany is unwise enough to ask Governor Smith not to redesignate him. The retention in office of tried and competent Judges is a principle that has been vindicated so recently and so signally at the polls that it could hardly have been expected that the question would be raised again so soon.

MR. BRYAN'S QUESTION.

Mr. Bryan asks whether New York financiers are as honest now in paying their debts in a cheap gold dollar—at one time five cents below the value of silver dollars in metal—as they were when they were demanding that debts due should be paid in a dear gold dollar, silver then being at a discount in gold. There is need of some financial Dr. Einstein to expound a theory of relativity of values. But perhaps if such a one should appear he would be no better understood than the physicist who has explained that light is deflected by matter, as Mr. Bryan seems to think that principles are bent by interests.

Mr. Bryan's question is more embarrassing to bimetallist nations than to those like the United States, which know but one standard of value. When silver and gold are coined in theoretical equivalences of value, whatever disturbs the value of one disturbs the value of the other, and there is a double chance of variation in the standard of value, instead of a lessened chance. That is shown in France, where silver is going out of sight because, chiefly, the Orient is demanding metal which it considers value in itself, instead of a standard or measure of value, at a time when there is both a scarcity of production and a check to the movement of either gold or silver between nations. The bimetallic theory has developed its weakness, not shown its vaunted merit, in stabilizing the relations of the values of the metals.

In no country is Mr. Bryan's question less embarrassing than here. In the United States gold is the sole standard of value, whether prices are high or low. We abandoned the attempt to maintain gold and silver in their relations to each other. We coined some silver at the sacred ratio of 16 to 1, and we declared it to be our policy to exchange one for the other, either gold, silver, or paper dollars, but we are not committed to the absurdity of maintaining the unchangeability of changeable relations. The wit of man has not yet discovered an unvarying standard of value, which is something different from length or breadth or weight. Value varies with the desires of men, one thing being more desired at one time than another or by one man than another. Every time that gold is spent there is an appraisal of the value of gold, and it tends to approach that value as the ocean tends to approach the level which it never long maintains. A man who pays his debt in gold or its equivalent is as honest as man can be, his principle not varying with values.

New York financiers are paying what they receive, not, paying one money and asking another. They are not seeking silver to pay because, for one reason, they cannot get it in considerable quantities. Silver certificates are scarce, $260,123,754 having been canceled when the dollars were melted and sold for export at gold values. There remain $308,145,759 silver certificates, which are needed in circulation, and which may be reduced under authority of law by melting 80,876,246 more silver dollars. While Mr. Bryan is theoretically right in saying that silver dollars contain metal worth more than the gold in a gold dollar, he is practically wrong. It is difficult and expensive to accumulate silver dollars to realize their bullion value. The theoretical value cannot be got from coins worn in use, and there are only some $80,000,000 in circulation in bullion form. Fractional coins are not near their gold value. Thus Mr. Bryan's question is as premature in fact as it is false in theory.

REPUBLICAN FINANCE.

Representative Mondell, Republican leader of the House, contends that the appropriation bills which failed in the Democratic Sixty-fifth Congress were reduced $939,692,541 by the Republican Sixty-sixth Congress, and reduced $1,685,907,893 below the estimates prepared for the session which has just adjourned. The Republican Representative forestalls the idea that the reduction of the cost of government might have been caused by the passage from war to peace conditions by making the explicit claim that Republican economy corrected Democratic extravagance. If the claim were admitted, it would follow that the way to reduce the appropriations is to elect Republicans, and that it is superfluous to urge budget reform as a correction of the method of Congress with the money bills.

The claim is so frankly partisan that it defeats itself, and illustrates anew how delusive are claims of economy under present conditions. If Congress dealt with anything like a real budget, there would be no claims of economy by a billion or more. A budget would not exaggerate requisitions because more must be asked than is needed in order to get what is necessary. It is commendable to reduce money demands by omitting unnecessary amounts, but it is far from sure that the reductions made in this case might not have been greater still. Also, there is ground to think that not all necessary demands were met. Three deficiency bills were passed by the last Congress, and nobody knows how many will be passed to make up the deficiencies which may be the basis of the Republican economy.

Mr. Mondell says not a word about taxes, and the manner in which the money must be found to pay the bills is at least as important as the reduction of the bills. It is absurd to speak of economy or efficiency in connection with an account which is open on both sides, the expenses being doubtfully complete and the income being in no relation. Mr. Mondell has made an excellent argument for financing the Government in a way different from the one of which he is so proud. Without minimizing his economies, the Republicans could win more merit by revising Democratic taxes than Democratic expenditures. With many blemishes the war bills of the United States were handled in a manner challenging comparison with those of any other nation, but there lies ahead an opportunity for the Democrats to revise Republican tax proposals at least as efficiently as the Republicans revised Democratic appropriations.

A NEW LABOR CONFERENCE.

President Wilson's call for a second industrial conference represents something more than the triumph of hope over experience. In the few weeks since the October conference the underlying situation has changed steadily if slowly for the better. The steel strike and the harbor strike, which then tended to darken counsel or inflame it, have subsided. The soft coal strike, to be sure, is still unsettled, and the problems it presents seem tangled; but the velvet touch of reason is felt, and beneath it is the iron hand of the law. Afraid, the portent of the English railway strike has ended in rallying the forces of sanity and sound progress, while the French elections are a triumph of the spirit of conservative reconstruction.

In his note of invitation to the seventeen members of the conference President Wilson says: "It is not expected that you will deal directly with any condition which exists today." The purpose of the conference is fundamental and far-reaching—"to find such ways as will avoid the repetition of these deplorable conditions." The conference is not to deal with symptoms, but to search out the underlying causes and propose a remedy. Best of all, the old attempt to represent labor, capital, and the public by different groups is discarded. That was to promote, and even to enforce, the spirit of conflict, and at the same time to oppose a bar to conciliation. The seventeen conferees will think and speak for the nation as a whole, none of them representing specifically any faction. As not one of them had a part in the former conference, they will start on their great labors with clear minds and hearts untroubled.

In the former conference, aside from the injected issue of the steel strike, the most fruitful source of discord was a lack of definition in the terms employed. There were advocates of "the open shop" who seemed blandly unaware that many shops which are closed to all but union labor are giving full satisfaction to all concerned; and there were others who spoke vehemently for "the principle of collective bargaining" as if it were not in many places in happy and successful practice. "Representatives of their own choosing" is a word to conjure with; but in practice there is a vast difference between representatives chosen by the men in a shop affected by a strike and representatives chosen by the outside union of which the strikers are a small fraction. At best the problem is entangled and baffling, its solution probably elusive. But it is a problem that must be, and eventually will be, solved. This second conference comes in a happier time, and is to be much more hopefully organized. It should result in much illumination—the best of all preludes to progress.

GENERAL ANGELES CAPTURED.

General Felipe Angeles, the Villista leader who has been taken by Carranzista troops in Chihuahua, according to a dispatch from the City of Mexico, was to be Provisional President if the insurgent movement in the northern States proved successful. The sinews of war were by no means ample, and the odds to be overcome were considerable. They might well have dismayed a more ambitious man than Angeles. The stars in their courses did not fight for him when American troops crossed the Rio Grande and shelled the Villistas out of Juarez. Had the insurgents captured that border town and held it, they would probably have overrun the State of Chihuahua, for they were conjuring with the name of Villa, which used to spell victory and spoils. In an interview given to a correspondent of The New York Times recently, President Carranza spoke of Francisco Villa as being in the flesh, recognizing him as a troublesome guerrilla.

When General Angeles left his farm near El Paso in the Spring to take the field against the Federals, it was his design to join his old comrade in arms, Villa, although they were not supposed to be on good terms. During the campaign in which the peon Napoleon, as the ex-bandit was called, showed himself to be a strategist of no mean order, General Angeles served him as chief of artillery; but being a man of education, and of ideals, too, the association was not always agreeable. At the same time, he seems to have had a very good opinion of Villa's native ability. Loyalty was a characteristic of General Angeles. He had been highly regarded as an artillery officer by Porfirio Diaz, being a graduate of Chapultepec and St. Cyr, and he had proved faithful to President Madero during the Reyes-Diaz uprising at the capital. Indeed, he warned Madero of the treachery of Huerta, who made overtures to the artillery commander in vain and threw him into prison, not daring, however, to put him to death. Upon his release Angeles was sent on a mission to France, the Mexican expedient to get rid of a possible rival. He returned to Mexico to support the cause of Carranza, but, suspecting him of a design to set up as a dictator, threw in his lot with Villa, with whose political views he sympathized.

Angeles has been an ardent Constitutionalist. He advocated compliance with the law of succession after Huerta was overthrown, urging that a member of Madero's Cabinet be sworn in as President; but his advice was not heeded by Carranza. When Angeles took the field in the Spring of this year he announced a program calling for the elimination of the regular army in Mexico, the election of a civilian as President (military men to be forever barred), and the establishment of cordial relations with the United States. He had many friends in this country—in Washington and New York as well as in the Southwest. His family lived for some time in Boston. He always favorably impressed Americans who met him. One of them described him as "an educated, cultivated gentleman, of an Old World courtesy, with the modesty of the real soldier." The friendship of General Angeles for the United States was genuine. He was liberal minded, discerning.

It is stated that the insurgent leader is to be court-martialed. As he has enemies among the Federal Generals and has never concealed his opinion of Carranza, it is unlikely that he will escape the firing squad. But in his case clemency would become the President, who cannot fail to appreciate the qualities of the captive, however much he may have differed with him in the past.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Cultivating National Friendship.

That the Prince of Wales has been doing here much more than to win the liking of Americans for himself as a young man of pleasing ways is shown plainly enough by the satisfaction expressed by the London papers with the reports of the cordiality with which we have welcomed and entertained him. One of these papers has been moved to warn us, humorously, but not altogether humorously, he is their Prince, not ours. That is simply a reminder that the Prince has a representative character—that in a fashion and to a degree he offers for our examination and judgment the British people as they are and the British Government as it is.

Most of us are in no real danger of forgetting these facts, as the London paper very well knows, and if a few of us have had nothing better to do than to keep alive ancient animosities, the behavior of this Prince of the ready smile, the keen interest in all he sees, and the easy and sincere acceptance of American democracy as something in essentials the same as what he has at home, has made all except a few negligible irreconcilables in that group revise their opinions and bring their sentiments up to date.

The accomplishment of just that was among the purposes of the Prince's American tour, for he is no mere sightseer or tourist. In these days, however, it may have been in the past, royal personages, like policemen, are always "on duty," and it is, as it were, their business to make every act of their waking hours somehow subserve the welfare of their country and its people. Fortunately for the Prince of Wales, he can do this by being himself. His impulses are safe guides, and he is in no danger of making mistakes, for he has good sense with his youth, cherishes no illusions as to the nature of his position and its privileges, and has acquired the difficult art of guarding princely dignity without making it either a weariness or a trouble to the untitled multitudes.

Laughter Solved the Problem.

Probably the most delicate of the problems that in a country like this one confront the Prince of Wales are those that were well illustrated when at the Academy of Music he found a large and stately armchair—a sort of throne—in which he was expected to sit. It was a well-meant attention, of course, and a less wise Prince might have accepted it as his due, seated himself at such a time in such a chair—and have made himself by doing it a somewhat amusing spectacle.

This Prince avoided the double danger of the situation—he did not hurt the feelings of those who had tried to be kind, but he sat in a little chair instead of the big one. He did it, seemingly, by turning the episode into a joke, which he enjoyed himself, for the same reason that those around him enjoyed it, and tact was required for doing that successfully. The chances are that he did not have to think what to do. A Prince of precisely the right kind wouldn't, and by common agreement of all who meet or see this one he is of precisely the right kind.

So does he teach those who need the lesson that, as regards forms of government, it is the spirit, not the letter, that counts and that a nation is not necessarily enslaved because it chooses to have a King.

Professors to Get More Pay.

Yale announces that she has given her professors the advance in salary for lack of which so many educators of late have been turning their abilities to other and better remunerated forms of activity than teaching. The new scale, ranging from $5,000 to $8,000 a year, is not one to excite the envy of the successful man in business or in the other professions, and there are some baseball players who would reject with scorn the highest of these salaries. As a matter of fact, however, even the smallest of them is a "living wage," anywhere, and on the higher ones, though they would not permit, nowadays, of luxurious living, it would be possible to get along very comfortably.

Moreover, the university or college professor gets more than his salary—he does, that is, if he has a "call" for the work and finds it congenial and interesting. The more he gets will not pay the grocer or provide gasoline for automobiles, but it is certainly worth something to have the honor and dignity that attaches to membership in the Faculty of a university or college.

Whether or not the new Yale salaries are large enough to satisfy the recipients and keep them in their chairs remains to be disclosed by time, but if all educational institutions could pay as well, there would be small excuse for continuing the chorus of discontent and reproach that has been coming for years past from practically every campus in the country.

For Once Action Was Prompt.

Sufficiently novel to be really startling is the news that in even a single instance proof of membership in a group plotting the overthrow of our Government has been followed with reasonable promptness by punishment. The thing has happened, however, and one young woman who confessed to having joined the Communist Party and to approving of its purposes is no longer teaching in a public school.

That the loss of her position will make her a good citizen is something the expectation of which requires more than optimism, but at least the absurdity of having such a person in such a place will cease, and other teachers with like proclivities may be led to think several times before they yield to them.

This particular teacher, it seems, came to this country from Russia seventeen years ago, when she was only five years old. It would be interesting and useful to know just what her training here has been—just how it happens that with the education our schools gave her she acquired such fierce dislike of American institutions and such firm determination to tip them all over. The influences of which she is the victim presumably are still exerted on others; and it would be highly judicious to put an end to them.

Prevention is not only better than cure; it is also better than punishment.

Why the Lights Went Out.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am certain that the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton would not intentionally wrong the newspaper photographers. I was in charge of the work at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, where Dr. Straton says that the photographers used bad language. I do not use bad language, neither do the newspaper photographers who were working with me.

Dr. Straton says in This Times that the lights were put out by an act of God while a Jewish clergyman was speaking. It was not the Deity who put out the lights. I put them out when my feet slipped as I was adjusting a fuse and I am willing to take the blame for this. But I do object to the statement that either I or the other members of my profession profaned the church with bad language.

MODERATE IRISHMEN.

Their Ideal is the Fullest Measure of Dominion Home Rule.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with much interest your editorial article entitled "Two Irelands or One." For several years past I have been corresponding upon business matters with an Irishman of Ireland. A few days since, at the close of our transactions, I received the inclosed letter. It gives so clear and forceful a statement of the position of conservative Irishmen relative to their political troubles I shall be glad if you can find room to publish it. The writer is a merchant.

JOHN H. HICKS.

[Inclosure.]

* * * Although the war has been won, largely owing to the exertion of your countrymen in the States, the political situation here in Ireland, I regret to say, has not improved. The country is in a very unsettled state, and the greater bulk of the younger people are looking toward America for active intervention in their behalf, to secure for their country the right of self-determination, which, they say, was the aim of your Government in entering into the war. The interpretation of this right is largely a matter of opinion, and certainly among the sensible people of this country does not bear the meaning attributed to it by the Sinn Feiners (and the one that Mr. de Valera would have the American people believe is the only solution), that is, an Independent Irish Republic. Nearly all of the moderate class of this country, which includes the older members of the farming class, the commercial body, and most of the Bishops, favor the policy of the late Mr. John Redmond, which would be the fullest form of autonomy, such as the British Colonies enjoy.

This represents my own view in the matter, as I have been a consistent follower and admirer of the late Mr. John Redmond, who I think was treated very badly by his own countrymen, and still worse by the British Government, in whom he trusted to redeem their promises and who turned him down when it suited their purpose to do so, in favor of Sir Edward Carson, who is really the evil genius of this country, and who started all the trouble (by appealing to force in the first instance), which culminated in the insane uprising of 1916.

To lead Irish Americans, who love their country with a very intense devotion, to believe that an independent Irish republic can be obtained, either by force or by the intervention of the United States, active or passive, is the wickedest kind of folly and is bound to end in bloodshed and disillusionment. England will never consent to set up an independent Irish republic at her very doorstep. This is not saying but that there are many good friends of Ireland who are English by birth and who are anxious to see justice done. Among these may be mentioned men like Lord Northcliffe and Lord Grey (the new Ambassador to Washington), both of whom have shown an earnest and intense desire to settle this vexed question once and for all, and I need hardly say how much we of the moderate party here in Ireland also desire a settlement, which can only be effected by the fullest measure of Dominion home rule, with the inclusion of Ulster (adequate safeguards being provided to protect the Protestant minority from interference under any legislation made by a Dublin Parliament). If this settlement is introduced soon, and forced through, there will be an end to all trouble and bother in Ireland, and large numbers of the young people who have attached themselves to the extreme physical force party here in this country, mainly because they were disgusted and heartbroken by the treachery and chicanery of British politicians in their dealings in this country, and especially with regard to their attitude on the question of home rule, will cease causing trouble and take a pride and pleasure in working out the destinies of their country under free institutions.

Aeschylus for the League.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Being engaged upon a comparative study of the abstract idea of justice in the literature of classic Greece and the practical idea of "justice" as found in the mind of certain Judges in this, our very modern America, I happened in Aeschylus's "The Suppliants" (written about 2,400 years ago) upon the following that seems to have a message for the Senate of the United States.

The Chorus of the play is offering up a prayer for divine guidance for the "Agora" or, in free translation, "Senate" of Argos. The prayer is that those presiding over the Commonwealth may rule with wisdom, and goes on:

"Timely with each foreign nation,
Leagues of wise conciliation
Let them join, fierce wars avoiding."

Again, it seems, one is forced to agree with the preacher of old: "There is no new thing under the sun," and should any one ask how it is that humankind, twenty-four centuries after Aeschylus, still is no further than then, let him compare the beauty and the courage and the truth of life as it was lived in the sunny fields of pagan Hellas with the mixture of hypocrisy and fear and unspeakable ugliness that constitutes life as it is "lived" under the smoky clouds of "Christian" civilization. Then, if he has vision, he shall find the answer, as the same preacher, by the way, found it centuries ago:

"Vanity of vanities, all is vanity."

Einstein's Theory.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your most interesting and instructive article in today's Times on "Light and Logic," discussing the Einstein theory, you say: "Euclid would hardly have admitted that a theoretically straight line must be curved merely because a line of light is curved."

This reminds me of a remark which the late Professor Newton of Yale used to make to his classes in conic sections with regard to the axes of a parabola; that, "proceeding in a straight line to infinity in one direction, they came back in a straight line from infinity in the other." This statement was always accompanied by a somewhat lugubrious smile, as though he should say: "This may seem a peculiar statement to you young gentlemen, but nevertheless is something to be reckoned with."

REFLEX.

When I beheld the heights the Muse has trod
In company with Milton and his peers
Down the long line of English sonneteers
To Rupert Brooke, beneath far Scymos' sod,
My soul grows sick with envy. Hear me, God,
It pain ennobles, wreak me blood and tears:
If sorrow strengthens, blast me through the years;
Help me to scar, who have but learned to plod.
The passion leaves me and the high conceit
That, reaching up, covets beyond my worth:
I have some music and I shall be glad.
Without light singers would we not be sad?
Why, children's smiles, the rarest coin on earth,
Are flung to organ-grinders in the street!

NO MORE LIQUOR INSURANCE

Thefts So Numerous That Companies Cease Issuing Policies.

One of the byproducts of prohibition has been the elimination by insurance companies of the writing of policies insuring specifically against the theft of wines and liquors. So many cases have been brought to the attention of the insurance companies recently of liquor thefts that it was decided further insurance of spirits should be classed as extra hazardous.

"Of course, a general household policy still covers liquor," said an official of the Fidelity and Deposit Company. "Whereas, formerly we never had a claim concerning the theft of liquor, since prohibition was inaugurated we have had quite a number of such cases.

"In these liquor cases it must be remembered that a moral hazard is also involved. We must be satisfied that the liquor was stolen and not consumed at a 'party' or by the butler or other employes in the household of a man who makes a claim for compensation. Another question has arisen in these cases which has caused some confusion, and that is the value of the liquor alleged to have been stolen.

"Recently there was a case where a man claimed $125 for ten bottles of whisky stolen from his home. That's a pretty high figure, $12.50 a quart. Good rye whisky was obtainable last June at $3 a quart.

"An official of the Travelers' Insurance Company said that burglars had shown a decided preference for wines and whisky rather than for cut glass or jewelry, and he told of cases where more valuable articles were ignored, although they were handy and where the thieves took the liquor.

"I know of a case in Brooklyn," he said, "where there was a quantity of fine linen and cut glass in the storeroom, but they passed it up and took the whisky. In another case the thieves swept the sideboard of a man's home clear of liquor, scorned the silver and cut glass and departed with apparent satisfaction."

Other insurance men said that losses throughout the country, due to theft of liquors have been somewhat higher than in New York because liquor is more easily obtained here than elsewhere.

LICENSE CASE ARGUED.

Anti-Saloon League Objects to Issue of Permits in New Jersey.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 20.—The Supreme Court's decision holding invalid the liquor licenses granted by the Jersey City Commissioner for a year from June 30 last came up for appeal today in the Court of Errors. The original proceedings were begun by a representative of the Anti-Saloon League, who contended that licenses granted during the period of war-time or constitutional prohibition were illegal.

Chief Justice Gummere asked the League representative in court today what harm there was in the issuance of the licenses if the law prevented their use. The League's lawyer took the ground that the form of the license, which, he said, granted the authority to sell intoxicants, was objectionable.

GIRL SCOUT COUNCIL MEETS.

New York's Contributions in Campaign Reach $67,000.

More than 200 women from all parts of the United States were present yesterday at the annual meeting of the National Council of the Girl Scouts at the national headquarters, 189 Lexington Avenue. Mrs. Arthur Osgood Choate of Pleasantville, Vice President presided in the absence of Mrs. Juliette Low of Savannah.

The total raised in Manhattan in the campaign for funds, leaders, and members, was announced by Mrs. Choate as $67,000 up to last night. This is $5,000 more than was announced last week. Mrs. V. Everit Macy, Chairman, said the results were not satisfactory, but that it was expected that the goal of $100,000 would be reached within a few days.

No figures on the drive by States were available, but it was the opinion of the conference that the campaign had been a great success and had awakened wide interest in scouting both among girls and the public, which was one of the chief objects of the drive. Hundreds of new troops of scouts have been formed and scores of women have volunteered as scout Captains, Mrs. Choate announced. Plans for field work for the coming year were outlined by Mrs. Choate, emphasis being laid on the value of training.

Seven members were elected to the Executive Board of twenty-one members for three years to succeed seven retiring members. The newly elected members are Mrs. Arthur O. Choate, Miss Llewellyn Parsons of New York, Mrs. Theodore Price of New York, Mrs. J. J. Storrow of Boston, Mrs. Nicholas Brady of New York, Mrs. Robert T. Meade of New York, and Mrs. Percy Williams of Connecticut. Mrs. Meade and Mrs. Williams are new members, succeeding Mrs. Arthur S. Somers and Mrs. Colin H. Livingstone.

TEACHERS RAP COMMUNISM.

Organization Records Approval of Miss Ginsberg's Dismissal.

The Teachers' Interests Organization at a meeting yesterday in Public School 27, Forty-second Street near Third Avenue, approved the promptness with which City Superintendent Ettinger had acted in the case of Miss Sonia, or Sadie, Ginsberg, the teacher in Public School 170, Brooklyn, who was dismissed because she was a member of the Communist party.

Miss Catherine Waters asked the organization to disapprove of the proposed change in the rating of teachers which would substitute "satisfactory" and "unsatisfactory" for the present marking, with a statement by the principal of the teacher's fitness. The matter was referred to a special committee, of which Miss Waters is chairman.

The organization resolved to protest against the present way of making out eligible lists. It was asserted that there should be one list for both sexes and that the highest on it should be appointed first.

OPPOSES FEDERAL CABLES.

Ward Says His Company Plans Lines to Honolulu and Japan.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Opposing Government cable construction in the Pacific Ocean, George G. Ward, general manager of the Commercial Pacific Cable Co., in a letter received today by Chairman Jones of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, further outlined plans of his company for a San Francisco-Japan line. The company already is negotiating for landing rights in Japan, he said, the cable to be either direct or via Guam.

Mr. Ward added that his company also proposed to lay an additional line of its existing cable to Honolulu and to Midway, and had made an offer for the Pacific cables of Germany dealt with in the Peace Treaty. He expressed the opinion that these plans would make cable service in the Pacific more than adequate.

REVOKES RANK ORDER.

Regular Army Officers Still to Hold Temporary Ratings.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Secretary Baker announced today that the recent order for the discharge from emergency rank of all regular army officers had been revoked and that they would hold their temporary rank until their emergency work was accomplished.

The War Department is authorized "to hold as many officers as may be needed, not exceeding 18,000."

The emergency rank of regular officers in this group is to be reduced as rapidly as possible.

'WET' SPELL TO WAIT DECLARING OF PEACE

Announcement Made by President While Supreme Court Hears Liquor Cases.

ROOT ARGUES FOR BREWERS

Contends Congress Had No Right to Pass Enforcement Act Because War Exigency Had Ended.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—While the Supreme Court today was hearing arguments on the constitutionality of the wartime prohibition act and the National Prohibition Enforcement act President Wilson made it known that he would not lift the wartime prohibition ban until peace had formally been declared. Inasmuch as this is not expected to take place until well along in December, it then officials here feel that the sole chance for a "wet" period prior to Jan. 16, when the national prohibition law becomes effective, lies in a decision by the Supreme Court.

While the arguments before the Supreme Court will end tomorrow the court begins a recess on Monday and will not reconvene until Dec. 8, and a decision is not expected for another week.

The arguments heard by the Supreme Court related to the constitutionality of the wartime prohibition act and the constitutionality of the National Prohibition Enforcement act. The cases heard were appeals from a Kentucky decision, holding the wartime prohibition act unconstitutional and from two New York decisions, one sustaining the wartime prohibition and National Prohibition Enforcement acts and the other dismissing injunction proceedings seeking to permit the removal of whiskey from bond by Dryfoos, Blum & Co., and the manufacture of beer containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol by Jacob Ruppert.

The hearing attracted considerable attention. Long before the court convened the space allotted to spectators was crowded and many were unable to gain admittance. Many attorneys also were present.

The Government was represented by Solicitor General King and Assistant Attorney General William L. Frierson. Elihu Root, Levy Mayer, William Marshall Bullitt, Walter C. Noyes and others represented the "wets."

In his argument, which he began this afternoon, Mr. Root, who appeared for Jacob Ruppert, took the ground that Congress had no authority to pass the Volstead enforcement law in October, inasmuch as the war had been ended. This ending of the war, he held, was brought about by the demobilization of the army, relinquishment of control over food supplies, and the cessation of other war activities.

Contending that Congress had no right to interfere "in the manufacture and sale of intoxicants at the time indicated, Mr. Root said:

"The question is much confused by a certain vague and colloquial use of the term 'war powers.' War confers no powers upon Congress. The powers are all in the Constitution of the United States. The conditions of war does create exigencies which make appropriate the exercise of powers not otherwise existing.

"If, before the entrance of this country into war, Congress, without a declaration of war, had seen fit to raise and maintain an army there would have been no doubt that the proper exercise of constitutional right had been complied with. On the other hand, when the war was ended and the entire strength of the enemy has been forced into submission and there is no longer an army or a navy to be raised and maintained, the power ends, because the exigency no longer exists."

Following this argument, Mr. Root emphasized again that it was not the mere declaration of war but the fact that an emergency actually existed during a state of war that brought to Congress what is popularly known as "war powers."

"The power ends when the exigency no longer exists," he insisted. "It ends when the actual occasion for it ends.

"This question is of vast importance," he added. "Under the impulse of patriotism there is no limit to the widest latitude to Congress in its exercise of power. But the deadliest peril to a free nation is that power to encroach and encroach upon the liberties of a free people."

In opening his argument, Mr. Root contended that the act of the Government in prohibiting the sale of beer containing 2.75 per cent. alcohol was unconstitutional. When it was suggested that perhaps the question of confiscation of property might not apply in the case he represented, Mr. Root replied that the Jacob Ruppert Brewing Company, which he represented, had $1,000,000 worth of beer which was to be disposed of, and therefore was property.

In reply to questions Mr. Root said under different conditions both Congress and the court had the right to determine when the war emergency existed.

Justice Pitney interrupted to suggest that the Senate had not yet ratified the Peace Treaty.

"There is no controversy in the Senate as to peace, but entirely as to a collateral agreement between the United nations," Mr. Root replied quickly.

"It is not a question as to a technical state of war existing but as to when the exigency passes," he added. The only thing that can keep alive and permit the carrying into execution of the emergency powers of Congress is the conditions existing."

Before Mr. Root's argument, the Kentucky Distilleries and Dryfoos, Blum & Co. cases were heard.

These two cases related almost entirely to the constitutionality of wartime prohibition. Its constitutionality was attacked on the grounds that it violated the article which gives protection to property rights and that the war emergency has ceased, in both cases property having been appropriated without due compensation as provided for by the Constitution.

When the Government permitted and licensed the manufacture of whisky, compelled the distillers to pay a tax upon it, and, after it was in bond, through act of Congress prevented the owners from disposing of it, the Constitution was violated, because whisky is property, and the Constitution guarantees protection of property, contended the distillers' counsel.

It was maintained also that in many other cases the Supreme Court had held that once the occasion for an act passed the act might become unconstitutional. The argument was made that there was no occasion for the Wartime Prohibition act.

Mr. Frierson, for the Government, argued

MISS PRATT WEDS ALLAN M'LANE, JR.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lee Pratt Marries Son of Baltimore Jurist.

HER SISTER HONOR MAID

Rev. Dr. Frank Crowder Performs the Ceremony in St. James's Episcopal Church.

The wedding of Allan McLane, Jr., a son of Judge Allan McLane and Mrs. McLane of Baltimore, and Miss Edith Gibb Pratt, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lee Pratt of this city and The Brae, Glen Cove, L. I., took place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at St. James's Episcopal Church, in Madison Avenue. The church was decorated with chrysanthemums, and the Rev. Dr. Frank Crowder officiated.

The bride, who walked with her father, wore a chiffon robe, completely draped with old point lace, and the train was also covered with point lace and the veil, arranged to show her blonde coiffure at the front, was also of lace. She wore a string of pearls and carried lilies of the valley and white orchids. Her youngest sister, little Miss Florence Pratt, was the flower girl, in a deep pink tulle frock, banded with satin, and carried a basket of flowers tied with turquoise blue ribbons. The maid of honor was the bride's debutante sister, Miss Harriet Pratt, in gold tulle and lace over white, topped by a tête de nègre velvet hat, with an ostrich tip to match springing out of the point right brim.

The other attendants were Mrs. Richard Stockton Emmet and Miss Helen L. Pratt, cousins of the bride, and the Misses Elisabeth Elliot, Katherine Van Ingen, Katherine Emmet, Augusta McLane, Elizabeth Frank, Helen James, and Helen Babbott. All wore white lace frocks with sash trains of French blue and salmon ribbons and carried chrysanthemums. Their brown velvet hats were like that worn by the maid of honor.

The bridegroom's brother, James McLane, was the best man, and the ushers were Seth Low, Herbert L. Pratt, Jr., George H. Pratt, Jr., Archibald McIlwaine, Huntington Lyman, Daniel Grant, Worthington Davis, Ellery James, Sidney Miller, and Charles Stewart. The wedding reception was held at the Pratt city home, 1,027 Fifth Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. McLane on their return from their honeymoon will probably spend the Winter with the bride's parents.

F. V. Burton Marries Mrs Hyllsted.

Frank V. Burton of 23 East Fifty-sixth Street and Mrs. Claire L. Hyllsted, a widow of 405 Park Avenue, formerly of Paris, were married quietly yesterday in St. George's Church, Stuyvesant Square, by the Rector, the Rev. Dr. Refland, in the presence of the bridegroom's family and a few close friends of the bride. There were no attendants, but Mr. Burton's brother, John H. Burton, stood up with him. Mr. and Mrs. Burton have gone to the Hot Springs, W. Va., until the end of December. The bride has been a widow for the last ten years. Mr. Burton was a widower, and his children include Mrs. Morgan Wing and the Misses Catharine S. and Margaret Burton, and F. V. Burton, Jr. and Van Duzer Burton.

Miss Theodora Tiffany a Bride.

The marriage of George H. Tilton, Jr., a son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Tilton of Littleton, N. H., formerly an Ensign in the United States Navy, and Miss Theodora Tiffany, a daughter of Mrs. Henry Fletcher Godfrey by her first husband and a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Havemeyer, took place on Wednesday last at the residence of Mrs. Godfrey, 38 East Seventieth Street, the Rev. Dr. Spence officiating. Mr. Godfrey gave his stepdaughter in marriage. Mrs. Murray Black was the matron of honor and Theodore Davis of Boston was the best man. Mr. Tilton was graduated from Dartmouth in 1914. The bride, who made her debut four years ago, is a sister of Miss Marion Tiffany.

Married by Bishop Lloyd.

The marriage of J. Lawrence Sprunt of Wilmington, N. C., a nephew of Kenneth Murchison of New York, and Mrs. Nash Ruffin, widow of Allen J. Ruffin and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Nash of Tarboro, N. C., an old family of that State, took place at 12:30 yesterday noon in Calvary Church in Fourth Avenue, the ceremony being performed by Bishop Arthur S. Lloyd. There were relatives only at the ceremony and a few intimate friends in addition to them were at the reception and breakfast at Delmonico's.

Matthews-Cashmann.

John Lewis Matthews of this city and Miss Jeannette M. Cashmann, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cashmann of 324 West 103d Street, were married last evening in the Temple B'nai Jeshurun, West Eighty-eighth Street, by the Rev. Dr. Goldstein, and the reception followed at the St. Regis. The bride was in white net embroidered in pearls over satin and a tulle veil. Miss Ruth Cashmann was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Arthur Rosenberg was the matron of honor. Hilliard Matthews was his brother's best man. After a honeymoon at the White Sulphur Springs Mr. and Mrs. Matthews will live at 40 West Eighty-fourth Street, this city.

Kessler-Fuld Engagement.

The engagement of Miss Hortense S. Fuld, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses L. Fuld of 23 Church Street, Paterson, to Assistant United States District Attorney Samuel I. Kessler of 350 South Sixth Street, Newark, was announced yesterday. No date has been set for the wedding. Miss Fuld and Mr. Kessler met last Summer at Asbury Park.

MUSIC

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

The Philharmonic Society.

At the concert of the Philharmonic Society in Carnegie Hall last evening Ravel's set of "Valses Nobles et Sentimentales," originally written for the piano, were played in an orchestral version made for a ballet, "Adelaide, or the Language of Flowers," produced in Paris some seven years ago. They had been heard here in their original form. The orchestration of them is made with much skill to carry out the suggestions of color contained in the etched lines of the piano originals, delicate and iridescent color, subtly contrasted and often softening the sharper tang of the acidulous harmonies and biting discords that the piano gives more uncompromisingly. There are insinuating rhythms and melodic lines of a true waltz character. How far they are either noble or sentimental might be questioned, and the comparison with Schubert's waltzes made by a French commentator quoted in the program notes seems far-fetched. They have the unmistakable pungency of Ravel's style.

Eddy Brown was the soloist, who played Beethoven's concerto for violin. He displayed in it a sweet and sympathetic tone not large, and he brought to the work an obvious sincerity and directness of style, but he did not reach all the poetry, and the lofty serenity of the composition in his playing of it was not at all points perfectly finished. The effect would have been better with an accompaniment that really accompanied instead of lagging frequently behind him.

The performance of Schubert's unfinished symphony with which the concert began was not an inspiring one in spirit, in beauty of orchestral tone or in the finish of phrase, which was often to seek. The last number of the program was Liszt's symphonic poem "Les Préludes," which, according to the program note, Liszt once referred to as "garden music." But, as Owen Wister's Virginian used to demand in such cases, he smiled when he said it.

Miss May Mukle's Recital.

Miss May Mukle, an English cellist who has been for some time in this country and is known to many as a player of unusual artistic distinction and fine skill, gave a recital yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall. She introduced some interesting matter new to the programs of 'cello recitals which are afflicted in general with a poverty of available material. The first was a concerto as it was called, after a sonata of Attilio Ariosti—for what instrument originally was not stated on the program. The piece has undergone several modifications; its original figured bass for harpsichord was first arranged for string orchestra by a modern adapter, and this arrangement rearranged for piano by Miss Mukle. Ariosti was an operatic composer of the seventeenth century who at one time was a collaborator with Handel in the Italian opera in London. He was also a virtuoso on the viola d'amore. This piece, whether or not it was originally composed for 'cello, is in its present form effectively adapted for that instrument and is a fine piece of music in its style. Miss Mukle played it with breadth, repose and sonority.

With no little courage she put as the next number of her program Mr. Ernest Bloch's Hebrew rhapsody, "Schelomo"; that is to say, "Solomon," with a reduction of her orchestral accompaniment for piano made by the composer. It was first heard at the concert of Mr. Bloch's music given in May, 1917. This character sketch of the monarch, if it be that, is like an Oriental improvisation—a very long one—with many fine pages of impassioned rhetoric, in which the accompaniment has an essential part, notably in powerful episode near the close. But its inordinate length wearies. The performance was excellent, both by Miss Mukle and by Mrs. Ethel Cave Cole, who played the elaborate piano part with much skill; yet it is possible that a more impassioned performance would have represented the composer's intentions more nearly.

Miss Mukle also played Tschaikowsky's variations on a rococo theme, and pieces by Bach, Percy Grainger, Popper and herself.

ALDA SINGS IN 'LA BOHEME.'

Puccini's Opera Hastily Given as Substitute for "The Barber."

"La Bohème" was substituted for "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" at the Metropolitan last evening, owing to a prima donna's illness, so late that the change could be conveyed to Mr. Gatti's audience—the largest Thursday subscription since Thursday night opera began here—only by a printed slip in the original program, while several of the artists who were to have sung Rossini's airs had hastily to prepare Puccini's a fact that alone removed the performance from too serious critical discussion. Charles Hackett had never sung Rodolfo here, nor had he elsewhere within two years, and he was properly nervous. Amato was Marcello, and the upset marred his return, while Malatesta was the comic old man of the Bohemian café.

Mme. Alda, however, had already sung Mimì in Brooklyn this week, and her familiarity with the part helped to steady her companions, as of course did the veterans Didur and de Segurola of the gay garret party. Miss Romaine as Musetta was slim and pretty, but vigorous to shrewishness, though she carried her round of applause, quickly hissed down, after her principal air. Mr. Papi conducted a lively scenes, which benefited by some new costumes of Murger's own period in Paris from the opera's new mistress of wardrobe, Mme. Castelbert.

Berta Reviere's First Recital.

Berta Reviere, soprano, assisted ably by Bryceson Treharne at the piano, gave a first recital last evening in Aeolian Hall, where her audience was a large one. Her voice is hardly deep enough to justify the "mezzo" designation used, and it failed to carry either the dramatic effect of Gluck's air, "Divinités du Styx," from "Alceste," or the lyric emotion of Brahms's "Sapphic Ode." A light, pleasant tone, and especially a sustained pianissimo, were better adapted to such pieces as "Marmotte," a curious trifle of alternating French and English lines, a setting by Beethoven of Goethe's verses, and to modern pieces.

Fokine and Fokina at Metropolitan.

Michael Fokine, declared by the Russian compatriots to be the creator of the Ballet Russe, and his wife, Mme. Vera Fokina, who recently arrived from Russia by way of Copenhagen, will give a special "Soirée de Danse" at the Metropolitan Opera House on Tuesday evening, Dec. 30. They will present a program illustrative of the art of ballet in modern times, by arrangement with Morris Gest, whom Mr. Fokine is now assisting in the production of "Aphrodite."

DR. GROEBER DIES IN BERLIN

Chairman of Centre Party Had Served in Reichstag 32 Years.

BERLIN, Nov. 20. (Associated Press.)—Adolf Groeber, Chairman of the Centre Party, was stricken with paralysis while talking with a friend here yesterday and died soon afterward.

Dr. Groeber, who succeeded Count Hertling as leader of the Clerical Party in Germany when Hertling became Bavarian Minister President, was an influential member of the Reichstag in pre-war days, but his importance during the war was rather obscured by Erzberger, also a member of the Clericals.

He was a member of the short-lived Cabinet of Prince Max of Baden, which fell with the outbreak of the German revolution, and was elected a member of the National Assembly from Wurttemberg after their revolution. He was 65 years old, and had served in the Reichstag since 1887. During a debate in the Reichstag in 1908 he created almost a riot when he referred to the newspaper men in the gallery, some of whom had applauded a speaker, as "swine," the occurrence almost leading to a duel.

GENERAL PERSHING AND SIR THOMAS LIPTON ARE AMONG HORSE SHOW GUESTS

ARABIAN HORSES A FEATURE OF SHOW

W. R. Brown Scores Easy Victory in This Class—Ponies Attract Much Attention.

GEN. PERSHING PRESENT

Sir Thomas Lipton Also a Guest at the Exhibition in Madison Square Garden.

Arabian horses, the fiery steeds of the desert which are wrapped in romance and fable, and polo ponies, which always have a distinct following, were the chief attractions at the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden yesterday and provided some very interesting exhibitions for the large crowds which attended both the afternoon and evening sessions. The honors in the Arabian classes fell a rather easy prey to W. R. Brown of Berlin, N. H., but there were some surprises in the polo pony classes, particularly when Emden Wood's Daylight defeated the imported Christopher Columbus, exhibited by Horace Havemeyer.

Distinguished visitors again attended the Horse Show. General Pershing dropped in at the afternoon session unannounced and spent an hour watching the exhibition and carefully looking over the horses. He was quickly recognized and received an ovation from the crowd. In the evening Sir Thomas Lipton was the guest of the Horse Show Committee and was likewise accorded a fine reception.

Interest in the horses centred on the Arabian classes because, aside from the romance and romance which surround them, they were a distinct novelty since horses of this class had not been exhibited at a local Horse Show since 1905. The chief contest in this class was for the cup presented by W. R. Brown, who is endeavoring to revive interest in the breeding of this foundation thoroughbred stock in this country.

Parent Stock of Many Breeds.

Because of the fact that no especial efforts have been made with these horses in recent years the Arabian steeds are little known in New York, but they are interesting to all horsemen because they are the parent stock of many breeds including the thoroughbred racers and the hackneys. There is probably no other class of horses so wrapped in romance as the Arabian. The most interesting of the fables concerning them is that one of the prophet Mahomet. Wishing to perfect the breed, according to this tale, he caused 400 of the finest mares to be kept without water for sixty hours, until they had become nearly exhausted. To make the test of their fitness for the purpose he had in mind, he then had them led to a pool, and when right at the brink of the drinking place he had the war horn sounded. Six of these mares, thirsty as they were, turned and answered the summons of the war lord, and as a result were chosen as the foundation stock of the Arabian horses, one of which was later to become world famous as the mount of Napoleon.

The Arabian horses shown at the Garden were fine specimens. Though rather small in size, they have head markings which distinguish them from all other horses in the show, and there was no lack of their famed spirit. Though the honors went easily to Mr. Brown in this class, the contest for the ribbons was interesting, and it was considerable of a task to decide upon the winner. The first prize went to Gaemure, a gray mare which was bred by Colonel Spencer Borden. A chestnut stallion, Sargon, also owned by Mr. Brown, was awarded second, while Berk, a bay stallion, took third, this being one of Mr. Brown's entries also. This was a precedent for an exhibitor trying for his own cup.

Judging the polo pony classes consumed most of the morning session and brought out some fine specimens. Richard H. Williams of Mendham, N. J., son of the President of the Westminster Kennel Club, made his first appearance as a horse show judge when the classes of polo mounts were brought out.

The surprise which came in the judging of this class came with the first ones to be brought out. This was for stallions suitable for getting polo ponies. The imported Christopher Columbus, bred at Sir John Barker's English polo pony stud and brought to this country several years ago by a syndicate of Long Island polo[illegible], was regarded as a very likely winner, but after very careful consideration the judges gave the blue to Daylight, a chestnut stallion owned by Emden Wood, who imported the horse from England.

Mynora Double Winner.

John E. Madden, owner of Hamburg Place, and who has bred many noted race horses, presented two cups for polo pony classes, and there was keen competition for both of them. The first went to the aged chestnut mare Mynora, owned by Peter Hauck, Jr., of East Orange, N. J. Mynora was the winner last year in the class for heavyweight polo mounts.

In the class for lightweight polo mounts the blue was awarded to A. Smith Cochran's bay mare, Dove of Peace, which was ridden by T. Treadwell Mr. Cochran is a member of the Meadow Brook Club, and one of his fellow-club associates was a competitor in the class. This was James C. Cooley, who took second honors with his chestnut gelding Barrage.

Mr. Hauck's Mynora continued to add to her honors as the judging progressed. When it came to the class for heavyweight polo ponies she scored another blue. In this test she was ridden by Earl W. Hopping, the Aiken polo[illegible]. Second place went to Quaynita, a chestnut gelding well known to followers of the game on Long Island, and owned by D. Stewart Iglehart of the Meadow Brook Club.

Some of the best hunters that have been seen at the show appeared in the first of the afternoon classes, which was for hunters which had been hunted at least eight times in the past two seasons with packs of hounds. The conditions called for amateurs to ride and the cup, which represented first prize, went to Indian Arrow, owned and ridden by Lieut. Col. Herbert C. Cox. The Canadian exhibitor also took second with his Rigafield. Silver Tip, the Foxcatcher Farm entry, was awarded third.

The judging was chiefly on performance and Isaac H. Clothier, Jr., who rode his jumper Challenger, considered one of the leading contenders, was eliminated when his mount refused to take one of the post and rail jumps and stopped so suddenly that the rider was thrown over the obstacle. He clung to the bridle reins, however, and the horse stood calmly waiting and looking at his embarrassed rider. Mr. Clothier took the remaining jumps in good style, but the one mishap had cost him his chance for the first prize, as the horses ridden by the Canadian officer fenced nicely and won quite handily.

General Pershing Arrives.

It was about 4 o'clock when General Pershing, accompanied by an aid and a party of three ladies, walked up to the ticket window in the lobby. He was about to put down the money for the seats he desired when R. Lawrence Smith, Chairman of the Horse Show Committee, who was strolling through the lobby, happened to recognize the commander of the American Expeditionary Forces. Mr. Smith at once made General Pershing and his party the guests of the association and escorted them to the arena. General Pershing had given no warning of his coming, and took the Horse Show officials completely by surprise. General Pershing and his party were taken to the guests' box on the north side of the arena, and the entrance was made so quietly that the American commander was not recognized until he stepped down to the ring with Mr. Smith.

Then he was recognized, and he was roundly cheered. A class of roadsters had come out, and General Pershing watched their performances with interest. He chatted with the judges and spoke of the part the horse had taken in the war with the American forces.

At the conclusion of the judging in the roadster class the blue was awarded to Roger King, owned by John R. Thompson. It happened that one of the horses in the contest was named General Pershing, but despite this he failed to capture the prize. When the ribbon was pinned on the winner General Pershing jumped into the rig with Mr. Thompson and rode around the ring several times, while the crowd stood up and cheered him to the echo. General Pershing remained nearly an hour.

Sir Thomas Lipton, who is here to inspect his yacht, the Shamrock IV., was the guest of the Horse Show Committee at the evening session and was accompanied by Sir John Ferguson, the London banker. Sir Thomas and his party arrived shortly after the evening session began at 8 o'clock and occupied the guests' box. He was quickly recognized and enthusiastically received. Once his reception was over he became one of the most interested spectators and repeatedly applauded the efforts of the riders in the jumping classes, which had an important part on the program.

Judge Moore Wins Cup.

One of the principal events of the evening was the competition for the Waldorf-Astoria Challenge Cup, permanent possession of which was taken by Judge William H. Moore. He won final possession with his brown gelding Moncreiff, which defeated Irvington Garrymede, owned by Franklin B. Jourdan. The Waldorf-Astoria Cup had to be won twice by the same exhibitor to become the winner's property. Mr. Moore won the first leg of it last year with his Medea.

There were four entries for the final judging in this class, and Moncreiff scored rather easily when once he had had an opportunity to show himself.

The Commodore Cup, presented by John McE. Bowman, for hunters and jumpers over triple bars set about eighteen inches apart. The last one was four and a half feet high. This resulted in some of the most spectacular jumping seen at the show this week. There were thirty entries for the cup and the competition was very keen. It required a good jumper to clear the triple hurdle, and there was little chance for those jumpers which are accustomed to moving slowly up to the jump and then taking it with an almost upright leap, just clearing. This is possible with the single hurdle but the horses which were slow to take off, continually tipped the last hurdle in the triple bars test.

Shot Takes Another Blue.

It occasioned no surprise that the blue in this class finally fell to the Ennisclare Farms of Ontario, which has so many fine jumpers competing at the Garden. Shot, the chestnut gelding which has fairly covered himself with blue ribbons at this show, was the winner. He was ridden by H. S. Wilson, one of the cleverest of the riders at the show, and took the triple bars with much the same ease as he did the less difficult obstacles in the classes in which he was victorious earlier in the week. Second prize went to Miss Carol Smith's Ondremon, while third was taken by Robinhood, owned by Miss Eleonora Sears.

Donnacona, owned by the Misses Field, became the potential champion of the saddle horses by his victory last night over Radiant, owned by Miss Eleonora Sears. Until this defeat Radiant had been one of the strongest contenders for the championship of the show in this class, as he had defeated Twilight, last year's champion.

There was a great deal of interest in the judging of the class, and when the awards were made Donnacona received the blue, while Radiant was forced to be content with third, second going to Thistledown, owned by Charles F. Hubbs. The championship will be decided this afternoon when Donnacona will meet his final test.

The session closed with the high jump, which was a spectacular test for a field of five of the best jumpers. Red Heart, a bay gelding, owned by Mrs. F. S. Peabody, and the winner of this event last year, scored again and, by coincidence, won the first award with the same height he made last year. He cleared the bars at six feet, nine inches. There was a round of applause for the jumper when he came up for the final test. He made a fine rush at the obstacle, raised high in the air and went over cleverly.

The runner up to the winner was Tipperary, owned by Robert Almy, which was awarded second. Though some of the jumpers failed to clear the bars as the obstacle was increased in height, there were no accidents or falls.

GREAT DISPLAY OF FASHION.

Members of Society Out in Large Numbers at Garden.

There was a large and brilliant attendance last night at the Horse Show, every box and every seat in the arena being occupied. Fashion also seemed to burst forth with handsome evening gowns and a display of diamonds as in ante-bellum days. There was a continual stream of people along the promenade, and they found much to interest them.

Sir Thomas Lipton, as one of the principal visitors of the evening, attracted much attention with his party which occupied the box over the Twenty-seventh Street exit. He was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Shewan, the latter in black with a V-cut bodice and a small black hat with a bird of paradise. Miss Nan James of Toronto, Sir John Ferguson, Cornelius F. Jarvis, and Willard W. Taylor were the other guests.

The same box at the afternoon session was the centre of interest, when General Pershing, who paid an unexpected visit to the exhibition, occupied it. Among General Pershing's party were Miss Frances C. Griscom, Miss Constance Robertson, Miss Anna Wynn, and Colonel Quekemeyer.

Miss Lida L. Fleitmann, who has been in riding togs ever since the show opened, was in box 81 last night with her mother, Mrs. William M. Fleitmann, and appeared to advantage in an evening costume of silver embroidered net over pale lavender, topped with a large black velvet hat and black ostrich plume. She wears a large corsage ornament of diamonds.

While the boxholders of the exhibition entertained last night as they have all through the week, there were some newcomers noticed, in the boxes as well as among the patronage. Herbert Satterlee and his debutante daughter, Miss Mabel Satterlee, attended the night session, and Mrs. Gouverneur Kortright was a guest in the box of Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Holloway both at the evening show and at the matinee. Mr. and Mrs. William R. Willcox and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Livingston Gerry were also in attendance last evening, the latter occupying with Mrs. Gerry's sister, Mrs. R. Penn Smith. Box 41, owned by Mrs. E. H. Harriman, was occupied by John R. Thompson, President of the Westminster Kennel Club, made his first appearance as a horse show judge when the classes of polo mounts were brought out.

The surprise which came in the judging of this class came with the first ones to be brought out. This was for stallions suitable for getting polo ponies. LEOCHARES VICTOR BY EIGHT LENGTHS

Aged Gelding Romps Away from Field in the Columbia Handicap at Bowie.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 20.—John W. Scherr's aged Leochares can still perform creditably against high-class horses when not asked to go to the starting post too often. He proved this today, when he gave a flash of his old-time form in the Columbia Handicap, for all ages, at one mile, which he won so handily that it was scarcely a contest for him. He won by eight lengths from J. J. Hallenbeck's Salvestra, while the North Shore Stable's Woodtrap was third in a field of six starters.

The condition of the track was just suited to the aged gelding, as he likes firm and fast footing to do his best. He also came out with an appearance of more spirit than he has displayed in some of his other races recently, and the fact that he had the top weight in the race, 126 pounds, made no difference to him when he once got into motion.

Though Leochares has been defeated several times in hard tests, he was made a strong favorite by those who patronized the mutuels. There was so much play for him that he was an odds-on choice when he went to the post, though Salvestra had many followers.

Makes Slow Start.

Salvestra and Midnight Sun made all the early pace, while Leochares was slow to get into motion, and tagged along in third position, but soon got into his stride and was never far away. By the time he had gone half a mile Jockey O'Brien had him in the lead, and then he began to make a show of the others. He passed Salvestra and began to draw away until he was five lengths in front when he turned into the stretch, and was still under a pull.

Salvestra had been pinched back slightly as Leochares passed her, and this mishap slowed her up for a few strides, but she made a dash at the head of the stretch and came with a rush for half a furlong, when she tired suddenly from the effort, and Leochares increased his lead to eight lengths at the finish. Salvestra tired so badly that Woodtrap, which always has plenty left when it comes to the last drive, came near catching her to take the place. He was coming with a rush, and Rice just managed to save the place with his mount. Woodtrap was another that suffered from interference in the course of the race, and was badly messed about. But once clear he ran with fine courage. Midnight Sun was in the lead for a few strides after the start, but escaped the interference which spoiled the chances of two of the others, but appeared to be outclassed and dropped back early, ceasing to be a contender.

Two Long Shots Win.

Two long shots came through on the day's card, one in the first race and another in the third, which was the Industrial Purse for two-year-olds. In the opening event Kingling II. romped home at $35.80 to a $2 ticket, just gaining the decision by half a length from Brisk in a driving finish. This race brought out the largest field that went to the post all day, there being sixteen starters. Sunrose, which was the favorite, lost her rider and disappointed many backers. Kingling II. came from behind during the drive through the stretch when half a dozen horses were bunched and fighting for positions and caught Brisk, which had got into the lead, and gained the decision.

The Industrial Purse went to P. G. McGuire's King's Champion, which gained the verdict by a nose from Rubidium, with Cock o' the Roost third. This was a test at a mile and King's Champion followed the pace closely all the way to the final sixteenth. There he came up on Shillelagh II., which had been leading, and outgamed the latter for the victory. The mutuels paid $34.90 to holders of $2 tickets on the winner.

MAY HOLD TWO MEETINGS.

San Johnson Talks of American League Conclave in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—There probably will be two meetings of the American League held this year on the same day—Dec. 10—one in Chicago and the other in New York.

President Ban Johnson indicated this today as a result of the action of Harry Frazee, owner of the Boston club, Charles A. Comiskey of Chicago, and Jacob Ruppert of the New York club in issuing a call yesterday for the meeting to be held in New York.

"The constitution of the American League," he said, "provides that the annual meeting this year shall be held on Dec. 10. Our annual meetings for several years have been held in Chicago. It is quite likely our annual meeting will be held in Chicago this year."

President Johnson did not indicate when he would issue the call for the meeting.

KOLBER WINS ROAD RACE.

Captures Glencoe A. C. Run by a Yard in Stirring Finish.

Eddie Kolber won the Glencoe A. C.'s five and one-half mile road run in Harlem yesterday afternoon in a close finish from his clubmate, Max Tea of the Glencoe Club. Kolber and Tea alternated in the lead o fthe race, and the winner was in doubt until the end. Tea made a strong challenges 200 yards from the finish, sprinting momentarily into the lead, but Kolber had enough speed left to beat him to the worsted by a single yard.

The summary:

1, E. Kolber, 30:07; 2, Max Tea, 30:08; 3, Philip Hecht, 31:35; 4, Tom Finneran, 31:46; 5, James Kelly, 31:48; 6, J. Johnston, 32:09; 7, S. Hoffman, 32:28; 8, Jack Silverdollar, 32:31; 9, R. Hagany, 32:40; 10, James Sweeney, 32:50; 11, H. N. Miller, 33:06; 12, J. Hagany, 33:10.

PLAYER-MANAGERS FAVORED BY MATTY

Predicts More of Them Will Be in Game Next Season—Timely Baseball Gossip.

By CHRISTY MATHEWSON.

"What has become of the Fred Clarke or Frank Chance type of manager?" asks a fan. "Isn't a team stronger when its manager is also a player?"

To judge from the pennant-winning efforts of these two old-time stars, their presence in the lineup was the big factor in their success as managers, for when they no longer could play on the diamond they both seem quit trying to run clubs from the bench.

There used to be a lot of good arguments in favor of having a player-manager, but it is worth nothing that each of the sixteen major league clubs started the 1919 season with a bench leader, which shows what the owners think now.

Personally I am in favor of player-managers. I think they develop initiative, and I believe that the bench manager serves to kill this in his men. The player who is boss a ball club cannot devote all his time to the moves of his men. The manager on the bench can.

Next season I look to see more of the managers in the batting order.

Twenty years ago baseball teams were owned by men who thought they knew baseball from A to Z. They would tell the manager when to release a player or what pitcher to work.

I remember that Horace Fogel who was managing the Giants in 1902, was laughed at for playing me at first base. As a matter of fact, he was only acting upon a telegram from Andrew Freedman, then the club's owner, which read: "If Mathewson has a sore arm from pitching curve balls, play him at first base."

Not a First Baseman.

I worked three games as a first baseman, and then, as I did not know the art of getting out of the way of a base runner, it was thought best to save my life by removing me. It was also hoped I might still be of some value to the club as a pitcher.

Andrew Freedman was a wealthy man and had many large interests outside of baseball. The sport was his hobby, however, and I think he would have given a fortune to see his Giants win a pennant.

Unfortunately he was not a good judge of the ability of ball players, and in addition had the unhappy faculty of making bitter enemies of the baseball writers. One scribe who was barred from the Polo Grounds used to find a cool, grassy seat on Coogan's Bluff from where he could see enough of the game to write a story for his paper. If he ran short of material he would file copy on "what the goats said to him about Andy."

Although a busy man, Andy would often command the whole team to appear at his office, at Broadway, near Liberty Street, for morning skull practice.

"Hickman," he said one morning, "if you would get your piano legs in front of hard hit balls you might play a better game of third base."

"Kid" Gleason, who was sitting on top of a safe, exploded into laughter at this advice, but Mr. Freedman caused a sudden hush by roaring out:

"Gleason, that will cost you $25!"

So ends the fun for the rest of his laugh while the elevated engine was puffing us back to the Polo Grounds.

Owners Know Game.

There are several club owners in the major leagues today that keep as closely in touch with their players as did Mr. Freedman, but they make baseball their business and know the game. Mr. Dreyfuss, for instance, seldom misses a game, and is as quick as his manager to note when a player is slipping. If a player needs to be replaced the manager has no need to worry about the chance, for it will soon be evident that Barney knows where he can make a trade, or else secure a promising minor league star.

Managing a team for Mr. Dreyfuss ought to be comparatively easy, but last Summer Hugo Bezdek was compelled to take a vacation because of a nervous breakdown.

This nervous tension under which all managers work is something that cannot be doffed with the uniform, and insomnia or gray hairs are the usual results.

Friends of Tris Speaker predicted that his playing would be affected by taking the management of the Cleveland team. Speaker has a few gray hairs, but he dodges insomnia. The chances are it won't hurt his playing.

Speaker has the temperament to make a good manager and is a born leader. He holds the respect of his ball players, for who could help but respect the remarkable ability of that performer.

JIMMY WILDE SIGNS TO MEET SHARKEY

Flyweight Champion Will Make American Debut in Bout at Milwaukee on Dec. 6.

The flyweight champion of the world, who carries around with him a cockney accent and the fighting name of Jimmy Wilde, yesterday ended his sight-seeing of Gotham and his series of matches on local golf links and signed up for his American debut. Milwaukee gets the attraction, Jack Sharkey of New York is the opponent, and the date has been fixed for Saturday night, Dec. 6. The bout will be for ten rounds, no decision.

Following a succession of matchmaking endeavors, the articles were transcribed, bound and signed yesterday by Wilde, Sharkey, and Otto Borchert, President of the Cream City A. C. of Milwaukee, who ended his prowling around this city with the papers tucked safely in his upper waistcoat pocket.

Wilde and his manager, George Dwyer, had tickets bought to leave last night for Chicago, but late in the afternoon the British midget received a summons from the Prince of Wales to call on his highness this afternoon. The visit will be made at 2:15 on board H. M. S. Renown, now lying in the Hudson River. Edward Albert, among other accomplishments, recognizes good boxers, and at Wilde's London bouts he has been an occasional visitor.

Borchert will take Wilde in tow after the call on the Prince this afternoon and will set a course for Chicago, where the preliminary training will be stared at Howard Carr's gymnasium. Four or five days before the battle Wilde will move on to Milwaukee to put the finishing touches on his preparations.

Under the articles Sharkey agrees to make 114 pounds at ringside, but this will still leave him with a formal advantage over the English sensation. Wilde has been fighting at 106 or 107 pounds, but he has put on some ounces of avoirdupoise during his New York merry-making, and he expects to go into the ring tipping the scales at about 112 pounds. According to the agreement, Wilde is to receive about $14,000 for the bout, this sum to cover all his training expenses. The details were discussed by Borchert with more than ordinary care, and the announcement of the bout certainly is not more than $14,000 would be the Englishman's share.

Wilde has obtained for his principal major domo Harry Thomas, a former Britisher, but a local boxer for several years. Thomas will act as sparring partner during the preparations for this first bout, and it is possible that Willie Kohler, also of this city, will be added to the staff within a few days. Jimmy was well pleased last night with the progress of his matchmaking. He declared that some of the generous terms offered had almost taken his breath away, so had spurned them all because he had journeyed to America for the sole purpose of fighting and not acting.

The bout will be staged in the Auditorium, in Milwaukee, the city's largest theatre, which has 10,000 seats, numbered and cushioned. Promoter Borchert said last night that 2,000 of these chairs had been set aside for the fans at the rate of $1. Other prices will run from $2 to the $10 ringside seats. Already subscriptions have begun to come in, and a block of seventy tickets were reserved last night for a group of New Yorkers. A capacity crowd is expected.

BOUT FOR JACK JOHNSON.

Ex-Champion Is Matched to Box Carl Morris in Mexico.

YUMA, Ariz., Nov. 20.—Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion, has been matched to fight Carl Morris of Tulsa, Okla., at San Luis, fourteen miles south of here in Mexico, according to an announcement tonight by Al Jones, Yuma boxing promoter. The bout will be held some time in December, Jones said, and will be a finish fight.

Both boxers have signed articles and posted forfeits, the promoter asserted. Johnson is expected to train at San Luis and Morris at Yuma.

O'Dowd Meets Gibbons Tonight.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 20.—Middleweight Champion Mike O'Dowd and Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul phantom, today completed training for their ten-round bout here Friday night. Both fighters declared they were at weight and in topnotch condition. Twin City newspapers announced that the prevailing odds have increased to 2 to 1 on Gibbons, as a consequence of his improved showing this week.

McGraw Buys Another Barnes.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Nov. 20.—President George Andrews of the Sioux City Baseball Club tonight announced the sale of Pitcher Zeke Barnes to the New York Giants. The consideration was $5,000.

MON

YALE STUDENTS STAGE GREAT DEMONSTRATION FOR ELEVEN AS IT GOES TO MEET HARVARD

NEW HAVEN GIVES YALE BIG SENDOFF

Eli Eleven Gets Ovation as It Starts for Boston—Lineup Is Unchanged.

BETTING FAVORS HARVARD

Supporters of the Blue Place More of Their Money at Odds of 5 to 4 and 5 to 3.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 20.—Al. Yale and New Haven said good-bye to college football for 1919 in tendering an ovation this afternoon to the Eli eleven, when the first and second teams embarked for Boston. A squad of twenty-five players was taken, and 1,700 undergraduates, reinforced by fully as many New Haven football worshippers, marched through the central streets to the railroad station as a departing tribute to the gridiron stars.

The Yale brass band led the procession, followed by the cheer leaders, who included the undergraduate athletic captains, Tom Sawyer of the nine, Churchill Peters of the crew, and Harvey Reed of the track team. The procession left Beaver Hall at 1 o'clock and spent fifteen minutes at the railroad station in rehearsing Yale football songs and skyrocketing a volley of vocal fireworks in favor of every individual football player and coach. The cheering continued until the train carrying the football squad disappeared in the distance.

The coaches refused to make any predictions or to issue any final statements of any kind. Head Coach Al Sharpe said that there was no truth in the report that sweeping changes were planned in the make-up of the eleven. He admitted that the coaches planned to start exactly the same eleven as in last Saturday's game against Princeton, with the possible exception of right end, where Barclay Robinson may play instead of Parker Allen, because of Allen's injured shoulder.

May Not Last Games.

Considerable doubt is felt over the physical ability of full back Jim Braden to remain in the play more than half the game. Braden has not been in uniform since the Princeton match.

It is likely that Howard Campbell will play nearly half the game in the full back position. Donald Welles will be substituted at either right half back or full back for part of the match. Trainer John Mack denied, before the departure of the team, that there was any truth in the rumor that quarter back Herbert Kumpton was in poor physical condition. He said that the team was in excellent all around playing form but the coaches feel that one week between games Harvard and Princeton game is too short to permit of allow full recovery from the exhaustion caused by the first match upon the schedule.

Yale undergraduates today laid wagers freely at even terms, but most New Haveners placed their money at odds of 5 to 4, or even 5 to 3 in favor of Harvard. It was impossible to obtain tickets here today for Saturday's game at any price, the speculators having transferred their financial operations elsewhere.

The attitude of Yale's official publications on current athletic matters occasioned comment tonight among graduates and the student body. In its current edition The Weekly appeared tonight without any editorial comment on the Harvard game. This has never happened before. In its account of the Yale-Princeton game The Weekly said:

"We believe that one factor in the development of Princeton's strong eleven (for strong it unquestionably is) was the hard schedule it faced. From her early defeats, especially by West Virginia, she learned much and emerged all the more powerful. As for the Yale team, it fought a good fight against a truly worthy foe. It did not lack courage or stamina, and it was for the most part well drilled in fundamentally sound football. We regret that it had not been equally soundly schooled in the newer type of play, for that weakness and bad generalship lost the game. The breaks were against it, but it is an old saw that the breaks always go with the better team. We salute Princeton for her excellent eleven, and for her deserved victory, but we feel that the game was in no sense a discredit to the team or to the methods. Disappointed we certainly are, but not disheartened, and we look forward without dismay and in the hope of better things to come, if we profit by the lessons of this game."

Apology for Cheer Leaders.

The Yale News today took up editorially several recent athletic occurrences. It stated that Yale regretted deeply that its cheer leaders omitted to respond when the Princeton crowd cheered Yale after last Saturday's game, and said that a letter from Yale cheer leaders had been sent to The Daily Princetonian, expressing the keen feeling that Yale men have at the oversight, which arose because the cheer leaders had left the bowl too soon, neglecting to take into account that the Princeton crowd might walk across the field and cheer them. The News said editorially: "People want a public explanation. There isn't any." It was a combination of thoughtlessness and ignorance augmented by the dull hammer blow of sudden and unexpected defeat. None of which is, of course, any legitimate excuse."

The News denied the statement that the Yale Athletic Committee plans to grant the university insignia to its tennis players, provided an intercollegiate league is organized. The News expressed regret at the statements of William H. Edwards to the effect that Yale refused to put straw on the surface of the bowl last Saturday in order that the gridiron might be slushy and thus work to Princeton's disadvantage. It pointed out that Captain Callahan was injured early in the season because the Yale field was exactly in that condition, and that three of Yale's best backs are handicapped unless they have dry ground. The News predicted that Edwards's statement would have no effect on future Yale-Princeton athletic relations.

The News also expressed regret that it contained in an article yesterday predicting an undergraduate demonstration at the bowl yesterday afternoon which resulted in 400 students marching to the field and finding the gates closed against them because the coaches had decided to hold secret practice all the afternoon.

Warm approval of the attitude of The News in discussing frankly the athletic misunderstandings was expressed universally on the campus.

Under the plan of administrative reorganization in Yale University, the corporation has appointed the following Board of Athletic Control: Named by the corporation—T. De Witt Cuyler, '74; George Grant Mason, '88; John A. Hartwell '88; J. C. Greenway, 1900; John Timothy Callahan, '13; P. F. Heffelfinger, '20; Seymour H. Knox '20; Joseph Weir Sargent, '20. Nominated by permanent officers of the college—Dean F. S. Jones and Professor C. W. Mendell. Nominated by the Governing Board of Sheffield—Director R. H. Chittenden and Professor G. H. Nettleton; representatives from the various sports: Football, Vance C. McCormick, '98; baseball, E. S. Bronson, 1900; track, John T. Kilpatrick, '11; crew, Frederick W. Allen, 1900; general athletics, George T. Adee, '85.

Rodgers in West Virginia Lineup.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 20.—West Virginia's work was again light today, but it appears that Archer will be able to play against Ohio Wesleyan Saturday, and that helps. Kay and King were not in uniform today, but Rodgers, Martin, and Neale all did some punting. Rodgers will probably do the booting against Ohio Wesleyan Saturday, if King does not play.

COLUMBIA SHIFTS LINE.

Hinch Loses Place on Eve of the N. Y. U. Game.

The Columbia Varsity yesterday completed its preparation for the game with N. Y. U. tomorrow by going through a hard drill that began with fundamentals and ended with a brisk scrimmage against both the scrubs and freshmen. "Red" Lamberton and Billy Moore of Princeton again assisted the regular coaching steaff in applying the final touches to the first eleven, and two former Columbia stars lent a hand. One of them was Dick Jones, who played quarter back on the famous 1903 team, which trounced Cornell and Penn among other opponents. Jones turned his attention yesterday to grooming Eccles and Scott as substitutes for the missing Eddie Quigley. Another grad to don a uniform was Rex Reeder, a tackle on the 1916 eleven.

It was definitely announced yesterday that Charlie Shaw, the Columbia left half back, would not be able to play in tomorrow's battle. The injury to his knee, caused by a bad bruise last Saturday, took a turn for the worse yesterday and will prevent his appearance against N. Y. U. Either Tommy Farrell, basket ball captain, or Johnstone will take his place, with the odds on the former.

Yesterday's workout began with a return to fundamentals. Billy Moore took charge of the half backs, Aleck Telfer and Lamberton the ends and Tom Thorp the linemen. Following this the ends and forwards received a drill in going down under punts, Lamberton taking the ends under his wing. Next came a signal practice for the Varsity, after which it was pitted against the scrubs in a forty-minute scrimmage, with the latter on the defense. Farrell and Johnstone, in the Varsity back field, contributed several of the eight touchdowns that were rolled up before the coaches gave the ball to the second team. The scrubs were unable to penetrate the first string defense.

One change was made in the line yesterday. Hinch, who has been at right guard nearly all season, was displaced by Scovil, who has been shifted from right tackle to make room for Modarelli, a veteran from last year's team. The latter player started in the Wesleyan game and clinched the position by his aggressive work. Eccles, Morszcinski, Applebaum and probably Farrell will make up the back field tomorrow. Either Farrell or Eccles will do the punting in the absence of Shaw.

SIGNAL DRILL FOR N. Y. U.

Eleven Rehearses New Plays to be Tried Against Columbia Team.

For the last time this season New York University's football team held strenuous practice yesterday afternoon on Ohio Field in preparation for the game with Columbia tomorrow. The Violet team today will run through signals and will do no hard work.

The New Yorkers put in a snappy session in a stiff wind that made the adjustment of punts extremely hard. Coach Gargan took advantage of this wind to give the backs some practice in catching punts. No scrimmage was held, but a long signal drill took up the afternoon. Gargan had them rehearse some new plays that he has been saving for the contest against the Morningside Heights team.

Jack Adams was again in the lineup at left end, and seems to be in as good condition as ever. His foe, which he injured in the game against Union, seems to be in good shape, and he will doubtless start on Saturday. The battle for the quarter back position between Jackson and Gilloon has been won by the former, and he will be in the starting lineup. Tyne, who started at full back last Saturday, has been replaced by Cohen.

This afternoon the Violet freshman team will play its last game of the season, when it meets the first year eleven from the Blue and White school. By comparative scores it looks like an easy game for the uptown men. The New York freshmen scored a victory over the De Witt Clinton team, which defeated the Columbia aggregation to the tune of 28 to 0. Coach Wall has had the Violet yearlings out every day this week, and they are in good trim. The game will start at 2.30 on Ohio Field.

SYRACUSE STARTS WEST.

Eleven is in Good Shape for Games with Indiana and Nebraska.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 20.—One of the biggest send-offs ever given to any Syracuse team leaving on a trip was accorded the gridiron squad here tonight when Coaches Meehan and Horr and twenty-four players went West, to play the University of Indiana at Bloomington, Ind., on Saturday and the University of Nebraska on Thanksgiving Day.

There were at least 2,000 students in the parade which formed on the campus and marched to the railroad station behind the university band to cheer the boys. The cheering lasted more than half an hour during which yells were given for every member of the squad.

In the party, besides Coaches Meehan and Horr, were Manager Edward H. MacKenzie, Graduate Manager Walter S. Smith, and the following players: Robertson, Alexander, Thompson, Segal, Gullck, Hoople, Brown, Schwarzer, Ackley, Fallon, Abbott, Edwig, Perrin, Dooley, Heers, Lucier, Andreas, Malone, Parker, Martin, Sawyer, Barsha, Steele, and Rammi.

Advisory Coach Frank J. O'Neill did not make the trip as he will occupy a seat in the Harvard Stadium Saturday when Harvard clashes with Yale. Early next week O'Neill will leave New York for Lincoln, Neb., where he will assume charge of the team in the contest with the Corn Huskers. Meehan will have full charge of the eleven at Bloomington.

This afternoon the players went through a light workout. The coaches took particular pains that no one should receive any injuries on the eve of the trip. Another reason why no hard work was indulged in was because the mentors think the team is right at the peak of its form and that much more hard work would cause staleness.

The coaches are confident that both Indiana and Nebraska will be forced to bow to the Orange team.

TO SEE ILLINOIS-OHIO TILT.

New York Alumni of Former Institution Plan to Make Trip.

In view of the importance of the Ohio-Illinois game at Columbus tomorrow, the New York Alumni of the University of Illinois are planning a special car party, leaving this city on one of the evening trains today and arriving in the Ohio capital the following day in time for the contest. Arrangements are in the hands of W. H. Lazear, Secretary of the New York Illini Club.

Of six games played with Big Ten teams, Illinois has won from Purdue, Iowa, Chicago, Minnesota, and Michigan, and lost to Wisconsin. Ohio State has played three Big Ten games winning from Purdue, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

READY FOR BASKET BALL.

Columbia Candidates Will Report to Coach Dawson Today.

Basket ball practice will start this afternoon at Columbia, when candidates for the five report to Coach Fred Dawson in the gymnasium. The coach, after receiving the men, will turn them over to several graduate coaches who have volunteered to help in the development of this year's team. Among the former stars who will be on hand today are Reynolds Benson, Captain of the 1915 team; Charlie Lee, a forward on the same team; E. G. Burghard, a guard, and Dan Meenan, Captain of the 1914 quintet.

Because of football practice Captain Tommy Farrell and Sam Weinstein, both of last year's five, will not report today. Other promising candidates will not be released until the end of the football season, among them being Davis, Scovil, Johnson, and Kennedy. The only veterans who will report at the first practice will be Tyman, a forward, and Johnson, the centre. Practice will be held daily at 4:30.

HARVARD FEARS TOE OF BRADEN

Crimson Team Expects Touchdown, but Respects Yale's Drop Kicking Ability.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20.—The Harvard football team did little more than go through the motions in its final practice session in the Stadium this afternoon. The drill was entirely on formations and making the running plays more smooth. Then came a long session of kickoffs and handling kicks on the hard, dry field, which will be in the finest of shape for Saturday's game, no matter what may come in the way of weather.

All the coaches were out watching the last touch of practice football and the team has been proclaimed well prepared and fit. The lineup was as it has been all week, but for the first time since the Princeton game, Jack Desmond was placed at right end and sent up and down the field in the kicking practice. His leg seemed all right and the doctors again agree that he can play on Saturday. Fisher, however, continues to withhold his final lineup. He says Arnold Horween in all probability will start, and the players are sure that he will. Desmond's chances for starting at right end are considered good by some of the coaches.

The team has been coached to begin this week's game with a lot of speed and fire, and Desmond helps toward power on attack more than Phinney does. Pooch Donovan says that while the matter is up to the doctors again, he personally would be willing to take a chance of starting the big end rush so far as his condition now is concerned. The team after its secret drill, waited for the undergraduates to come to the field. The entire student body turned out and the Varsity received a big sendoff, both individually and collectively. All the team did in front of the crowd was to run up and down the field and then rush off to the locker building. There was hurrying here, too, for a 5:30 getaway was necessary to make connections for a train for the Essex County Club at Manchester, where the team will remain until Saturday morning.

To Rehearse Signals.

The team tomorrow will play no football but will simply walk through plays and rehearse signals. At the coaches practically, accompanied the team, and most of them will remain at Manchester with the squad until the day of the game.

Harvard's lineup, while not official, stands as Phinney, left end; Sedgwick, left tackle; Woods, left guard; Havemeyer, centre; Cook, right guard; Kane, right tackle; Steele, right end; Murray, quarter back; Humphrey, left half back; Casey, right half back, and Arnold Horween, full back. Steele will probably play the long side of Harvard's unbalanced line.

The Harvard team is confident that it will play many per cent. harder and better football than it did against the Tigers two weeks ago. The eleven regards the Yale proposition as nothing except a tough one, and expects a fight all the way. The coaches rely mainly on Harvard's shiftiness of attack, the power of Arnold Horween, and Casey's punning and work on the receiving end of forward passes. Casey is not now the only star in the backfield which is far better rounded than it was down in Jersey.

Touchdown Expected.

Harvard's running attack is expected to produce a touchdown, and the Crimson is sure that Yale will not be able to force its goal line. What Harvard fears most is the ability of Yale to get within such distance that Jim Braden can make a drop-kick. There is no doubt of the team being absolutely fit.

There were no injuries in the Tiger game except that of Desmond, and he now seems in trim to do a very thorough job at end. He has not practiced much and this may prove a handicap.

The Yale team arrived in Newtonville, a Boston suburb shortly before 7 o'clock and immediately drove to the Belmont Country Club where the men will be in quarters until Saturday noon. Coaches Sharpe, Brides, Bull, and Cole came along also, the first three making the trip from New Haven by automobile.

Dr. Sharpe said he was ready to announce his lineup as exactly the same as that with which the Blue began its game with Princeton last week. There is some doubt, he says regarding Allen's chances for lasting through the game, but otherwise the eleven is in good shape. The Yale boys surely did look fit to play a rugged game against Harvard.

NORTHWESTERN ARRIVES.

Will Wage Battle with Rutgers at Harrison Tomorrow.

Gotham football enthusiasts wishing to obtain a line on the comparative strength of Eastern and Western football will have an excellent opportunity Saturday when Rutgers meets Northwestern University on Harrison Field, Harrison, N. J. It is the only intersectional battle to be staged this year within easy reach of New Yorkers. The contest is arousing great interest and is certain to be seen by a large crowd.

Though neither Rutgers nor Northwestern has been unusually successful this year both schools are represented by strong elevens and each team is in the pink of condition for the impending battle, which is the last on their schedules.

Northwestern has, it is said, one of the strongest teams in the Western conference, though it has won but one big ten game. The Purple lost to Wisconsin early in the season by three points, and suffered a like defeat against Michigan, though both the Badgers and the Wolverines were outplayed, according to the verdict of the critics.

The Purple team is composed almost entirely of first year men and the defeats are attributed to the fact that the only three veterans, Captain Koehler Ellingwood, and Brightmire have been out of the game through injuries. These stars were All-Western men in 1917 and last year played on service teams. Northwestern for the first time this year will have the use of its entire squad Saturday, and the Purple fans are confident of victory.

The Northwestern squad, 31 strong, and headed by Coach Charles Bachman, will reach New York this morning and will be quartered at the Hotel Pennsylvania. This afternoon the players will have a short workout on Harrison Field.

Though playing a thousand miles from home the visitors will not be without support in the bleachers. Tonight the Northwestern alumni will have a banquet at the McAlpin, which will be addressed by President Lynn Harold Hough, and more than 500 old grads have a short workout on Harrison Field, inc.

Coach Bachman, besides having a backfield considered by many the equal of any in the West, has a surplus of linemen to choose from in Penfield, Weiderquist, Lassiter, Miller, Daley, and Turner. He probably will start with Young at centre, Penfield and Weiderquist at guards, and Daley and Turner at tackle.

On the wings he has two sensational players in the Barnard twins. These Missouri youths have outplayed the best sent against them this year. Besides being deadly tacklers they are adept in the handling of the forward pass.

Lane, the diminutive half back, has outputted every man who opposed him this year, and in the Indiana game last Saturday averaged fifty-seven yards, and his long spirals were largely responsible for the Purple victory.

More than 1,200 tickets have been sold at New Brunswick, and the Rutgers student body will attend en masse. New Jersey fans are intensely interested in the contest, and according to W. C. Letson, the Rutgers manager, every seat will be sold by Saturday noon.

TIGERS TO PLAY RUTGERS.

Anniversary Game Will Be Feature of 1920 Schedules.

Rutgers will be one of the football opponents next Fall of Princeton, according to the arrangements already made and all but adopted as official by the athletic authorities at both colleges. Announcement was made yesterday that the game next year, which will mark the resumption of athletic relations between the two Jersey teams, broken off after the 1915 game, would carry the additional importance of celebrating the semi-centennial of American collegiate football.

It is fifty years ago this month since Princeton and Rutgers met at New Brunswick for the first contest in intercollegiate football. During the present Autumn the authorities at Rutgers made desperate endeavors to arrange a fiftieth anniversary of that momentous day in the great college game, but Princeton was forced to decline to meet either in a regular or in a shortened exhibition game.

Last week another effort to observe in some fitting manner the fiftieth anniversary of football was made. Arrangements were negotiated among Princeton and Rutgers, and two other early pioneers in American football—Yale and Wesleyan—to hold a celebration at the Polo Grounds on Nov. 22, the day before the Army-Navy battle. All four universities were to contribute their football teams for the occasion, and it was planned to present the growth of football in three stages. One short game was to represent football as played prior to 1890, Princeton and Yale were to play a game showing the style used during the decade of 1890-1900, and Wesleyan was to engage Rutgers in a modern gridiron battle. Wesleyan had been invited to participate because she was a member of the old Eastern College Football League during the 80's and 90's. Other stunts were to show the growth of drop and placement goal kicking, forward passing and punting.

The teams were to present clearly such old-time formations as the Deland flying wedge, Woodruff guard back, turtle back wedge, revolving mass, tackle back, before interference, Week's hurdle plays, wing shift, Glenn Warner's football under the sweater, and the shoestring play.

These arrangements were abandoned yesterday when it became known that such a day of celebrating would be next to impossible on Nov. 22, since all four colleges would have finished their schedules and would have broken training.

Rutgers is going ahead with plans for next year's contest against the Tigers, acting on the assumption that there will be no hitch to the proceedings. Coach George Foster Sanford said yesterday that although it will be one year late as an anniversary game it is precedent for such delay to be found in the world's fair, which was held in 1893, one year after the exact anniversary date. The game will likely be played early in November, if not on the exact date of Nov. 6, and either the Palmer Stadium at Princeton or the Polo Grounds will be selected.

CADETS IN LONG DRILL.

Coaches Take Advantage of Half-Holiday and Work Team Hard.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The visit of the Prince of Wales to the Military Academy today gave the cadets a half holiday, which the army gridiron men utilized to good advantage, the coaches putting the Cadet eleven through three hours of the hardest kind of work.

McQuarrie ran some signals and had a rather lengthy kicking session, but did not get into the rough work. McQuarrie's kicks were disappointing, the big fellow seemingly showing the effects of his long layoff. Blaik trailed the Varsity team through the sharp signal drill which preceded the scrimmage, but did not participate in the heavy diving which was meted out to the remaining Varsity squad.

George and Byers, who are fighting for an end position, alternated at Blaik's place on the left wing. Kieffer was in at the other flank during the whole of the workout. The big team was drilled on the defense for a long period and showed some improvement, although the scrubs got through once for a score when given the ball inside the 10-yard line.

Greene was back at centre on the Varsity. Wheaton, who played for a brief time against Villa Nova, was in a quarter during the latter part of the drill. He drove the team with plenty of snap and vim.

HOLD EDISON MEET TONIGHT

Many Noted Athletes to Compete in 71st Regiment Armory.

The first athletic meet of the New York Edison Employes' Association will be held tonight at the 71st Regiment Armory, Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, with national and metropolitan champions entered in the open events. Two metropolitan championships, the 880-yard relay and the standing high jump, will also be included on the lengthy program.

In the 60-yard dash the following well-known athletes will toe the mark: Jack Eller, Frank McDonald, and Jim O'Brien of Loughlin Lyceum; Frank Conway, Morningside A. C.; Bernie Wefers, Jr., N. Y. A. C.; Andy Pendleton Alpha P. C.; Pete White and Roy Morse of the Salem-Crescents. A 1,000-yard handicap, with sixty-five entries, will bring together such fast men as E. Balestier and Arthur Reilly, Knights of St. Antony; W. F. Kelly, H. Brewser, Brooklyn A. A.; George Cornetta, N. Y. A. C., and George Buttner, Jersey Harriers.

The back-mark men in the 300-yard run will be C. E. Brundage Paulist A. C.; Al Huelsenbeck, N. Y. A. C.; J. J. O'Brien, Loughlin Lyceum; E. Farrell, Todd Ship Yards, and E. Perlemman, New York University. Prominent performers in the two-mile run include Max Bohland, Paulist A. C., scratch; Harry Wigger, Paulist A. C.; Jack Carey, Mohawk A. C.; C. E. Dubois, Hollywood Inn, and a score of other athletes with liberal handicaps. In the standing high jump Bernie Wefers, Jr., and Ted Clarke of the N. Y. A. C. are the favorites.

Those who follow athletics closely predict some high-class running in the 880-yard relay, metropolitan championship, in which seven of the fastest teams in the East will clash for premier honors. The local clubs are so evenly matched that even the sport writers themselves dare not attempt to pick the winners.

HARVARD CLUB IS VICTOR AT SQUASH

Defeats Columbia Players in Class B Tourney—Crescents Outplay Princeton.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.
Metropolitan League, Class B.

	Played.	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Yale Club	1	1	0	1.000
Harvard Club	2	1	1	.500
Princeton Club	2	1	1	.500
Crescent A. C.	2	1	1	.500
Columbia Club	1	0	1	.000

The Harvard Club and the Crescent Athletic Club were the winners yesterday in the second day of play in the Class B interclub series of squash tennis team matches of the Metropolitan League, the Crimson representatives defeating the Columbia Club, 3 to 2, on their home courts, while the wearers of the Half Moon entertained Princeton's alumni in Brooklyn with a 4-1 victory.

The Tigers were without the services of several of their dependable players, including E. C. Olds and Dr. Nettendorf, and although E. Catlin scored for the Orange and black at the top of the list, with Walker and Rothschild carrying their matches into three games each further down, the losers were plainly out of the running all through the encounter. It was the first victory for the Crescent A. C., who were whitewashed last week by Yale before it had been decided to play only five instead of seven men on a side.

Harvard lost to Princeton last week in a close match, and these three teams are now tied in the club standing. The Columbia Club, which played its first match yesterday, has yet to enter the winning column. Harold Kellock, a prominent Class B player several years ago, made a splendid showing against Munroe of Harvard, while I. R. Cornell and I. N. Worcester were winners for the Blue and White.

The summaries:

Harvard (3); Columbia (2).

John Munroe, Harvard, defeated Harold Kellock, Columbia, 18—13, 17—14; J. A. Richards, Harvard, defeated P. W. Chambers, Columbia, 15—10, 15—11; N. Worcester, Columbia, defeated G. Taylor, Harvard, 15—6, 15—8; G. N. Richard, Harvard, defeated W. A. Kimball, Columbia, 15—10, 15—4; I. H. Cornell, Columbia, defeated W. Burden, Harvard, 15—10

Crescent A. C. (4); Princeton (1).

E. Catlin, Princeton, defeated A. B. Baxter, Jr., Crescent, 18—11, 15—13; Dr. H. W. Dangler, Crescent, defeated J. Hoyt, Princeton, 7—15, 15—14, 15—11; M. M. Sterling, Crescent, defeated T. L. Richards, Princeton, 15—7, 15—7; N. F. Terrence, Crescent, defeated George Walker, Jr., Princeton, 15—12, 15—17, 15—8; C. W. Dingey, Crescent, defeated E. S. Rothschild, Princeton, 15—9, 15—13, 15—5.

BULL VICTOR IN SQUASH.

Defeats Cordier in Yale Club Tourney and Will Play Dana in Final.

Charles M. Bull, Jr., of the Squash Club, gave another remarkable exhibition of uphill play when he fought his way into the final round of the invitation squash tennis tournament at the Yale Club yesterday afternoon, defeating Augustus J. Cordier, the home representative, in three out of five games. 12-15, 11-15, 18-14, 15-12, 17-16. He will meet Anderson Dana of Harvard in the final round on Monday afternoon, the latter having won the upper semi-final from his clubmate, Ralph G. Coburn, 15-8, 15-12, 15-10.

The Bull-Cordier match, which was held on the championship court, with a large gallery closely following the play, was probably as close an encounter as has ever been staged in the history of American squash tennis. There was never a moment when one man seemed distinctly superior to his rival.

After losing two games and trailing 6-9 in the third, it seemed impossible that Bull should pull out a victory, though he was making the Yale star fight hard for every point. Scoring was an exceedingly difficult matter for both contestants, their total blanks for the match being no fewer than 102. This meant unusually long games throughout and often long rallies as well for the deciding of every ace or break in service.

The fourth and fifth games both ran to 24 hands the third required 22 and the first 19, which is practically record-breaking squash all the way. In spite of this tremendous strain on his endurance, Bull kept improving his game gradually, trusting to headwork and his tennis instinct for finding the flight of the ball after physical strength refused to do more.

The score by points was as follows:

FIRST GAME.
Cordier—0 2 2 0 0 0 0 2 0 1 1 2 0 1 0 0 2 0 2. Total, 15.
Bull—0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 2 1 0 1 0 5 1 0 x. Total, 12.

SECOND GAME.
Cordier—0 1 2 2 1 1 1 0 2 0 0 3 1. Total, 15
Bull—2 1 0 3 1 2 1 0 0 0 1 1 x. Total, 11.

THIRD GAME.
Cordier—0 1 0 2 0 2 2 0 0 1 0 1 1 0 0 0 1 1 2 0 0. Total, 14.
Bull—1 0 0 0 1 1 2 0 0 0 0 1 2 1 1 0 1 0 4 1. Total, 18.

FOURTH GAME.
Cordier—0 2 1 2 1 0 1 0 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 1 0 0 1 0 1 0 2 0. Total, 15.

FIFTH GAME.
Bull—1 0 1 1 0 0 3 2 0 1 0 2 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0 2 0 2. Total, 17.
Cordier—0 0 0 0 1 2 0 3 1 1 2 0 0 0 0 0 3 1 1 0 0 1 1 x. Total, 16.

Dana and Coburn, in the upper half, also had an interesting tussle, which ran to four games. The national runner-up of 1916 was in top form almost from the outset and had little difficulty in putting the opener to his credit by a 15—4 score. Coburn, however, came back strongly in the second and flashed a brand of squash that gave him an extra-point decision at 18—15.

In the third Dana resumed his irresistible hitting, allowing his rival only two points, while he scored freely and confidently all around the walls, finishing in only five hands. The fourth and last session also went to Dana, although Coburn hung on gamely to the finish reaching a total of 10 aces before admitting defeat.

The summary:

Semi-final Round—Anderson Dana, Harvard, defeated R. G. Coburn, Harvard, 15—4, 15—18, 15—2, 15—10; Charles M. Bull, Jr., Squash Club, defeated Augustus J. Cordier, Yale, 12—15, 11—15, 18—14, 15—12, 17—16.

200 HARRIERS ARE ENTERED.

Will Seek Interscholastic Honors at Van Cortlandt Tomorrow.

About 200 schoolboy harriers from New York City, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and up-State will toe the mark tomorrow afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park in the annual interscholastic cross-country championship, under the auspices of Columbia University. This race has been an annual fixture for years, with the exception of 1917 and 1918, and the entry list filed this Fall reveals more interest than ever before.

In connection with the Columbia interscholastic championship, competition for the Gustavus T. Kirby trophy will bring forth greater rivalry than ever. Already three schools have each won two legs on the prize, and all three have entered their strongest teams of hill and dalers. These teams are Mercersburg Academy, Schenectady High School and Morris High School.

Owing to the race tomorrow among P. S. A. L. schools, many of which have entered the same teams for both events, the two contests will be held simultaneously over the same course. It is possible for the winner of the P. S. A. L. event to be victor also in the Columbia championship, provided he has been entered for both.

Nine teams in addition to members of the P. S. A. L. have filed entries, and will enter the race. Newark Central H. S. has nominated an eleven dozen runners, Mercersburg will have eleven, and Poly Prep and St. Benedicts School each have ten men. Barringer and Bloomfield high schools each have a single entrant.

The competitors from schools outside the P. S. A. L. will be as follows:

Barringer H. S.—Edward Kirby.

Bloomfield H. S.—W. P. Fenton.

Mercersburg Academy—R. B. Brightbill, R. E. Adams, R. H. Sallard, F. E. C. Pike, K. J. Gardner, H. Hunt, R. W. Kenner, J. B. McFarlan, H. P. Trout, Park Weaver, and L. E. Wylie.

Newark Central H. S.—G. Douglas, A. Rauch, V. Pennell, R. Fisher, A. Schwartz, N. Turkenitz, F. Smith, H. Lever, W. Mulligan, H. Hoover, D. Burness, and C. Zimmerman.

New Rochelle H. S.—B. Renaud, J. Helfrich, L. Lyon, L. Decker, J. Watson, D. Renaud, D. Vaught, and Mr. Yale.

Poly Prep.—W. Plauth, C. Kittell, H. Thayer, F. Heling, D. Pierce, C. Fischer, D. O'Brien, H. Knight, T. Joyce, and S. Price.

St. Benedict's Prep.—Messrs. Gogan, McLaughlin, Cunniff, Crummy, Kelly, Reilly, McCormack, Mulcahy, Memwinger, and Courtney.

Schenectady H. S.—Messrs. Minogue, Arnel, Sibla, Kipp, Black, Levin, Grantart, Caplan, and Partridge.

Yonkers H. S.—Messrs. Ely, Hall, Helfrick, Reves, Hubbard, Schlesinger, Freudenheim, and Middleton.

The P. S. A. L. competing schools will be De Witt Clinton, Erasmus, Commerce, Manual Training, Bryant, Evander Childs, Flushing, Curtis, Richmond Hill, Boys' High, Stuyvesant, and Bryant.

N. Y. MERMAIDS WITHDRAW.

Misses Bleibtrey and Boyle Disappoint Gallery at Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—Miss Etheldа Bleibtrey and Miss Charlotte Boyle, New York mermaids, scheduled to compete against local girls here tonight in the Columbia pool, canceled their engagement at the last minute and disappointed 500 swimming enthusiasts who crowded the uptown pool. Miss Eleanore Uhl of Meadowbrook and Miss Jane Guest, unattached, had been scheduled to swim against the New Yorkers. The two competed in the event, the 220-yard dash, Miss Uhl winning in 3:12 2-5.

George Cunha, the Hawaiian natator, added another victory to his list by winning the 100-yard swim, beating Raymond Uhl and Vic Holst, Meadowbrook swimmers. He covered the distance in 1:02 2-5 seconds.

Miss Elizabeth Becker of this city won the women's diving championship with Miss Violet Swartley, unattached, second.

E. Duffy, this city, swimming unattached and with a handicap of 38 seconds took the 220-yard swim for men. His time was 3:24 1-5.

TEN IN TITLE TOURNEY.

Contestants Are Named for Pocket Billiard Championship Competition.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20.—The complete list of entries for the National American pocket billiard championship tournament, to be held at Philadelphia commencing Dec. 1, was announced today as follows:

Bennie Allen, Kansas City; Ralph Greenleaf, Wilmington, Del.; Jerome Keogh, Rochester, N. Y.; James Maturo, Denver, Col.; Edward I. Ralph, Highstown, N. J.; Joseph Concannon, New York City; Louis D. Kreuter, New York City; Morris D. Fink, Philadelphia; Frederick Schaefer, Hartford, Conn.; John M. Layton, Columbia, Mo.

The tournament will consist of a full round robin of forty-five games.

Boys' High and Poly Prep Tie.

The Boys' High School soccer eleven came from behind in its match against Poly Prep yesterday afternoon at Prospect Park, Brooklyn, and succeeded in tieing the game in the last few minutes of play, 1 to 1. Frese, playing right fullback for Poly Prep, shot a goal early in the first period and, as the teams battled on evenly, the point looked the sole score of the game. As time was getting shorter in the second half, however, Gluskin, the outside right for Boys', took a pass and booted in the goal which tied the score. The game was one of the series in the P. S. A. L.

LANGE IS WINNER IN BILLIARD MATCH

Takes Lead in Class C 18.2 Balkline Tournament by Defeat of Sloan.

John A. Lange took the lead last night in the American Amateur Billiard Association Class C 18.2 balkline tournament for the metropolitan championship at Fuller's Academy. He defeated Cecil Sloan by a score of 200 to 184. Prior to Lange's victory three players had been tied for the lead, Lange, Nadherny and Macy, with two victories and one defeat each. Lange has now won three of his four games.

While his playing against Sloan was not brilliant, it was consistent. Lange showed that he has the makings of a fine billiardist. His runs of 19, 17 and 17 and his average of 4.54 demonstrate that it was not because of any sensational exploits at the table that he won, but because of steady playing. His execution was good and his scattershots showed a great deal of promise. There is not the slightest doubt that he will be one of the strongest of amateur players in the net distant future.

Sloan is the nineteen-year-old boy who has shown such remarkable balkline billiards for a youngster. He has not won a game in the tournament to date but he has shown a great knowledge of the game. His execution is all that could be desired, but his nursing needs coaching, as soon as he develops this phase of the game he will be a dangerous rival for the best of them.

The consistency of Sloan's playing last night was emphasized by the fact that in only six of the forty-seven innings did he fail to count.

MATURO INCREASES LEAD.

Defeats Wolfert in Two Pocket Billiard Game.

James Maturo increased his lead in his pocket billiard exhibition match with Fred Wolfert by winning sixty blocks at Maurice Daly's Academy yesterday. In the afternoon he defeated the Brooklyn player by a score of 100 to 76, and in the evening he won by 100 to 68, as is usual in his games Maturo unearthed two more big runs. In the first game yesterday he knocked off 48 balls and later made a high run of 42.

In the evening Maturo was in his best stroke and Wolfert was fortunate to get 60 points. Maturo showed some of the best pocket billiards he has yet displayed, and that is saying something, for he has been playing excellently in his 1,200-point match with Wolfert. He has been a little more careful in making the easy shots he might have won by a still wider margin. On the difficult shots he was deadly, but on the "hangers" he was careless.

The total score for the match now is, Maturo 800, Wolfert 648. The match plays again this afternoon at 2 o'clock and this evening at 8:30.

STEINBUGLERS IN LEAD.

Cousins Score Easy Victories in Brooklyn Billiard Tourney.

Robert and Charley Steinbugler, cousins, were the winners in the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players' Class B 18.2 balkline tournament for the metropolitan championship at the National Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night. In the first game Robert defeated A. Sidney Jackson by a score of 150 to 44, and in the second game Charley took the measure of Sidney by a score of 150 to 76.

Both victories were easily scored. The defeat of Brussel by such a wide margin came as a distinct surprise, Charles Steinbugler has been playing fine billiards this season, but none expected him to trim Brussel so decisively. The cousins are now tied for the lead, with four games won and none lost.

BARTON STAGES COMEBACK.

Defeats Louis Paley in Snooker Pool Match at Doyle's Academy.

Three tournament games were played at John Doyle's Academy last night. In the pocket billiard event W. Herbert won over J. Cleland by 50 to 35. It was a good game, and if Copeland had been a little more careful on some of his shots,

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

Charlotte Greenwood, etc.

LINGER LONGER LETTY, a musical comedy in three acts. Book by Anna Nichols, lyrics by Bernard Grossman, music by Alfred Goodman. At the Fulton Theatre.

Letty ..... Charlotte Greenwood
Nikki ..... Eleanor Henry
Mayme ..... Olga Roller
Juliet ..... Marjorie McClintock
Mrs. Brewster ..... Louise Mink
Ethelmay ..... Bessie Hirsch
Roberts ..... Frances Victory
Marie ..... Virginia Travares
Jim ..... Olin Howland
Walter ..... Arthur Hartley
Colonel ..... Cyril Ring
Lamile ..... France Sandston
Father ..... Oscar Figman

A new musical show arrived at the Fulton Theatre last evening with just as much assurance as if there were not several others of its kind already in the field. It is called "Linger Longer, Letty," and is meant as a sort of sequel to the Charlotte Greenwood entertainment of similar name which was on view some seasons ago at the Shubert. The life of the party this time is a double life, for that honor must be shared about equally between the protracted Miss Greenwood and the by no means stunted Olin Howland. These two amiable young giants are genuine comics and between them they turn a hick musical show into an occasion for guffaws, chuckles and grins. "Linger Longer, Letty" is a faithful reproduction of 718 other identical musical comedies which have preceded it to Broadway, but Miss Greenwood and Mr. Howland make it funny.

The lanky Charlotte sings and romps and bays the moon. She steps over high walls and walks on all fours and strokes the ceiling. She says to the world: "I was born gawky. That for grace and loveliness," and snaps her fingers at grace and loveliness. And folks like her and find her grin infectious and cheer her to the well-known echo.

Then this Mr. Howland, who used to be known as Johnny Howland's brother, but who has of late been accumulating fame on his own account, is a comedian built on the lines of an asparagus stalk. He can sing pretty well and dance very well and now and again he lets you in on the secret that he is an uncommonly good actor. He is so tall and lean and lined and melancholy that his appearance last evening revived suddenly the great indoor sport of the season—thinking of some one to play Abraham Lincoln in Mister Drinkwater's tragedy.

Mention might be made, too, of one of those prodigiously precocious stage kids who seem to be able to do everything and who invariably enrapture a first-night audience. This one has a name like a government loan—Meet Miss Frances Victory.

The masterpiece which the Greenwood, Howland, Victory gang adorn may be described as a musical comedy, in which there are ladders strung with electric lighted rungs, which are ascended and descended rythmically by chorus girls or as a musical comedy in which chorus girls come out dressed as roosters and you've guessed it—chickens, and sing songs about chickens and turkeys trots and the like. Or in which a lot of girls dressed to resemble something—French pastry, possibly—come into the kitchen and sing the "Strawberry Festival Glide." Or harken to the song titles. There is "Slow Town Is Fast Town Tonight," and there is "Parisienne Mechanical Models," a wonderful idea. But you know the kind of show.

The score is by Alfred Goodman and, according to the announcements, it was none other than Mr. Goodman who conducted last evening. The trouble with letting the composer do this menial work lies in his disposition to grant encores when the players do not expect them, even, on occasions when the audience does not expect them. There was considerable secret hilarity last evening when the storm of applause which greeted Mr. Howland's first entrance was mistaken by the composer for a frenzied demand for the preceding musical number—a slight error which the audience was at some pains to rectify.

Benefit for Family of Bert Leslie.

A performance will be given at the Cohan & Harris Theatre on Sunday night in aid of the family of Bert Leslie, well-known as a comedian, who is now ill. The performance is being arranged by Joseph Maxwell and those who will appear include Sam Bernard, Mercedes, Avon Comedy Four, Tom Lewis, Harry Fox, Harry Kelly, Blanche Ring and Charles Winninger, Irene Franklin, Eddie Cantor, Bernard Granville and Herbert Corthell. There will also be a skit in which a number of cartoonists and newspaper men will participate.

Speakers for Drama League Meeting

The New York Drama League will hold a meeting at the Hudson Theatre next Tuesday afternoon, at which "Our Children and the Theatre" will be the topic of discussion. The speakers will include Major General John F. O'Ryan, Eleanor Gates, Mrs. John H. Hammond, President of the Parents' League, John J. Chapman, and Dr. Francis Hackett.

Miller and Blanche Bates Co-Stars.

Henry Miller and Blanche Bates will be seen again as co-stars this season in "The Famous Mrs. Fair," a play by James Forbes. Rehearsals are now under way, and the first performance will take place in Baltimore on Dec. 15. The play will be under the management of Mr. Miller and A. L. Erlanger.

Benefit for Rehearsal Club Today.

A benefit performance of "Quality Street" and "Pandora's Box" will be given this afternoon at the Fulton Theatre for the Rehearsal Club. The performance will be by children. Many prominent society women are interested in the benefit.

Friars to Give Public Frolic Dec. 21.

The first public Frolic of the Friars since 1916 will take place at the Lexington Theatre on Sunday night, Dec. 21. A program which will enlist the services of many well-known players is now in preparation.

John Barrymore Postpones His Trip

John Barrymore, whose temporary withdrawal from the cast of "The Jest" had been announced, has postponed his trip to England. He will continue to appear in "The Jest" indefinitely.

WAR ON BERGER CANDIDACY.

Court Action Threatened to Stop Campaign for Seat He Lost.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 20.—With the nomination of Victor L. Berger, Socialist, filed today at the office of the Secretary of State, as a candidate for the seat from which he was recently expelled by Congress, intimation has been made that steps will be taken to test the legality of his campaign.

An opinion from Attorney General Blaine may be called for within a few days, while court action has been threatened as a means of stopping him.

TWO MORE BROKERS HELD IN BOND PLOT

Samuel Marder and Herman Horrowitz Arrested in Connection with Missing Stock.

$56,000 OF LOOT RECOVERED

Grand Jury Hears Witnesses in Case of David W. Sullivan—May Indict Today.

The arrest of two men who described themselves as stock brokers and the recovery of more stolen securities were the developments yesterday in the work of the police and other authorities in cleaning up the thefts of a million dollars' worth of stocks and bonds in the financial district in the last few months. Detectives Brown and Mayer arrested yesterday morning and took to the District Attorney's office Samuel Marder, a young man who described himself as a broker and gave his address as 87 Madison Street. He was arrested at Canal Street and East Broadway, and after being questioned by Assistant District Attorney John T. Dooling he was taken to Police Headquarters and locked up, charged with the larceny of a certificate for 100 shares of stock of the American Hide and Leather Company, valued at $3,200.

The second prisoner was Herman Horowitz of 5 Hester Street, who was arrested last night after Marder had been questioned for hours by the District Attorney and the police.

The charge involves the disappearance of stock worth about $25,000. Marder, it was charged, acted in concert with Horowitz in the theft of the bonds from the office of Schuyler, Chadwick & Burnham, 100 Broadway. This stock was given to a messenger on the afternoon of Nov. 10 by Samuel Wechsler, assistant manager of Miller & Co., 120 Broadway, and was by him taken to the office of Schuyler, Chadwick & Burnham. They were stolen from the cashier's window shortly after they were delivered there.

To the police Marder admitted that he had tried to dispose of the stolen stock certificate. He said he went to a broker, a friend, and had offered the stock. It was refused, and he then returned it to the person from whom he took it to sell on a fifty-fifty commission. A few days later, it was charged, he tried to sell some Republic Steel & Iron stock to the head of a messenger service.

When questioned as to the identity of the person who had given him the stock to sell the prisoner's memory was hazy. He did not know more about him except the places on the east side which he frequented. He offered to go with the detectives to these haunts and assist them in finding the thief.

Marder was shown a photograph of William W. Easterday, several times convicted of swindling, and who has already been mentioned as a frequenter of the office of Sullivan & Co., 10 Wall Street, and a friend of David W. Sullivan, head of the firm now under arrest for receiving stolen stock. He at once identified the photograph as that of a man with whom he had done business. He said that Easterday owed him about $2,000. He added that he had sold stock for him and had seen him only recently in an office in Broadway. Marder said that before the war he, with two others, had a brokerage office under the name of Marder & Co., 74 Broadway. They closed up because they never had any customers. Marder said he had worked for Secor, Weil & Co., 111 Broadway.

The District Attorney received word yesterday that practically every bank in Washington, D. C., had as collateral some securities stolen in this city, and this convinced the authorities here that Washington was the center for the disposal of bonds and stocks stolen here.

The police last night said that they succeeded in recovering yesterday two certificates for one hundred shares each of American International Corporation; three certificates each for one hundred shares of B. F. Goodrich, common; two certificates for one hundred shares each American Beet Sugar Company; all to the value of $56,000. All these securities passed through the office of Sullivan & Co., the police say, and the head of the firm contended that this was stock that had been received from the three men whose existence the police have not discovered.

The District Attorney presented evidence to the Grand Jury yesterday against David W. Sullivan, head of the firm of Sullivan & Co., brokers, of 10 Wall Street. Among the witnesses called were a representative of Harriman & Co., where some of the stolen bonds alleged to have been received by Sullivan were found, Patrick O'Brien of the Washington Police Department, W. D. Browder, a bookkeeper for Sullivan & Co., and others. The books and accounts of the firm were also taken into the Grand Jury room. The jury may report to Judge Rosalsky today.

An indictment was sought charging Sullivan with criminally receiving stolen property. Specifically 200 shares of Crucible Steel Company stock, which was stolen Oct. 28 last from a messenger in the employ of Clark, Childs & Co., 125 Broadway, and which later came into Sullivan's possession, it is alleged, were then sent to Washington, D. C., and put up as collateral for a loan of $74,000, and finally found on Nov. 11 at the Equitable Trust Company in this city.

Justice Delehanty in the Supreme Court, where Sullivan was taken on a writ, reduced the prisoner's bail from $75,000 to $45,000.

MURPHY MAY TESTIFY.

Tammany Leader's Name Mentioned in Hartog Suit for $329,000.

Special to the New York Times.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Nov. 20.—When the trial of the action of Ferdinand Hartog, Jr., against his brother, Louis N. Hartog, to recover $329,000 for commissions for the sale of millions of pounds of glucose to the British Government, which he alleges he brought about, was resumed before Supreme Court Justice Platt at White Plains today, it was reported that Charles F. Murphy, Tammany Hall Boss, would be called as a witness.

It is alleged by the plaintiff that Mr. Murphy financed the corporation headed by Louis Hartog, who sold the glucose to Paul Klopstock, an agent for the British Government.

During the trial today Mr. Murphy was spoken of as having an interest in the company. The plaintiff testified he had a verbal agreement with his brother to receive 5 per cent. commissions on all the sales he made. The defendants assert he was only to receive a salary of $50 a week. Ferdinand denied that he had written a letter to his brother demanding that he settle the amount of his bill or he would ruin his business. On cross-examination Klopstock said he talked over the business with Louis Hartog, and that all the plaintiff did was to furnish him with a booklet about the glucose and that he got all his information from that.

Education Notes.

A written examination of applicants for license as teacher clerk in elementary schools will be conducted at the Board of Education Hall on Dec. 15. The oral examination and practical test will be held later at the call of the Board of Examiners. Candidates must be not less than eighteen nor more than forty years of age, except that the limit of forty does not apply to a person assigned by the Board of Superintendents prior to Dec. 23, 1918, as substitute additional teachers. The present salary runs from $800 to $1,300 by annual increments of $50 for satisfactory service. A more liberal schedule will go into effect in 1920. Candidates should register not later than Dec. 3.

Applications for an examination for licenses as assistant principal in a truant or parental school will be received until Dec. 12. The salary is $1,600 a year when provided with lodgings and maintenance or $2,400 a year when not so provided.

There is urgent need for additional substitutes in the elementary schools so that many who qualify may obtain steady employment. Applicants must be citizens of the United States, must be at least eighteen years of age and must have had education and experience satisfactory to the Board of Examiners. The salary is $4 a day of actual service. Candidates are required to take a brief oral examination in the common branches of the elementary school course. The oral tests are given each week. A written examination is not required of graduates of normal schools, training schools or colleges, nor is it required of high school graduates who have had two years' successful experience in teaching. For the other candidates the written examination will be given at 9 P. M. on each Tuesday during November and December.

The vocational guidance course at the City College which meets at the Centrepee Building, Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, will meet every Saturday beginning from 11:15 A. M. to 1:15 P. M. A change has been made to enable all members of the vocational guidance courses to attend the lectures of the Training School for Continuation Teachers. The vocational guidance clinic, which is operated in connection with the course, offers its facilities to individuals and schools. Schools represented in the course, about fifty in number, may use the vocational forms and records of the clinic upon written application to the Director, I. David Cohen.

Rooting Out the Reds

The shots from the I. W. W. Headquarters in Centralia, Washington, which killed four veterans of the World War and wounded others in an Armistice Day parade, give dramatic emphasis to the fact that a year after Germany's open war on civilization was defeated, we are still being attacked by sinister forces of revolution and anarchy which Germany, many believe, turned loose upon the world by way of Russia. That the American public is rapidly losing patience with the organized and persistent efforts of foreign theorists to destroy American institutions is evidenced in many directions. Not only is the Department of Justice rounding up suspects in every part of the country, but there are pending in Congress fifty-two bills which are designed to give the Government all the authority needed to deal with the Bolshevik, anar

Workman's Compensation Insurance For Manufacturers, Contractors and Public Utilities

How These Big Concerns Buy Their Compensation Protection

MORE than 4,000 big business concerns are now buying their Workmen's Compensation Insurance on a "cost-plus" basis.

Such concerns as the General Electric Co.; United Shoe Machinery Co.; American Pulley Co.; United States Glass Co.; and others in various lines.

These concerns get the fullest possible protection—without having to pay agents' commissions, and stockholders' profits.

They are getting their protection at the actual cost of claims paid out, plus the net cost of administration by expert insurance men with long experience in insurance and safety promotion.

The Liberty Mutual is saving practically a fourth of their yearly premiums.

Does this practical way of buying insurance appeal to you? Then write today for complete details.

What Does Quick Service Mean in Settling Claims?

LIBERTY Mutual protection means much more than the prompt payment of claims.

It means that when an employee is injured, all you need do is to notify the Liberty Mutual, and they relieve you of all responsibility.

They deal with the injured employee in a kindly spirit—the way you want your employees treated.

And Liberty Mutual service means still more. It means prevention of accidents. The suggestions of our safety experts have reduced the number of accidents in many instances from 20 to 50 per cent.

This service begins the moment you become a Liberty Mutual policyholder.

If prompt service—saving in labor turn-over—reduction in time-loss—as well as the dollars-and-cents saving in cost—appeal to you, send coupon today for details.

The Things That Give the Liberty Mutual Its Great Strength

NOT alone in its ample financial strength and legal reserves, but also in the character of its policyholders lies its strength.

It provides besides, an added strength by reinsurance against every loss exceeding $50,000—thus making the protection doubly secure.

Over $3,000,000 has been paid back to Liberty Mutual policy-holders—cash returns of 30 per cent. of yearly premiums.

Why Pay High For Your Automobile Liability Insurance?

YOU can also secure your automobile liability insurance without paying agents' commissions. You can buy it without paying stockholders' profits.

You can buy it direct from the Liberty Mutual at actual cost of protection.

HINDENBURG FUROR CHILLED BY STORM

No Clash Between Right and Left, but Much Shouting of "Down with Republic!"

TROOPS ARE KEPT BUSY

Masses of Anti-Republicans Try to Disturb the War Inquiry, but Lack Numbers.

HEARINGS ARE SUSPENDED

Hindenburg Gets Another Big Ovation as He Leaves Berlin—Will Not Be Recalled.

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—"There will be a shooting," was the word passed around among the fanatics of the Extreme Right and Left parties and some newspapers repeated it with the comment, warning or encouraging the people to venture into the streets and aid the respective parties to decide the battle.

But there was no shooting today when Hindenburg, Ludendorff, Helfferich and their retinue of reaction arrived at the Reichstag to testify before the Commission prying into peace possibilities. But if there was no shooting and no bloodshed it was really not due to any wise preventive measures by the government, but to the cold, snow and storm that had transformed Berlin into something like Moscow in midwinter and depressed even the spirits of the reactionary and fanatical fanatics.

Pale and peaky people accumulated at Helfferich's villa in Hitzigstrasse and cheered loyally, waving black, white and red flags as Hindenburg's party left that abode of the republic's enemies and drove through the streets lined with soldiers toward the Reichstag building, where another few thousand awaited him. The mounted guards preceding and following Hindenburg's automobile immediately drove back the crowds, consisting mostly of students in the full glory of their traditional costumes, some fur-coated gentlemen, and a large number of women.

As Hindenburg left the automobile some people shouted "Don't tell them anything," but Hindenburg who had until then repeatedly thanked the crowd and seemed very pleased now quickly stepped through the door which closed abruptly and prevented the masses which had broken the military cordon from following inside.

Laborers Threaten Anti-Republicans.

Doubtless there was an organized effort afoot to disturb the session of the committee, and if the weather had permitted there would have been larger numbers and they would have succeeded. Balked in their efforts, the crowds withdrew toward the Tiergarten, but a party of ladies and gentlemen stationed themselves within the Reichstag building encouraged and directed the masses, which with shouts of "Down with the republic," and cheers for the Kaiser and Hindenburg again and again tried to break the military cordon.

The reactionary masses compelled an entrance through the less strongly guarded other six or eight doors, but the snowstorm had caused an immense blockade of wagons and large masses of laborers had accumulated who, when they realized what the reactionaries were about, assumed a threatening attitude. Whereupon the latter, with more shouts of "Down with the republic," retired toward the Tiergarten.

Some ultrafanatics tried to make speeches, but the snowstorm soon put them up. Here and there Socialists threatened to clear the ground before the Reichstag if the soldiers could not and would not, but the weather was too cold for general action. Meanwhile a great many reactionaries had managed to gain entrance through the various doors despite the strictest control, and they soon made their presence known. Hindenburg and Ludendorff entered the building about 10:15 and walked through two solid walls of silent spectators to the committee room, where they were greeted by Chairman Gothein and Bethmann.

As they stood side by side in the central hall a large crowd with all eyes upon them. Hindenburg at first seemed to overtower Ludendorff, as indeed everybody else in the room. His strong, almost square features were very pale. Extremely serious, he looked physically weaker though more voluminous in his black frock coat than in uniform. Ludendorff's features, on the contrary, seemed leaner and sharper than while he was still the war lord's right hand.

The two generals prefaced their remarks by the "reservations" under which they will swear and testify, again and again Chairman Gothein protested against the conditions, being expressed in Hindenburg's "reservation" read by Ludendorff. Gothein wanted only the facts and the reactionary elements predominating in the audience audibly demonstrated against him.

After Hindenburg had been answering the committee's eight questions, but soon was interrupted by the notorious Pan German, Professor Schaefer, who acted as an expert, and protested against the admission of any opinion as testimony, remarking that Hindenburg's and Ludendorff's opinion formed a part of history and should be permitted. Schaefer was evidently using Helfferich's tactics and succeeded, compelling the committee to interrupt the session to consult.

Ludendorff Loses His Poise.

After the recess Chairman Gothein announced that the committee had concluded that experts might only answer when asked and had no right to protest against the committee's rulings, therefore opinions will continue to be ruled out as evidence. If this ruling should generally prevail, throughout the inquiry, Hindenburg and Ludendorff examination (if that term be permitted) very little would have gone on the record.

Hindenburg's answer to the eight questions was that in his opinion it was not the German Army nor its leaders, but the German political leaders, aided by the Socialists, who lost the war. By putting Bethmann's agitation, Hindenburg added that the members of the Government certainly meant very well and were "all honorable men." I hear Ludendorff, who followed, one would have thought Wilhelm II. was not only the all highest, but the all wise, and that whatever he did was for the benefit of the whole world, which, unfortunately, could not accept Prince Max's Chancellor, Gothein, despite his ruling, permitted a lot of Hindenburg's opinions to go on the record, he showed less consideration for Ludendorff's opinions, which constantly were ruled out.

Ludendorff grew excited and said it was an infamous lie that he was really directing German policy during the war. Cross-questioned regarding the U-boat war, Ludendorff lost entirely that admirable self-possession which he was wont to possess, and got quite excited, constantly removing and replacing large horn-rimmed glasses through which he read from notes. Notes from Haniel and Bernstorff, written from Washington, warning of the inevitability of the U-boat war, were read by the committee and only increased Ludendorff's nervousness. He finally called upon the whole German people to decide between him and the German Embassy in Washington.

Bernstorff smiles, and he can afford to.

WAR INQUIRY RESTS.

Hindenburg and Ludendorff Not to be Called Again.

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—The sub-Committee of the National Assembly investigating war responsibility has decided to postpone the resumption of the inquiry for ten days.

It has also decided that the further examination of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff concerning President Wilson's peace action is unnecessary.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg's departure today for Madgeburg was the occasion for a renewal of the ovation tendered him on his arrival in Berlin.

The Field Marshal reviewed the guard of honor while the crowd sang national songs. Some shouts of "the next time we meet, you will be the imperial President," were heard.

Demonstrations for Hindenburg Suggest Restoration of Monarchy.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 20.—From people in close touch with the active branch of the German Monarchist Party in Holland supporting the Crown Prince I learn that the present anti-governmental demonstrations in Berlin which are taken for manifestations for Hindenburg, are viewed as premature, due to overzealous, unorganized enthusiasm. While these demonstrations are naturally propaganda for the monarchist cause, generally they are considered as unfortunate by those working slowly and optimistically for a constitutional democratic monarchy.

Although this latter party is well organized it has no troops at its command at present, and the moment is not yet considered ripe for open manifestations of this sort.

"Will the Kaiser be content to stay at Amerongen now that he sees the tremendous reception Hindenburg has received in Berlin?" said a well-informed Dutch politician who knows the Kaiser personally. "Now is the time to watch the Kaiser if ever. He knows that 75 per cent. of the German people are royalists and he may be tempted to return to Germany."

Those favoring the Crown Prince Party are said to have feared that after Hindenburg's welcome the Kaiser might rush back to Berlin where he undoubtedly would find a grand reception.

From his cold bleak island the Crown Prince is following events keenly and the telegraph wires at Amerongen are kept busy.

DEEP SNOW IN BERLIN THREATENS FOOD TIEUP

Mayor Sends Call for Shovels and Drays—Removal Will Be Costly.

BERLIN, Nov. 19. (Associated Press.)—Urgent calls for brooms, shovels, wheelbarrows and drays have been made by the Mayor of Berlin in his frantic effort to wage battle on snowdrifts, which are daily mounting in the streets of the capital. From the Brandenburger Gate to Alexanderplatz, and from the Spree to the southern limits of the inner city, every street is flanked with four-foot snowbanks, while the pavements and sidewalks are solidly covered with corrugated masses of snow.

Conditions in outlying residence sections are even worse, and the situation generally has reached a stage which threatens to become disastrous to food deliveries and traffic generally.

The snowstorm, which has prevailed here during the last few days has placed a heavy financial burden on the city, as the cost of removing it has jumped from 90 pfennigs per cubic metre in peace time to 4½ marks. On this basis it will cost more than 2,000,000 marks to remove the snow from the principal thoroughfares.

The movement of freight trains also is being seriously impeded because of the condition of the yards. The Mayor has not as yet called upon citizen volunteers to combat the "white terror."

YARN ABOUT OUR FLEET ALARMS ITALIANS

Report That a Battleship Squadron Was Going to the Adriatic Reached Rome.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless and Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS Nov. 19.—The American peace delegation received today from Rome a protest against an "official American statement" to the effect that an American battleship squadron would be sent to the Adriatic to preserve order.

It appears that this report was printed under a Paris date line in all the Italian newspapers and created a furor in Italy. Investigation here showed that some one sent to the Italian newspaper men at the Italian peace delegation headquarters a typewritten sheet in Italian purporting to be from the American "official press representatives" stating that a battleship squadron was to be sent to the Adriatic. It was taken at its face value and telegraphed to Italy.

It is the opinion of Americans that some of the d'Annunzio propagandists with whom Paris abounds put out the story in order to influence Italian public opinion on the eve of the elections in favor of the Italian Nationalist Party of d'Annunzio and his followers. Such a threat by America would tend to fire Italian patriotic ardor and give support to militarist politicians.

Indict 22 Portland I. W. W. For Criminal Syndicalism

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 20.—Twenty-two alleged members of the I. W. W., arrested here Nov. 11, following the shooting of four former service men at Centralia, Wash., were indicted here today by the Multnomah County Grand Jury, charged with violation of the State criminal syndicalism act.

It is said the indictments are the first to be returned by any Grand Jury in which membership in the I. W. W. is considered a violation of criminal syndicalism laws. The men carried I. W. W. membership cards when arrested, it was said.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Nov. 20.—Eleven alleged I. W. W., charged with first degree murder in connection with the Armistice Day shooting here, were arraigned today before Judge Reynolds at Chehalis. They have thirty-six hours in which to plead.

BOLSHEVIKI AGREE TO FREE PRISONERS

Exchange Terms Arranged with Baltic States at the Dorpat Conference.

ARMISTICE MAY COME NEXT

Soviet Delegates Are Said to Expect That Peace Terms Will Be Considered.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DORPAT, Nov. 19 (via Copenhagen, Nov. 20.)—It is announced tonight that the terms on which prisoners and hostages will be exchanged with the Soviet are agreed upon.

The situation regarding the peace discussion is rather obscure, but it seems certain that there have been informal conversations between Litvinoff and the Esthonian and Lettish representatives, if not about actual peace at least concerning an armistice. It is suggested that another Soviet commission, perhaps containing a military member, will shortly visit Dorpat to negotiate an armistice, but it is doubtful whether the word peace will be officially mentioned until the result of Litvinoff's conversations with the British in Copenhagen is known.

There is, however, always a danger that the Bolsheviki may seize the opportunity given by Yudenitch's defeat to concentrate heavy forces against the Esthonians with the object of forcing them to speed peace. From what I have seen of the Esthonian troops in a six hours' journey in a troop train two days ago such an attempt is likely to be unsuccessful. The men were well-equipped, good-looking soldiers. Their discipline is excellent and the officers had the same friendly attitude toward the men characteristic of the best French troops.

They declared that this battalion was in no way exceptional, that the whole force was animated with the same spirit, but that it was natural after six years of more or less incessant fighting they should be disinclined for a further military adventure whose sole purpose appeared to them to be the restoration of a régime in Russia whose leaders have shown little disposition to recognize the Esthonians' claims to independence. But they will defend their own territory gallantly, as they have done during the past year.

The most favorable feature of the Dorpat conference is the great advance made toward a league of the Baltic States in particular, and perhaps of Poland, Ukraine, and Finland also, as a real concrete force. Conversations between the different statesmen during the last few days have paved the way toward the establishment of a federation that would be the surest guarantee of security at home and abroad and of future prosperity.

I think the Esthonian leaders realize how greatly they will benefit by united rather than individual action, and though Esthonia is most exposed to the Bolshevist military menace at present she can be trusted to do her utmost to restrain the peace movement until she gets a lead from the Entente.

That peace is for her a crying necessity is, however, obvious. Should a bellicose policy prevail in the allied councils the Esthonians' position, already delicate, will become difficult to a degree.

Nov. 17.—As the Soviet envoy Litvinoff passed through the silent crowd in the hall of the Dorpat station yesterday evening I heard a word on the lips of two men near the door engaged in earnest conversation. The word was Brest-Litovsk. Litvinoff must have heard it also, though he made no sign, but as he entered his carriage his thoughts may well have gone back to the peace which, as it seemed, delivered Russia into German servitude.

Now, unless indications are fallacious, he is on his way to negotiate a peace that will recognize Soviet Russia's independence and the Bolshevist régime as the de facto Government of the former empire.

The logic of facts admits no other interpretation, although officially the conference here with the Baltic States, which opens today, and the still more important reunion at the end of the month with the British in Copenhagen is only to discuss the exchange of military and political prisoners.

As matters stand today Yudenitch's White Russian Army is being steadily driven back to the Esthonian frontier at Narva. It is thoroughly beaten. The Esthonians and Letts are unwilling to continue fighting. If their country was invaded by the Bolsheviki they would resist, but they have no desire for aggressive tactics. New countries which previously were not allowed to share in their own Government by Russia, they have everything to create from the ground up—a civil administration, and a financial and economic system. In addition to this heavy task the burden of maintaining an army is intolerable. Peace is not only wanted but a vital necessity, if they are to remain as separate entities.

It is significant that although before, when the meeting here was featured as a peace conference, only Esthonia and Latvia had agreed to take an active part—with Lithuania in attendance somewhat vaguely as an onlooker—now that the official program is only the exchange of prisoners, Poland, Ukraine, and Lithuania have also sent accredited representatives. It seems clear that the intention is to discuss peace—or, at least, an armistice—conditions here, but only for two or three days in a more or less tentative manner. Then Litvinoff will proceed to Copenhagen to take up a similar discussion—with the similar nominal purpose of exchanging prisoners—with the British.

The conditions to be offered by Litvinoff and his companions are said to include, first, an offer to recognize the complete independence of all the new States that were formerly a part of the Russian Empire; secondly, the resumption of trade relations between the Soviets and these States, and, thirdly, mutual toleration and protection for the lives and property of the new States' nationals in Soviet Russia and of Soviet nationals in the new States. Finally, the very nature of the contract would imply recognition of Soviet independence and authority.

Peerage for Sir Albert Stanley.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Sir Albert Stanley, Member of Parliament for Ashton-under-Lyne, and a former railroad official in the United States, will soon resign his seat in the House and will be offered a place in the Peerage, according to The Mirror. Sir Albert resigned the Presidency of the Board of Trade a few months ago.

Bad German Shoes Shown as "American" By Dutch Dealers to Deceive the People

THE HAGUE, Nov. 20 (Associated Press).—A controversy of possible far-reaching effect on American trade relations in Holland is in progress in the Amsterdam and Rotterdam Municipal Councils regarding the quality of American shoes, of which thousands of pairs have been imported by the municipalities in an effort to break the high prices of the Dutch manufacturers.

The possibility of an extraordinary after-the-war trade plot was hinted at in a meeting of the Rotterdam Council last night. Alderman de Miranda said that shoes which Dutch dealers had dissected and derisively displayed in their windows to show their poor quality were not American but German, "ersatz leather" having been substituted by the dealers to convince the public that American shoes were of poor quality and "made of paper."

The workmen's organizations which have been permitted to buy American shoes collectively in an effort to reduce the cost of living reported them to be of excellent quality.

The prices of imported shoes have been fixed by the municipalities at an average of 11½ florins, approximately 40 per cent. below the previously prevailing prices of the same quality of Dutch shoes.

The controversy is occupying more space in the press than any other American subject since the seizure of the Dutch ships.

GEN. GAIDA SHELLED INTO SUBMISSION

Field Artillery and Gunboats Concentrated Fire on Rebel Position at Vladivostok.

AMERICAN BARRACKS HIT

Allied Forces Were Neutral, but International Police Protected All Property.

VLADIVOSTOK, Nov. 18, (Associated Press.)—The revolutionary movement against the Kolchak Government, which was started Monday morning by the Social Revolutionists-Zemstvo group in Vladivostok under the military leadership of General Gaida, former commander of the Czechoslovak forces on the Siberian front, was put down by the Government forces this morning. General Gaida, who had been wounded, was captured. The Government forces shortly before noon today were in complete control of the city. Some of the prisoners taken have already been executed.

The Government forces were assisted by Russian gunboats in the harbor. The allied troops in Vladivostok and the allied warships stationed in the port maintained neutrality, as did the Czechoslovak forces formerly of Gaida's command. The international police corps in the city, however, patrolled the streets and protected the property of Russians and allied citizens.

The attempted revolution started on Monday morning at 8 o'clock, when the Social Revolutionary-Zemstvo group proclaimed a new democratic representative government and the railroad station was seized after sharp fighting. On top of General Gaida's train near the railroad station a green and white flag, the colors of the Siberian Assembly, which was dissolved by Admiral Kolchak, was hoisted. On the banner was inscribed the words "For a Constituent Assembly." A semblance of a Ministry was formed on the train, Ivan Alexandrovitch Yakushiff being named President. As his chief aids he had Nikolai Antonovitch Krakowitski, and Valerian Ivanovitch Moraviski.

General Gaida had told The Associated Press that a coup d'etat would be effected without bloodshed, that he had 2,000 men opposing 1,500 Government troops and soldiers in the government army were deserting rapidly and taking the oath of fidelity to the new régime, being installed in its military forces.

But Government forces under General Rozanoff held the entire town with the exception of the immediate vicinity of the station, and, moreover, were in control of the line of hills west and north of the town. Machine guns were placed at street corners early in the fighting, which soon became general, the rebels being driven in toward the railroad station.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon during a heavy rainstorm, the opposing forces clashed in a savage battle for the possession of the station, approximately 5,000 rifle and machine gun shots being fired before nightfall.

The final battle began before dawn. Shortly after midnight the Government troops moved two three-inch field guns to the position at the Svianidskaia bridge, by which this main thoroughfare of the city crosses the Siberian railroad. The bridge is only 500 yards north of the station, which was the strongest position of the rebels. A little later troops, reinforced by 100 cadets from the naval training school, proceeded to the business centre of the city, while armored cars began arriving at the bridge.

Before the battle opened international policeman and three American soldiers succeeded in gaining entrance to the railway station, from which they took two Russian women who had been marooned there since the fighting started. At 1 o'clock there was a burst of machine-gun fire against rebels holding the railway yards and gunboats as well as the field guns on the bridge started to drop shells on the station. Some of the shells set fire to the barracks of the American replacement battalion.

No definite figures on casualties were given out. The losses of the Gaida forces in their seizure of the railway station yesterday morning are known to have been 6 dead and 20 wounded, while it is estimated that 100 civilians were either killed or wounded during the day's fighting. A British Red Cross officer was killed at the station plaza. T. W. Rowland of Hermosa Beach, Cal., a sailmaker's mate on the New Orleans, was hit by a bullet and is not expected to live. The American Red Cross is caring for many wounded.

SOVIET PICTURES ALLIES IN PANIC

Boasts Red Victories Are Forcing "British Bourgeoisie" to Seek Peace.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—A Bolshevist wireless message received here says:

"The British bourgeoisie are dismayed and are attempting to arrange a Peace Conference in which Soviet Russia and its White Guard enemies can participate. The transformation is the work of the Red Armies, which prepared the ground for diplomatic negotiations.

"After the Reds have driven Kolchak eastward, Denikin southward, and Yudenitch into the sea, the idea of negotiations with Soviet Russia began to warm in the minds of the bewildered Allies.

"While the Entente is convening a Peace Conference the Reds will finally defeat the Black Hundred impostors, and the Entente will face the only lawful Russian Government, that of the Soviets."

The Esthonian legation in London asserts that M. Litvinoff, the representative of the Russian Bolshevki who attended the Dorpat conference, told the representative of the press at Dorpat that the Bolsheviki were prepared to yield their Gulf of Finland fleet as a guarantee of peace and to establish a neutral zone between Russia and the border states.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The Japanese delegation to the Peace Conference today denied a published report that negotiations were in progress between the Russian Soviet Government and Japan.

A dispatch from London under date of Nov. 16 quoted the Berlin correspondent of The Daily Herald, a labor organ, as saying he had learned that the Russian Soviet Government, in view of the victorious advance of its army in Siberia, was trying to get in touch with Japan in order to regulate outstanding questions.

EGYPTIAN DISORDER WON'T ALTER POLICY

Commissioner Appointed by British Cabinet Minister Will Proceed to Cairo.

LATEST RIOTS ARE SERIOUS

Ten Killed, 120 Injured, and Three Police Stations Burned Before Order Was Restored.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Great Britain declines to be deflected from her Egyptian policy by the demonstrations that are taking place in Egypt on the part of the Nationalists, according to well-informed sources. She is absolutely determined, it is indicated, to continue in the course mapped out, as she regards herself as trustee for the whole people of Egypt.

Therefore, despite the demonstrations against it, the Commissioner appointed by Lord Milner, the Secretary for the Colonies, will proceed to Cairo in due course, it is declared.

In the House of Commons today Edward Shortt, Home Secretary, referred to the immense amount of anti-British propaganda with reference to Egypt purporting to emanate from the American press and circulated here in the form of pamphlets. He declared that it was most difficult to take action looking to the suppression of these publications. He explained that seditious utterances and allegations of atrocities by British soldiers were first distributed to newspapers in the United States by the propaganda bureaus there. They were clipped from these papers and republished in Great Britain as opinions expressed by the American newspapers.

The Government, he said, was considering action against the authors, and the matter would not be dropped.

CAIRO, Nov. 16.—Ten persons were killed and 120 injured, ninety of whom suffered gunshot wounds, in a riotous demonstration which continued here all day today. The disorder was the most serious since the disturbances last March and April.

Three police stations were set on fire by mobs, which liberated prisoners and paraded the streets carrying wounded rioters. British troops finally succeeded in restoring order.

The rioting was in five different localities. The object of the mobs in storming the police stations was to release demonstrators who had been arrested. They were successful in freeing several such prisoners.

The number of minor casualties cannot be estimated with any approach to accuracy because many of the slightly wounded were carried to their own homes. The Egyptian infantry fired into the crowds at two places where rioting was going on, killing two persons and wounding several others.

No Europeans were injured, although the rioters entered several European houses and accused the inmates of firing on the crowd. The European community generally went about its business as usual.

Students carrying Egyptian flags and shouting "Down with Milner!" began rioting. Roughs joined with them and got the upper hand of the native police. The infantry were compelled to fire on the mobs storming the police stations, further infuriating the rioters.

The British troops finally restored order, driving off the demonstrators, who were armed with rifles and sticks. Tonight the city is heavily patrolled.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 16.—Six thousand persons participated in the Coptic demonstration this morning on the occasion of the funeral of a Copt killed yesterday.

In the afternoon 10,000, mostly Moslems, paraded through the principal streets. Both demonstrations were orderly.

OMSK PARTIALLY BURNED.

Revolt at Town at East End of Bridge Hastened Evacuation.

NOVO NIKOLAEVSK, Nov. 16 (Associated Press).—Omsk was occupied by the Reds the morning of the 15th. The evacuation was hastened by an uprising at Koulazino, a railroad town at the east end of the Long River bridge, which for a long time has been a Bolshevist centre. The bridge was blown up by the Siberians.

Omsk is reported to have been partially burned following the destruction of the ammunition supplies, which it was impossible to move from the town.

General Kappell with the Siberian troops retired ten miles east of Omsk. Admiral Kolchak and General Sakharoff are expected to arrive here shortly to visit the new headquarters.

REFUSE TO HEAR KREISLER.

Hostility at Louisville Prompts Violinist to Cancel Concert.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 20.—Fritz Kreisler, violinist, and former Austrian army officer, when officially advised of widespread hostility to his proposed appearance tonight in recital, canceled his engagement on advice of Mayor Smith and tonight is speeding toward Lawrence, Mass., his next scheduled stop.

The attitude of Louisville citizens, as indicated in resolutions of criticism passed by several organizations, was communicated to Kreisler's manager by the Mayor, who followed it with a written communication advising the postponement of the concert indefinitely as "the part of wisdom."

Advertisements Crowded Out

Today 51 columns of advertisements are crowded out of The New York Times and 165 columns published.

Owing to the volume of news and advertising and the shortage of news print paper it is frequently necessary to omit advertisements from The New York Times.

Temporary reduction of space is suggested to advertisers, especially those wishing full pages, as being preferable to the omission of their announcements.

WILLING TO MODIFY TREATY

Ex-Premier Prepares to Defend in Parliament His Course in Peace Parleys.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PALERMO, Nov. 17, (via Naples.)—I have seen today in this beautiful capital of Sicily Signor Orlando, former Prime Minister and head of the Italian peace delegation. He was at the apex of the strain of his electoral struggle, harder this time than ever for the candidates because the new law enlarges the districts and gives birth to unknown political forces.

"I did not want to fight again," he told me, "but two other prominent members of the Italian peace delegation had already decided for personal reasons to retire from Parliament and I was bound in conscience to remain in order not to give our enemies the wrong impression that our peace work had been a failure. I believe that what I did in the Peace Conference is enough for one man and I have no more ambitions.

"Whether I have done right or wrong let other people judge, but remember that I was always guided by moderate principles, following the middle course. I refused to be pulled out of my way by both sides of the extremists, the Nationalists and the Jugoslavophiles. I succeeded in this task and that is why I am unpopular on both sides.

"The story of our troubles with the Jugoslavs seems confused to most people, but it is very plain. When I took charge of the Government after Caporetto Italy was like a sick man in such a serious state that straw is laid on the pavement in front of his door to diminish the noise and the shaking of his bed by carriages passing. I was bound to accept every help offered to me, even the slightest.

"Serbia was in worse straits than ourselves. When the Jugoslav exiles met our people in Rome they agreed to our desire not to discuss questions of territory while victory was far away. They did so because dissension among Serbs, Croats and Slovenes would prevent any practical agreement. The Czechs had won already the sympathy of the world to the cause of the oppressed nationalities. I adhered to it sincerely.

"Soon after the armistice a bombshell came in the official declaration of the Jugoslavs that they claimed the frontier to the Isonzo. It meant swallowing three-quarters of our national program. There was no reply to that. Can you argue with somebody who presses his hands around your throat?

"I was told that a cause of resentment by the Jugoslavs was our occupation of an armistice line too similar to the lines of the Treaty of London, but all that was temporary, like other occupations of enemy territory by the allied armies. At that time we had to act at once and take from our enemies as all the other Allies did, valid territorial pledges instead of waiting for the slow working of an incomplete agreement lest we lose everything.

"We have been always disposed to alter the terms of the Treaty of London, but the intransigence of the Jugoslavs prevented any effective free agreement from developing. I believe, however, that the present dissensions are only apparent and temporary. I trust that soon the common interests of the Italians and of the Jugoslavs will reveal the terms of a mutual agreement."

I asked Signor Orlando to give me his opinion about the present phase of the Fiume question and the actual relations between Italy and America.

"I am the last man whose statement can contribute to the agreement so much needed at this moment," he answered.

TITTONI MAY HEAD THE ITALIAN SENATE

Possibility the Cabinet Will Be Reconstructed Before Opening of Parliament.

ROME, Nov. 20.—Signor Tittoni insists upon resigning from his post as Foreign Minister, according to the Giornale d'Italia, both for personal reasons and because of ill-health. He will become President of the Senate, says the paper, and thus there is a possibility of a ministerial crisis and a reconstruction of the Cabinet before the reopening of the chambers.

The official count of the returns of the Parliamentary elections of Sunday in nine constituencies of Parma show the election to the Chamber of Deputies of Signor Pantano, Minister of Public Works; Vittorio Orlando and Luigi Luzzatti, both former Premiers; Leonida Bissolati-Bargamaschi, former Minister of Military Aid and War Pensions; Giuseppe Flamingo, owner of the Rome newspaper Italia; Romeo Gallenga-Stuart, head of the propaganda bureau in the Orlando Cabinet, and Captain Giulietti, head of the Seamen's Federation.

Among others who failed of election were Signor Commandini, Republican, and Signor Bonicelli, former Under Secretary of the Interior in the Orlando Cabinet. Ettore Sacchi, Minister of Justice; Petro Bertolini, former Minister of Public Works, and Signor Naldi, manager of the Tempo.

The new Chamber, according to the estimates of the Idea Nazionale, will be composed of 212 Constitutionalists, both ministerialists and opposition; 102 Catholics, 8 Republicans, and 155 Socialists.

The demonstrations by the various parties as a result of elections have had no serious consequences thus far. Bombs have been exploded at Turin, Venice and several other places, wounding a few persons. In fighting at Benevento one person was killed and several were wounded.

Quiet has been restored at Milan, where a few Nationalists formerly attached to the storm troops, were arrested because of the possession of explosives.

The Mayor of Turin and the municipal administration have resigned, owing to the victory of the Socialists.

MAY OPPOSE DESCHANEL.

French Conservatives Want Viviani to Stand.

PARIS, Nov. 20 (Associated Press).—René Viviani, former Premier, is to be asked to stand as a candidate for the Presidency of the new Chamber of Deputies against Paul Deschanel, who, it is asserted by the members of the Right and Centre, showed a too lenient attitude toward the extremists and other disturbers during the sittings of the last Chamber.

The elections of former Premier Painlevé, Ferdinand Buisson, M. Letaillieur, Paul Aubriot, and M. Rosier have been questioned by the members of the Recount Board owing to technicalities, and the Chamber will decide whether they are entitled to seats.

Less Work and Higher Pay Mean Food Jump, Say Farmers

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 20.—Opposing any settlement of present day industrial controversies that does not take into account the effect of such settlement on agriculture, the National Grange convention adopted resolutions today declaring that the farmer cannot be held responsible for increases in the cost of living that will result from higher wages and shorter working hours.

"If industrial wages are increased and hours of labor decreased," said one resolution, "the increase will still further decrease farm production and increase farm costs."

COMMONS TO GET IRISH BILL DEC. 4

Is Said to Contain All Elements of Local Government as Understood in America.

QUICK ACTION NOT LIKELY

Plan Put Forward for Benefit of Discussion on It in Kingdom and Beyond Seas.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—A definite date is now fixed for the introduction of the Irish Government bill. On or about Thursday, Dec. 4, the Government will lay upon the table of the House of Commons the Irish proposals, which will, in the belief of the coalition supporters, "at least command discussion both in the United Kingdom and beyond the seas."

This prediction may not be considered to err on the side of exaggerated optimism, and in some possibly prejudiced quarters it is hinted that the Government is only tabling the bill in order to keep a promise made to Viscount Grey before he would accept the mission to America.

Some last-ditch Unionists go so far as to suggest that the Government realizes that there is no particular reason for hurry, as the Home Rule act does not come into force until peace has been made with Turkey, which date is more remote than ever now that the United States Senate has hung up the Versailles Peace Treaty and by implication postponed to the Greek Kalends the consideration of American acceptance of a mandate for Armenia.

Under these circumstances it is of interest that a communication in The Daily Chronicle, which is understood to reflect the Prime Minister's views, runs as follows:

"The Government are wishful that the Irish bill should be examined thoroughly by every one interested, and they are not too anxious to take any further step with regard to it until after Christmas. By the time the second reading is fixed, therefore, full opportunity will have been given to the formation of public opinion as to its practicability.

"The opinion of the people of the United States is not relevant to decision of a parliamentary measure, of course, but it will have a certain effect on public opinion in Ireland and Great Britain. The point of interest to Americans will probably be in the fact that the scheme will contain all the elements of local government, as local government is understood in America, and it should therefore commend itself to that people as a reasonable proposal for settlement."

ARREST 11 PARIS BURGLARS.

Gang Sold Loot to Fences, Then Seized it as Police.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Eleven burglars, called the "Magistrate's Gang," have been arrested and lodged in jail by the Paris police. The accused men are alleged to have operated in Paris and suburbs and to have confined their activities to the stealing of silver plate and jewelry.

Booty obtained in this way was disposed of at "fences," but the next day these places would be visited by two members of the gang, who would pose as detectives, threatening the purchasers of the stolen goods with arrest, and confronting them with the alleged confessions of burglars who were claimed to be under arrest. These men would confiscate the booty, placing the seal of Police Headquarters on the packages and giving receipts.

PARIS PAPERS WON'T YIELD.

Proprietors Hold They Cannot Meet Demands of Strikers.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Newspaper proprietors met tonight and decided to continue their refusal to accede to the demands of strikers employed by journals in this city, the financial situation of the newspapers being such that any increase in expenses is absolutely impossible.

It was decided to continue the publication of the joint sheet, Presse de Paris.

PALMER ORDERED TO REST.

Attorney General Cancels Address at Columbus Conference.

Special to the New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Intimations that Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer was near a physical breakdown were denied tonight by Mr. Scott, his private secretary.

"There is no real foundation for that report," said Mr. Scott. "The truth is it probably was the fact that the Attorney General has canceled his engagement for a speech at Columbus. The facts of the matter are that the Attorney General has been working under heavy pressure during the last three or four years and his doctor has advised him that it would be the part of wisdom for Mr. Palmer to lay off for about a week for rest and recuperation. Mr. Palmer has decided to take his doctor's advice."

The Attorney General seems to be in good physical condition, and is not anxious to stop work, but has yielded to the wishes of his physician and of Mrs. Palmer."

COURT FINES ROSEWATER.

Omaha Bee and Editor Held in Contempt for Attacking Witness.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 20.—For publishing an attack on a State witness in a case in which it is interested The Omaha Bee and Victor Rosewater, its editor, were today adjudged in contempt of court and fined $1,000 and costs. Notice was given of appeal.

The case is a development in a fight which The Bee for some months has waged against the Police Department of the city. Mr. Rosewater told the court he could not see that exposing corruption could be called an obstruction of justice.

WILSON PICKS NEW INDUSTRIAL BOARD

Names 17 Men for Another Conference on Relations of Labor and Capital.

ALL BUT ONE ARE NEW MEN

Gregory, Wickersham, Rosenwald, and Ex-Govs. McCall, Glynn, Stuart, Among Them.

MEET AT THE CAPITAL DEC. 1

Executive Would Induce Workers to Put Forth Best Efforts, Protect Employers and Public.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Another effort to bring industrial peace to the country is to be made by a conference of former Federal and State officials, business men and economists, the personnel of which was announced today at the White House.

Unlike the National Industrial Conference, which came to grief over the question of collective bargaining, the new body will represent no distinctive group, but will undertake to act in the interest of the people as a whole. It will meet in Washington on Dec. 1, the date of the beginning of the regular session of Congress.

In his letter of invitation to the seventeen men who are to make up the new gathering, President Wilson said the "new representatives should have concern that our industries may be conducted with such regard for justice and fair dealing that the workman will feel himself induced to put forth his best efforts, that the employer will have an encouraging profit, and that the public will not suffer at the hands of either class."

No procedure was outlined for the gathering and this will be determined by the conference itself. No representatives of labor were included in the personnel, nor will there be any representatives of capital as such. Secretary of Labor Wilson heads the list, which includes three former Cabinet officers and two former Federal officials, but the President did not appoint any of the men who served in the first conference. The personnel of the new body follows:

William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor.

Thomas W. Gregory, former United States Attorney General.

George W. Wickersham, former United States Attorney General.

Herbert Hoover, former Food Administrator.

Oscar S. Straus, former Secretary of Commerce.

Henry M. Robinson, Pasadena, Cal.

Professor Frank W. Taussig, former Chairman of Tariff Commission.

Samuel W. McCall, former Governor of Massachusetts.

Martin H. Glynn, former Governor of New York.

Henry C. Stuart, former Governor of Virginia.

Dr. W. C. Thompson, President of Ohio State University.

Richard Hooker, publisher of The Springfield Republican.

George T. Slade, formerly Vice President of Northern Pacific Railroad, St. Paul, Minn.

Julius Rosenwald, President of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago.

Owen D. Young, lawyer, New York City.

H. J. Waters, President of Kansas Agricultural College, Manhattan, Kan.

Stanley King, lawyer and manufacturer, Boston.

The President's letter of invitation reads:

"In accordance with the suggestion given me by the public group of the recent industrial conference, I am calling a new body together to carry on this vitally important work, and I trust you will give me the pleasure of naming you as one of its members.

"Guided by the experience of the last conference, I have thought it advisable that in this new body there should be no recognition of distinctive groups, but that all of the new representatives should have concern that our industries may be conducted with such regard for justice and fair dealing that the workman will feel himself induced to put forth his best efforts, that the employer will have an encouraging profit, and that the public will not suffer at the hands of either class. It is my hope that this conference may lay the foundation for the development of standards and machinery

Polo Coats for Men.

Polo coats for men bid fair to become the novelty of the season if the sudden call for them that has come from the retail trade is any indication. The model most sought is one that reaches to about the knee, coming in an all-around belt design. The kind of material, however, appears to be the chief attraction. The fabric is a soft finished material some what on the chinchilla order, and the colors desired are light tans, some verging on to yellow. The coats were featured in the Fall lines of several of the leading houses, but were not taken up generally by the manufacturers.

Sold Upon Delivery.

In the dress goods jobbing line there appears to be no slackening of the demand from the garment manufacturers. Goods are taken out the day they are delivered by the mills. In some cases for the most desirable fabrics the jobbers have waiting lists. The strength of the demand in jobbing circles is regarded as good evidence that despite the price-cutting that was done by the garment houses in order to stimulate buying a few weeks ago, there has been a decided improvement in the situation.

Not Only Bankers, but Brokers.

The underwear buyer for a large jobbing house was describing the difficulties of operating in the present market. In the course of his remarks, after telling how the mills were withholding the privilege of specifying just what would be delivered, he mentioned the terms of payment. These call for payment in January of goods which will not be sold until next Fall. Thrusting the financing of their business on customers, he said, was one of the chief anxieties of the latter, particularly if prices should suffer any decline between the time the goods were paid for and when they were sold. "That makes you," said his friend "not only the banker but maybe the broker."

Overcoat Stocks Scarce.

Stocks of overcoats in the local clothing trade are almost an unknown quantity according to retail buyers who have scoured the market in the attempt to supply themselves with additional merchandise. One such buyer, after inquiring about goods that were due him from a certain manufacturer mentioned he had been able to pick up some 300 coats. These would last him only a short time, he said, and consequently he wanted delivery of the overcoats on order at the soonest possible moment. The retailers report from all parts of the country that the season is giving them the biggest overcoat business in years.

New Has an Exchange Bureau.

At the request of many of the members, an exchange bureau has been established by the United Waist League of America for the disposition of surplus materials by those who are overstocked and for the purchase of these goods by those who may need them. The work of the new bureau, which is the eighth that has been established by the league with a view to benefiting the industry, will be carried on through a special bulletin that will list the offerings and requirements of the members. It is expected, according to a statement made yesterday by Executive Director Max Meisenohn, that the bureau will be the means of checking the high prices of fabrics and other materials, inasmuch as it will tend to concentrate buying between members and thus do away with the need of purchasing from the mills in large quantities.

Spring Dress Prices to be High.

"Prices are not coming down," said Executive Director David N. Mossohn of the Associated Dress Industries of America in a statement issued yesterday on the outlook for the dress business for the coming season. "They cannot come down as long as raw materials and labor advance in cost, as they are doing at the present time, and those are not the only items which figure in the increasing prices of wearing apparel. The overhead expenses of the manufacturers are rising every month, and rents paid for lofts in the manufacturing districts show increases of 25 to 50 per cent. Practically every item that figures in the making of a garment, all the way down to the container in which it is packed for shipment to the retailer, costs more today than it ever did before. As long as this condition exists the women of the country will have to pay more for their clothing."

Lost a Customer.

Reselling clothing for which orders have already been received is getting to be an abuse in the local market that, according to a representative buyer, is liable to lead to the undoing of the New York industry. He gave a case where a buyer, who had a large order for overcoats placed with a local house, visited here to inquire about delivery. He was informed that the goods had not "come through." Then he asked if the house had anything in stock he might use. He was shown some overcoats that looked rather familiar to him, but he said nothing and bought what he needed. Returning to his store he matched up his recent purchase with samples of the overcoats that were to have been delivered, and found them identical. He packed the goods up and sent them back to the manufacturer.

Credit Men's Drive Doing Well.

With about ten days still to run, good results are reported in the membership drive of the Associated Retail Credit Men of New York City, Inc., which is in the hands of a committee headed by J. M. Connolly, credit manager for Crichton Brothers, 626 Fifth Avenue. More than fifty members have been added to the rolls of the organization, which now contains the names of over 240 of the leading retail credit men of the city and their assistants. Extra force is being put into the drive during its closing days, and much emphasis is laid on the advantages of joining. Among these benefits are the interchange of actual ledger experiences with several thousand consumers, as well as the receipt of the association's semi weekly bulletin of "unsatisfactory experiences." This bulletin lists "slow pays," persons whose accounts have been closed, &c.

Gray Goods Prices Break.

While prices on gray goods for delivery during the remainder of this year were firmly sustained in this market yesterday, the reverse was true of fabrics sold for deliveries into the coming year. Especially was this true of print-cloths held by second hands, who sold 39-inch 68-72s at 21 cents for January-April shipment, 38-inch 72-76s at 22½ cents for January-March, 38½-inch 64-60s at 17½ cents for January-April, and 38½-inch 60-48s at 15¾ cents for February-April delivery. All of this was taken to show a lack of faith in the prolonged strength of the market on the part of these sellers. Sheetings and other fabrics did not do much during the day.

Raw Silks Still Going Up.

The Yokohama raw silk market has advanced another 150 yen in the last week, bringing prices there up to the basis of 2,970 yen for Sinshiu No. 1. Very active business is reported at the new level in cables received by H. Lowenstein & Co. Still higher prices are expected, these already being quoted on the Yokohama Silk Exchange, and holders in the open market are loath to sell. Unsold stocks at Yokohama are under 15,000 bales. The Canton market has advanced 61 a pound, and a sensational advance in silver exchange has raised ex-dock costs there far above the New York prices. The Shanghai market reports a large business in improved qualities, the bulk of which has been taken by New York traders. Tussahs are very active, the Japanese demand for these silks being a feature. They are up 10 per cent. over last week's prices. Extra classical silks at Milan are now quoted on the basis of 810 to 820 lire, with business hampered by the scarcity of stocks. The local market is very strong and prices are advancing. Buyers are cautious, but their needs require them to transact a considerable aggregate business each day.

F. S. BALDWIN QUITS INSURANCE FUND

Manager Under State Industrial Commission Offers Resignation, to Take Effect on Dec. 31.

ACTS TO 'RELIEVE HANDICAP'

Faced Special Committee During Investigation of Affairs of the Commission.

F. Spencer Baldwin, who has been manager of the State Insurance Fund of the State Industrial Commission since May, 1914, has resigned to enter private business, it was announced yesterday. In accepting his resignation, to take effect Dec. 31, the State Industrial Commission adopted resolutions recording its appreciation of "the very great constructive service rendered by him in the establishment of the State Fund and in bringing it up to its present enviable financial condition."

Among the reasons given for his action Mr. Baldwin declared that in view of the appointment of a new Chairman of the Commission he felt it should have a free hand in the selection of a manager of the State Fund and "should not be hampered by the continuance in office of the present manager." Edward F. Sayle has just been appointed Chairman of the Commission by Governor Smith to succeed the late John Mitchell.

Manager Baldwin, during the past few months, has been under fire of the commission appointed by Governor Smith under the Moreland act to investigate the affairs of the State Industrial Commission. Evidence of a widespread system of grafting by employes of the commission was brought out by the investigating committee of which Jeremiah F. Connor is chairman. It was disclosed that employes of the commission, working with outsiders, took sums of money from beneficiaries of the State Fund by having their claims settled for lump sums.

Mr. Baldwin himself was on the stand several days and it was brought out that his wife had accepted the gift of an automobile from Mr. Wynkoop, head of the Wynkoop Service, which conducts an industrial insurance service along the lines of the State Fund. In his defense Mr. Baldwin declared that the late John Mitchell, when Chairman of the commission, knew about the gift and gave it his sanction. Special favors shown the Wynkoop Service also formed part of the testimony. In his letter of resignation to the commission, Manager Baldwin wrote:

"It is evident that a new chapter in the history of the fund is about to begin. The Commission is entitled to select as manager of the fund a person not identified with the policies that have been pursued in the administration of the fund during the past five years, and one who will readily place himself in accord with changed conditions and new policies. I feel, therefore, that it is due to the Commission that the present manager should retire and thus relieve your body of the handicap of any heritage from the previous regime.

"I venture also to cherish the hope that my retirement may relieve the State Insurance Fund of the serious embarrassment to which it has been subjected through the prolonged investigation of the past nine months. The publicity attendant upon this investigation has inflicted grave injury upon the fund. No insurance institution can write new business, or even hold old business, while under public investigation."

Mr. Baldwin declared that he was in no wise to blame in the matter of grafting in connection with the lump sum settlements for reasons which he had previously set forth in a memorandum to the Commission.

BRITAIN DEFINES DUMPING.

Bill Bars Foreign Goods Sold Below the Foreign Value.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—How the Government would define dumping has been a much discussed question ever since it became settled that the bill to regulate imports would be introduced by the Coalition Government. Tariff reformers and free traders were equally interested, for it was felt that the definition might prove a stumbling block in the Government's policy. A draft of a measure entitled "Imports and Exports Regulation Bill" was circulated in the House of Commons tonight. It is described as "A bill to constitute a trade regulation committee to regulate the importation of goods, with a view to preventing dumping, safeguarding key industries affected by depreciation of foreign currency and assisting the revival of hop growing; to regulate temporarily the exportation of certain goods; to authorize granting of credits and the undertaking of insurances for the purpose of re-establishing overseas trade, and for other purposes incidental to the objects aforesaid."

The definition of dumping is contained in the following clauses: "The board on being satisfied (a) That goods of any class or description produced or manufactured in any country outside the United Kingdom are systematically and in substantial quantities being imported to or being sold or offered for sale in the United Kingdom at prices below the foreign value as defined by this act, or that there are good grounds for apprehending that such importation or sale is about to take place, and (b) that the production or manufacture of similar goods in the United Kingdom is or is likely to be thereby adversely affected, may not by order of this part of the act, &c."

There already is a considerable amount of criticism of the protective clauses of the bill, and this amendment has been put down by two Liberal members, as follows:

"That this House declines to proceed with a bill which reverses our traditional free trade policy, induces irksome bureaucratic control into our commercial relations, and imposes an intolerable burden upon manufacturers, traders and consumers, and is calculated to maintain high prices and arrest our rapid commercial recovery and development."

MARRIAGE PARTS FAMILY.

Parents of Mrs. Preston Gibson Condemn Wedding in Suit to End Trust.

The fact that Mr. and Mrs. William E. Benjamin are irreconcilable over the marriage of their daughter, the former Mrs. Alexander Dallas Bache Pratt, to Preston Gibson was made known in the Supreme Court yesterday when they filed suit to terminate the trust of $200,000 created by Mrs. Gibson for her children, Cynhia and Dallas Bache Pratt, 2d, under which they are to be maintained until they are of age, and after reaching their majority are to get the full income from the trust. The fund was created Dec. 27 last.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin say that their daughter married Preston Gibson on Oct. 11.

"The marriage was contracted against the wishes and in spite of the protest of all the members of her family, including these plaintiffs," they say. "As a result there is an estrangement between the plaintiffs and their said daughter which will be permanent and the relations between them do not permit and will not in the future permit of the co-operation and confidence which the plaintiffs are advised should exist between the trustees of a trust estate and the representative of the beneficiaries." They suggest that the Equitable Trust Company be named.

A list of the securities comprising the fund is attached to the complaint. The stocks include shares of the Standard Oil Company and its subsidiaries, and $15,000 in bonds, including $5,000 in Liberty bonds.

A suit was filed yesterday against Preston Gibson by the Wynkoop Salesbeet-Crawford Company for a balance of $5,020 due for printing the Marines Magazine, at the request of Mr. Gibson. Only $500 has been paid on the bill.

UNDERSOLD MEAT DEALERS.

Striking Chicago Butchers Opened Shops to Prove Profiteering.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Investigation of charges of profiteering on the part of Chicago master butchers, made during the three weeks' strike which ended today, disclosed that the four retail shops opened by the strikers have been selling meat lower than the wholesale price.

To substantiate their charges of profiteering the strikers opened the four stores, which were operated by individuals and their quotations yesterday for meat of medium grade follow:

Porterhouse steak, 18 cents a pound; sirloin, 15 cents; round, 15 cents; chuck roast, 8½ cents to 12½ cents; lamb chops (loin), 18 cents; stewing lamb, 10 cents; pork chops, 26 cents; smoked ham (sliced), 40 cents; lard 30 cents, and veal cutlets, 25 cents.

The master butchers doing a cash and carry business quoted the following prices:

Porterhouse steak, 28-35 cents a pound; sirloin, 24-32 cents; round, 28-30 cents; chuck roast, 19-22 cents; lamb chops (loin), 30-40 cents; stewing lam, 10-18 cents; pork chops, 38-40 cents; smoked ham (sliced), 50-55 cents; lard, 32-35 cents, and veal cutlets, 35-45 cents.

The strikers claimed that they handled the grade of meat known as "medium," also classified as medium. The master butchers, however, asserted the strikers' shops carried the poorest grades of meat, which they did not handle, as the demand for it existed only in the poorest parts of the city.

A Government inspector also declared that the strikers' shops sold only inferior grades. The master butchers contended that the strikers opened their shops as "propaganda." They assert the medium grade of meat they sell is quoted as follows by the big packers:

Porterhouse steak, 21½ to 32 cents a pound; sirloin, 15-26; round, 12½-18; chuck roast, 8½-16½; stewing lamb, 8-10; pork chops, loin, 24; smoked ham (whole), 35-36, and lard, 28.

According to the master butchers and packers, a porterhouse or sirloin steak may be 20 cents a pound higher in one locality than in another owing to demand, location, overhead expense, volume of business and quality.

Guy U. O'Neill, Secretary of the Retail Butchers' Union, said the butchers were doing all in their power to reduce living costs. He said one of the terms of the agreement was that the $5 wage increase given to the strikers should not increase the price of meat. The men asked for a scale of $40 a week and returned to work on a $35 scale.

ORDERS SYRACUSE ARRESTS

Federal Official After Distributers of Circulars Attacking Government.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Frank J. Cregg, Assistant United States District Attorney, today began a campaign against radicals in Syracuse when he called on Police Chief Cadin to arrest six or more men who had circulated handbills announcing a meeting for Friday night as a protest against further imprisonment of conscientious objectors.

The handbills were denounced by Mr. Cregg as disloyal, scurrilous, and abusive attacks on the Government. The circulars called attention to alleged mistreatment of prisoners by Government agents, and contained cartoons showing prisoners hung by the wrists, by the neck, being kicked by soldiers, being beaten with baseball bats, and chained to barred windows. Permission for the use of a hall for the meeting has been revoked.

OPPOSES VICTORY ARCH.

Broadway Committee Wants Present Structure Removed.

At a meeting of representatives of the Federated Civic Association yesterday at Cavanagh's restaurant, in West Twenty-third Street, Robert S. Cook, President of the federation, said that the Broadway Committee below Twenty-sixth Street of the Fifth Avenue Association has taken a very decided stand for the removal of the Victory Arch, in Madison Square, as it is a menace to safety. The consensus of opinion, he declared, was decidedly against a permanent arch at this place.

The meeting was called for the purpose of outlining activities for the coming year. The following associations were represented at the meeting: Downtown Dry Goods Association, Municipal Art Society, the Fifth Avenue Association, Women's Municipal Art League of the City of New York, New York Board of Trade and Transportation, Art Alliance of America, American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, Central Mercantile Association, Twenty-second Street Property Owners and Merchants Association, Harlem Board of Commerce, Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, Chelsea Neighborhood Association, New York Federation of Women's Clubs, Thirty-fourth Street Board of Trade, Broadway Association, Sixth Avenue Association, Washington Square Association, and the City Club.

Concerted action on the part of the several organizations present was taken to promote a campaign for the Americanization of aliens, to cultivate American ideals, and to bring about closer co-operation between the employer and employe. Arthur E. Parsons, who represented the Fifth Avenue Association, approved the alliance of the employer and employe and stated that if the strikes and lockouts are not eliminated the nation will pay a severe penalty at some future date. Colonel Jefferson De Mont Thompson, President of the Broadway Association, stated that one of the serious problems that needs concerted action is that of traffic conditions.

RAISES GAS RATE TO $1.15.

New Jersey Utility Board Increases Cost to Consumers.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 20.—The Public Service Gas Company, by a decision today of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners, was authorized to increase its gas rates beginning Dec. 1. The present rate of 97 cents for the first 1,000 cubic feet of gas per month is increased to $1.15 and the lowest rates for wholesale quantities are correspondingly increased.

The board, in its decision, said that operating expenses had increased 22.97 per 1,000 cubic feet of gas since 1911, and cited court decisions to the effect that rates which had been reasonable before recent advances in labor and materials were unreasonable now.

Board of Trade Gains 208 Members.

The membership drive of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation yesterday gained 208 individuals and firms, bringing the total of recruits up beyond the 500 mark. It was decided to extend the campaign until next Tuesday, when the teams will submit final reports at headquarters, 38 Park Row. Among the new members yesterday were the Equitable Trust Company, Irving National Bank, Pacific Coast Borax Company, Hudson Trust Company, Bankers Trust Company, Murry Guggenheim, Hungerford Brass and Copper Company, and the Oliver Typewriter Company.

Crosses to Miss Morgan and Mrs. Dike.

The American Committee for Devastated France have received a cablegram from Captain Andre Tardieu announcing the bestowal of the Cross of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor upon Miss Anne Morgan, Vice President, and Mrs. A. M. Dike, Commissioner in France, of the committee. Both of these decorations bear the military instead of the civilian title, and are awarded "for great service to the French Nation in the zone of the army."

Sinn Feiners Deny They Will Sit.

J. L. Fawsitt, "consul of the Irish Republic" in this city, announced yesterday that he had received a cable message from Liam de Roiste, (William Roche,) Sinn Fein member from Cork City, denying he is a "monstrous falsehood" a dispatch quoting him as saying that the Sinn Fein Members of Parliament intended to take their seats and swear allegiance to the King.

RYERSON BURIED WITHOUT A PERMIT

Analysis of Vital Organs to Find Traces of Poison Has Not Been Completed.

WIFE ABANDONS JOURNEY

Denies Ever Having Had Trouble with Husband and Says She Welcomes Investigation.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Nov. 20.—The analysis of the vital organs of Theodore Ryerson, bank vault salesman for the York Safe Company of 55 Maiden Lane, New York, which are being examined for poison on charges made by the young man's father that this was the cause of his death, has not been completed by the E. R. Squibb Laboratory here.

It was established today that no death certificate was ever signed by Dr. Charles V. Hults, the physician who attended Mr. Ryerson, and that the body was buried without a permit. County Physician J. L. Bugdein was then requested to view the body, and on April 22 he did so, but did not perform an autopsy. The body was not exhumed again until after the poisoning charges were made by the father of the dead man.

"I am not worrying, for I know that I did not poison my husband," said Mrs. Ryerson, the widow, to reporters, at her residence, 13 Kirkpatrick Street, today.

A complete denial of insinuations that she had been in any way negligent at the time of her husband's death or that his death was due to poisoning was made by Mrs. Ryerson. She also declared that statements by her father-in-law that the funeral was originally set for April 19 but that she hurried it up and held it on April 16 instead were without foundation. She declared that the funeral was planned from the first for April 16.

Mrs. Ryerson also denied that she had ever had any trouble with her husband. In regard to her sending for Dr. Hults instead of Dr. Rice, who lived next door, she said that this was done at the request of Mr. Ryerson himself, because he had great faith in Dr. Hults.

The widow also declared that she had been anxious for a long time to have the matter cleared up and that she went to her lawyer, Frederick Weigel, of this city, two months ago to see what could be done about the matter, but that he had advised her she could not have the body exhumed herself until a complaint had been made.

"I know that I will be treated justly," she added, "and I have no fear of the result of the analysis. My husband left no will, and under the laws of the State I receive his estate, there being no children. The estate is less than $20,000. I had planned to leave here last Friday to go to California. I will remain here until this matter is entirely cleared up."

In reply to a question Mrs. Ryerson stated that Mr. Ryerson, Sr., had never directly accused her of causing her husband's death, but had frequently sent her letters intimating as much. All these letters, which she termed the "craziest things I have ever read," were turned over to Mr. Weigel by her Mrs. Ryerson has the greatest respect for her husband's mother.

"She is the finest and sweetest woman I have ever met," she said.

Mrs. Ryerson said her husband died at 1 o'clock in the morning on April 14, about half an hour after egg sandwiches had been served. She said that the occupants of the house were present at the time and helped to make the sandwiches. There were also another man and his wife present.

On hearing her husband's cry she said she hurried to his bedroom and found him sitting up in bed with his hand over his heart. "I immediately called Dr. Hults on the phone to come right over," she said. "When he came he said he could not tell whether my husband was dead or not. But he and myself worked for three-quarters of an hour over my husband, and then Dr. Hults said that life was extinct."

Harvard Fund $10,000,163.

Contributions from Boston reported yesterday brought the Harvard Endowment Fund to $10,000,163, leaving slightly more than $5,000,000 yet to be collected. The Greater Boston Committee, which is trying to raise $5,000,000, reported contributions of $3,813,457. New York reported $2,660,870. The outside districts reported a new total of $2,443,436.

MRS. ROSE STOKES DEFIANT

Woman, Now on Bail, Refuses to Accept Grand Jury Subpoena.

The Grand Jury investigation of anarchists and revolutionists was held up yesterday, according to Assistant District Attorney Alexander I. Rorke, by the refusal of Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes to answer a subpoena.

Mrs. Stokes, who is out on bail pending an appeal from a taxpayer sentence imposed on her in the Federal court, will probably be brought before the Grand Jury by means of a body attachment, Mr. Rorke said, unless she appears voluntarily.

Patrick Harden, a process server from the District Attorney's office, reported that he had called at the residence of Mrs. Stokes, at 44 Grove Street, and the door was opened by a maid. He said that he heard Mrs. Stokes call from another room, telling the maid to refuse to accept the subpoena. He said that Mrs. Stokes also shouted threats that she would have him arrested if he forced an entrance. Assistant District Attorney Rorke was advised last night by Charles Hecht, lawyer for Mrs. Stokes, that she would make her appearance at the Criminal Courts Building today.

Post Office Inspectors, members of the Anarchist Squad, and the District Attorney's office are investigating the possibility that a plot has been formed in this city, as well as in Philadelphia, to blow up, through the Christmas mails, but no evidence on the subject has been obtained here.

The Bronx County Grand Jury today will hear testimony from Deputy Attorney General Samuel A. Berger regarding the activities of Reds in the Bronx. Tomorrow Mr. Berger will continue the examination of school teachers accused of belonging to the Communist Party or of teaching radical theories.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

LAURASON R. LATROBE, store broker at 111 Broadway.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against him by Samuel S. Meyers, attorney for John Closele of Los Angeles, a creditor for $1,875. The petitioner claims that in July, 1919, he purchased from Latrobe 1,000 shares of the capital stock of the Cresson Gold Company, paying $1,875 for same, and that said shares have never been delivered, although repeated demands therefor have been made, nor has the said sum of money ever been returned. It is also said that Latrobe has been seriously ill at his home in Henry Street, Brooklyn, for several weeks and that a large number of claims are daily being presented at his place of business, with no one in authority there to attend to them. Schedules filed show liabilities of $4,000 and that the assets $10,000. Judge Mayer has appointed Edward R. Levy receiver in $2,500 bond. Shortly afterward a second petition in bankruptcy was filed against Latrobe by Leopold Levy, trading as L. R. Latrobe & Co., who is the same party mentioned above, by the following creditors: Max Gustave Petzold, $622; G. Geiger, $211, and James Gorman, $352. Preferential payment of $10,000 and transfer of accounts of $10,000 is alleged as act of bankruptcy. He has been in present business since 1907.

BROOKLYN SUGAR WAFER MANUFACTURING COMPANY, INC., of 76 West Houston Street.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against this corporation by the following creditors: Fred Runo, $100; Runo Plastine, $347, and Frank Manlo, $826. Liabilities said to be $10,000 and assets $5,000. Judge Learned Hand has appointed Frederick W. Wenig receiver in $3,000 bond.

NORTH AMERICAN NOVELTY COMPANY, INC., of 42 East Eighteenth Street.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against this corporation by the following creditors: De Luxe Clock and Manufacturing Company, Inc., $202; J. Drilich, $302, and Joseph L. Rosenberg, $1,883.

GEORGE W. ROBINSON, a salesman of 339 Mosholu Parkway, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $970 and no assets. Among the creditors are Lawyers Title and Trust Company, on judgment for $381, docketed May 12, 1919, and George W. Demarest on judgment for $312, docketed on the same date.

ANTONIA GARCIA and MARIA GARCIA, partners conducting the White Way Hotel, in Port Chester, Town of Rye, N. Y., have filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,548 and no assets. Bradleston & Woerz are creditors for $600, secured by a chattel mortgage, and also have two unsecured claims aggregating $1,370.

JOSEPH FRANKL and LOUIS FRANKL, dyed scrollers at 30 East Fourteenth Street, have assigned to Israel Grunstein.

Invest Your Money Conservatively

DO not overlook the fact that railroad bonds, hydro-electric bonds, electric light and power bonds, government and municipal bonds, industrial bonds and many investment preferred stocks are now obtainable at prices far below intrinsic values. Securities of this character, selected with proper discrimination, offer unusual opportunities, not only as to enhancement of value, but also as to the return on the invested capital.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Rally with Vigor After Early Decline—Sterling Rallies from $3.99½.

Substantial recoveries of stocks, foreign exchange, and cotton after an early decline yesterday indicated that the rejection of the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations by the Senate had been fairly well discounted in preceding days of the week. In this the markets followed precedent. Until the vote was taken in the Senate there had been expectation in the financial community of a possible compromise which would carry the treaty through, but the exchanges and security quotations recorded on Wednesday the dwindling power of this thought. The Senate's action brought about a sharp jar in initial transactions yesterday morning, which carried sterling exchange down to $3.99¾ for sight drafts, the lowest quotation of record, and lowered industrial stocks from 2 to 5 points. Cotton fell rapidly for a time. Before midday the complexion of business changed. What looked like hurried covering of shorts occurred in all the markets, resulting in an advance of sterling to a level above $4.03, and in a rally of 3 to 10 points and more among stocks. Cotton also climbed upward quickly in the afternoon.

The ultimate result on business and finance of the treaty situation quite likely was not reflected at all by price fluctuations. Such a recovery as was experienced during the day is a natural phenomenon of a period in which quotations are driven about by unusual forces. After a shake-out which eliminated nearly all the gain the speculative stocks had acquired in three months, a rebound was to be expected. The unfavorable effect of heavier offerings of exchange than the demand could absorb had been accentuated by extensive sales for the short account, and this process led to a more or less mechanical about-face movement. As far as the really influential factor in respect to stock market prices was concerned—the credit situation—there was nothing of fresh import, unless one could lay emphasis upon a late decline of call money to 6 per cent. The renewal rate was 10 per cent., not so high as the day before and for several days past, but still stiff enough to show a paucity of supply for speculative purposes. Probably the appearance of 6 per cent. money hastened the retirement of commitments on the short side, and may have urged purchases for a speculative "turn" near the close of trading. But the comment of banking offices disclosed no signs of a real easement of credit, and conservative observers of the stock market expressed hopes that the advances would not be pursued so long as bank reserves were as low as at present and while the general loan account stood at an unusually high level. Trading was on a considerably smaller scale than the day before. The Liberty bond market contracted somewhat in volume and quotations were steady.

In considering the credit situation it was interesting to note that the Bank of England's weekly statement showed an increase of the reserve ratio to 17¼ per cent. from 15.80 per cent. two weeks ago, when the discount rate was raised to 6 per cent. An advance of the silver bullion price to 71d per ounce at London, an increase of three-quarters of a cent, overnight, was followed by a quotation of $1.32½ per ounce here. The open market rate was as high as 51.34 on bidding for Far Eastern account.

FINDS RADICALISM DYING OUT IN EUROPE

New York Banker Sees Hopeful Outlook in France, Belgium, and Italy.

TIME FOR AMERICA TO HELP

Aid Extended Now, He Says, Will Reduce by Years the Time Needed for Recovery.

One of the most hopeful developments in the European situation is the drift toward conservatism, as shown in the recent elections in France, Belgium and Italy, according to Vice President Albert Breton of the Guaranty Trust Company, who has just returned from a protracted trip abroad. In all three of these countries, Mr. Breton said yesterday, there was a pronounced movement toward greater power for the conservative political powers and a corresponding loss of strength among the more radical. This, he believes, will stand Europe in good stead during the coming Winter, when there is bound to be more or less hardship and suffering, due to the want of commodities of many kinds.

Europe, Mr. Breton said, was no doubt in bad shape in many respects. But it is not so badly off as many Americans seem to believe, and whether the United States extends any considerable amount of aid or not, the banker thinks the countries which have been torn by war will manage somehow to get through, and if they get through the coming Winter they will have passed the most severe crisis.

Commenting on the delay in getting American aid to Europe organized, Mr. Breton said:

"It is absurd to think that Europe will not survive if America does not go to her assistance. She will survive, but it will take ten years to restore what would take maybe only two years to fix up if the United States could help now. It will be unfortunate, of course, if the United States does not do something on a big scale; but, if for any reasons whatever, this is impossible, Europe will not harbor ill-feeling against this country. There is no ill-feeling there now, and I doubt if there will be. Nor will the European countries refuse to trade with the United States in the years to come if we are unable to help them materially now."

Speaking of conditions in France, Mr. Breton was very optimistic. He looks for the drafting of a heroic taxation program in the very near future, probably early in January, if not sooner. New taxes, he thought yesterday, would hardly be realized, but what would be done, he said, was a complete overhauling of the whole French taxation scheme, with probably an average increase of 40 per cent. in the levies.

The question of deflation of paper currency, he said, was receiving the earnest consideration of the best minds in France. The Government is very heavily indebted to the Bank of France, and probably will have to make further loans there in order to balance this year's budget. But early in 1920, he expects, there will be undertaken a comprehensive financial plan which will have for one of its prime objects the reduction of these loans at the Bank of France, and a corresponding reduction in the amount of outstanding banknotes. When the French Government borrows from the Bank of France, the latter makes the advances usually in the form of circulating notes. The French Government, which is now considering the flotation of a big loan to be offered shortly after the turn of the year, will in all probability turn back to the Bank of France many of the notes which it will receive in payment for its new bonds.

One of the most severe handicaps now being imposed on all of Europe, according to the banker, is the serious paucity of transportation facilities. Not only in France, but in Belgium, Germany, Italy, and Southeastern Europe this condition prevails, and until it is improved there will be extreme hardship. For example, Mr. Breton pointed out that there are thousands of bales of cotton waiting at Havre to be transported to the manufacturing centres, and in Alsace-Lorraine, where factories are intact and ready to go ahead, there is a great shortage of raw materials to be worked into goods.

The railway equipment which was sent over for the use of the American Expeditionary Force, and which has since largely been sold to the French Government and private interests in France and elsewhere, has been of the utmost value to the general situation there, for it has made possible such transportation as has been realized. Without it, Mr. Breton said, the situation would have been rendered vastly worse than it is.

Shortage of coal and the inferior qualities obtainable have been other factors which have tended further to complicate the transportation situation, and in this particular aspect of the case Mr. Breton said he saw little hope of immediate improvement. However, the people are making a brave effort to overcome their difficulties and handicaps, and by next Spring Mr. Breton expects to see conditions considerably improved.

BETHLEHEM MOTORS' PLAN.

Heavy Orders Cause Proposal to Increase Capital Stock.

Stockholders of the Bethlehem Motors Company will vote at a special meeting Dec. 8 on the proposal to increase the capital stock from 130,000 shares to 200,000 shares, of no par value, and to change the certificate of incorporation to provide for the increase.

A circular to stockholders says that the company requires additional facilities to fill large orders, and specifically mentions one order from British representatives for 4,200 trucks. The proposed issue of 43,334 shares, which, if ratified by shareholders, will be offered to them at $28 a share on the basis of one new share for every three old shares of record Dec. 12, will be underwritten by a syndicate which is being formed by Tucker, Anthony & Co.

GENERAL MOTORS TO DIVIDE STOCK

Directors Called to Approve Plan for Increasing Shares to 50,000,000.

ORIGINAL PROGRAM STANDS

Recent Decline of 100 Points in Stock Market Will Not Change Arrangement.

The General Motors Corporation has called a special meeting of the Board of Directors for Nov. 26 to consider a plan for subdividing the authorized common stock capitalization so that the number of shares will be increased from 5,000,000 to 50,000,000. The present common stock is of $100 par value and this will be exchanged on the basis of ten new shares of new stock of no par value for each of the old shares. Reports that this plan was under consideration by the company have been current in the financial district for some time, but the decline in the stock market which carried General Motors down [illegible] than 100 points from the high of 400½, it was said recently might interfere with the plan. That no change of program is contemplated is shown by the call for the meeting as issued yesterday by President W. C. Durant.

This read as follows:

"A special meeting of the Board of Directors of General Motors Corporation will be held at the office of the corporation, 1,704 Broadway, New York City, on the 26th day of November, 1919, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of considering a proposed amendment to the certificate of incorporation changing the authorized common capital stock of the corporation from 5,000,000 shares of the par value of $100 each to 50,000,000 shares of no par value, and for exchanging ten shares of the new stock of no par value for each one share of the present common stock of the par value of $100 a share, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

W. C. DURANT, President."

Several years ago the General Motors common capital was subdivided on a five to one basis. On June 12 of this year the company stepped into the class of $1,000,000,000 companies when the stockholders increased the authorized common stock from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 and the 6 per cent. cumulative debenture stock from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000. In addition there is an authorized issue of $20,000,000 6 per cent. preferred stock. Only a comparatively small amount of the authorized capital is at present outstanding.

GOOD TRADE TURNS COTTON UPWARD

News from Washington Causes Depression at Opening, but Market Recovers Quickly.

ADVANCE 120 TO 148 POINTS

Improvement in Stock Market and Sterling Rates Has Effect—Exports 436,878 Bales.

Yesterday was another day of wide fluctuations in the cotton market. At the opening the news from Washington had a most depressing influence and forced prices down 40 to 60 points from the previous night's closing. Then, when the foreign exchange market opened and showed demand sterling at the lowest prices ever recorded, under $4 for the first time since sterling has been quoted in the present form, the decline carried further, showing extreme losses of about 65 points. Selling at this time came from the ring and from some of the commission houses, but was not in great volume and had none of the appearances of stampede.

After the early decline the market as suddenly turned strong and by the middle of the afternoon was up 120, to nearly 150 points from the early low levels. This rise was based partly on some good trade buying and good buying for foreign account, and on a general improvement in speculative circles, which, apparently, were favorably impressed by the upward turn in the stock market and the sharp recovery in sterling rates.

The export situation again came in for much favorable comment. Yesterday's export clearances totaled 38,440 bales, making the total for the week to date 126,470 bales. For the month to date the exports total 436,878 bales, considerably more than was forwarded in all of last month. This big movement, whether it is due to a relaxing of the congestion at the ports or to some other influence, is, nevertheless, real, and is taking the staple out of the country in very good volume. This fact is beginning to impress itself on the market, no matter what influence the exchange market may have on next year's crop.

At the high prices of yesterday the market was up about 2 cents a pound from the low levels of the day before, which were the low levels reached on the present break. Yesterday's recovery represented in some options more than half of the net loss sustained from Nov. 11, the day when the market began to give way and the day preceding the running up of call money to 30 per cent.

The Bank of Germany.

Apparently the contraction in Bank of Germany currency notes which attracted so much attention in the early Fall, when the amount of outstanding notes was reduced by 1,672,000,000 marks, was only a passing incident, for since the end of August there has been a steady and rather rapid increase in circulation. The increase for the latest week reported on, that of Nov. 7, was 146,656,000 marks, which brings the total increase since the low point of Aug. 23 up to 3,250,000,000 marks. The full amount of notes outstanding, as shown in this latest report, is 31,070,274,000 marks, against which there is a stock of gold totaling 1,092,830,000 marks, or a "gold cover" of only about 3½ per cent., the lowest the Reichsbank has ever shown. This fact supplies one reason for the current quotation of about 2 1-4 cents each for marks in the exchange market.

HAMLIN DECLINES POST.

Prefers Reserve Board to Being Secretary of the Treasury.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Charles S. Hamlin of the Federal Reserve Board has declined to accept appointment as Secretary of the Treasury, to succeed Mr. Glass, who has resigned to accept appointment as Virginia's representative in the Senate in place of the late Senator Martin. The offer of the Secretaryship was submitted to Mr. Hamlin through a third person, and today Mr. Hamlin declined to accept.

Mr. Hamlin was the first Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, of which he is still a member. In this position Mr. Hamlin receives $12,000 a year, and his term has seven years to run. As Secretary of the Treasury he would receive the same salary, and if he had accepted he would have been stepping into the position at the tag-end of an administration.

It was intimated in a reliable quarter late this afternoon that the name of Russell Cornell Leffingwell, who has been Assistant Secretary of the Treasury since Oct. 20, 1917, has now come to the front among those under consideration for the Secretaryship. He is being strongly urged upon the President's attention. Mr. Leffingwell is a Republican.

OLD MARY POWELL SOLD.

River Steamer in 55 Years of Service Carried 7,000,000 Passengers.

Special to The New York Times.

KINGSTON, Nov. 20.—Mary Powell, the Hudson River steamboat, has been sold for $40,000 to the Hudson Valley Waste and Metal Company of Poughkeepsie, it was announced here today. According to the terms of the sale the steamboat must be scrapped.

The Mary Powell, with a record of twenty-six and a half miles an hour, has been berthed at the Sunflower Dock in Rondout Creek since the death of Captain Arthur Warrington of influenza last fall. The old river steamer saw fifty-five years of active service before being retired. She was put into commission in the Summer of 1863 under Captain Absalom Anderson. When he retired in 1886 his son, Captain A. Elting Anderson, took command and remained in charge until his death.

During her long career the Mary Powell met with but few mishaps, once when the pilot ran her into a dock in a fog, breaking the crank shaft, again during a hurricane, when her two smokestacks were blown off.

During her fifty-five years of active service she carried safely more than 7,000,000 passengers.

J. S. Alexander Heads Banking Board

James S. Alexander, President of the National Bank of Commerce, was yesterday elected Chairman of the Board of Directors of the French-American Banking Corporation. The French-American Banking Corporation was organized last April with a paid in capital of $2,000,000 and a surplus of $500,000. Its stock is held in equal parts in France and America. The American interests are National Bank of Commerce in New York and the First National Bank of Boston. The French interest is the Comptoir National of Paris.

Butte and Superior Mining Profits.

The Butte and Superior Mining Company for the quarter ended Sept. 30 reports profits, after taxes, of $300,253, which is the equivalent of $1.03 a share on the capital stock. This compares with $210,228, or 73 cents a share, in the preceding quarter. Net profits for the nine months of this year total $894,136, or $1.25 a share, as compared with $2.07 a share in the corresponding period of last year.

C., N. O. & T. P. Railway Report.

The Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway reports for the year ended Dec. 31, 1918, net corporate income amounting to $1,918,132, which was equal, after the deduction of preferred dividends, to $60.05 earned on the $2,990,000 common stock, as compared with $105.54 a share earned on the same stock in the preceding year. The Federal income account contained in the report shows a decrease in net operating income of $1,644,861, to $3,047,046.

Replogle Steel Directors Chosen.

At the organization meeting of the Replogle Steel Company yesterday the following were elected Directors: J. Leonard Replogle, Chairman; W. H. Brevoort, Harry Payne Whitney, Mortimer L. Schiff, A. Coleman du Pont, Carl Schmidlapp, Charles MacNeill, L. W. Baldwin, and Harry F. Sinclair.

THIS Corporation was formed primarily to accept the drafts of both foreign and domestic clients for the financing of export and import transactions. In England, business of this character is done by institutions known as "Acceptance Houses."

The activities of the Corporation are centered upon the creation of Acceptance Credits, and the broadening of their use among American business interests.

FOREIGN CREDIT CORPORATION
37 LIBERTY STREET · NEW YORK

Nassau Electric Railroad Co.

To the Holders of

The First Consolidated Mortgage Four Percent Gold Bonds of the Nassau Electric Railroad Company

The time for the deposit of the bonds above mentioned under the agreement dated July 21, 1919, has been extended to and including the 15th day of December, 1919. Holders of bonds who have not heretofore deposited them with the Brooklyn Trust Company or the Girard Trust Company, the depositaries named in the agreement, are requested to do so.

The Receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company has been appointed Receiver of the Nassau Electric Railroad Company in proceedings brought in the interest of holders of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. The holders of Brooklyn Rapid Transit securities assert claims that conflict with the interest of the holders of the bonds of the Nassau Electric Railroad Company.

The Nassau Company is in default in the payment of the instalment of interest which became due October 1st, 1919, on bonds secured by mortgages superior in lien to its First Consolidated Gold Mortgage Bonds and the period within which the holders of these bonds may declare the principal due has already expired or will expire January 1st, 1920. Receiver's Certificates for the purchase of cars superior in lien to the lien of the First Consolidated Gold Mortgage Bonds have already been authorized and Receiver's Certificates are liable to be issued at a sacrifice unless the market for them is properly protected. The Company's liens under present conditions are not earning operating expenses.

The holders of the First Consolidated Mortgage Four Percent Gold Bonds should be in a position to cause a suit for the foreclosure of the mortgage securing their bonds to be instituted and to make application to have the properties of the Nassau Electric Railroad Company operated independently of the other properties making up the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system if such independent operation appears desirable and to make such arrangements as may seem expedient to supply the financial requirements of the properties.

To this end it is necessary that a substantial majority of the bonds should be deposited and the delay of bondholders in depositing their bonds may seriously jeopardise their interests.

Dated, New York, November 20, 1919.

Supervision

DID it ever occur to you that if your investment holdings were periodically analyzed or audited by experts, you would avoid many of the dangers in risking your capital? Investments made today may need revision next year, just as investment lists of five years ago have since required revision.

OUR established organization of investment experts is today supervising the investment lists of many thousand clients, thus enabling them to avoid countless losses, and to keep their funds most profitably invested in live and growing enterprises.

SEND for full details regarding the work we perform. It will pay you to do so.

To the Holders of the above mentioned securities.

Announcement is hereby made by the Committee as follows:

1. The certificates of deposit issued under the Plan and Agreement of Readjustment for first preferred stock, second preferred stock and common stock of Maxwell Motor Company, Inc., have been listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

2. In order to conform to the requirements of the Stock Exchange with reference to listing, the time for the deposit of securities under the Plan and Agreement is hereby extended to and including DECEMBER 13, 1919.

3. A majority of the stock of Maxwell Motor Company, Inc., and a majority of the stock of Chalmers Motor Corporation has been deposited under the Plan and Agreement.

4. In order to enable the Committee to carry the Plan into effect further deposits of securities are necessary. The agreement between the Committee and the Bankers for the purchase by the latter of $10,000,000 of Notes to provide additional cash working capital for the New Company as set forth in the Plan has been extended to December 15, 1919. As the raising of this new money is essential for the interests of the security-holders of the present companies, the Committee urges the immediate deposit of securities in order that the agreement with the Bankers may be carried out. Securities should be deposited with the Depositary, Central Union Trust Company of New York, 80 Broadway, N. Y. City.

Dated, N. Y., November 14, 1919.

PUNTA ALEGRE SUGAR COMPANY

To the Holders of First Mortgage Six Per Cent Convertible Twenty-Year Gold Bonds of Punta Alegre Sugar Company, Maturing July 1, 1931:

Notice is hereby given that in accordance with the right reserved to the Company by the provisions of certain Indenture of Trust and Mortgage, dated July 1, 1918, securing authorized issue of $1,000,000 of First Mortgage Six Per Cent Convertible Twenty-Year Gold Bonds of the Company, maturing July 1, 1931, the Company by action of its Board of Directors at a meeting held October 15, 1919, has called for payment and retirement on January 1, 1920, all of said First Mortgage Six Per Cent Convertible Twenty-Year Gold Bonds outstanding on that date. Holders of such bonds will be entitled to receive on January 1, 1920, in full payment of the principal amount thereof a sum equivalent to one hundred ten per centum (110%) of such principal amount, upon surrender of such bonds, together with all unmatured coupons appertaining thereto, at the office of The Merchants National Bank of Boston. Interest on such bonds due and payable on January 1, 1920, will be paid in the usual course upon presentation and surrender of coupons representing the obligation of the Company to pay such interest. By the terms of said bonds and said Indenture of Trust and Mortgage, interest upon such bonds shall cease to accrue on and after January 1, 1920, unless payment of the sums to which the holders thereof may be entitled to receive shall be refused by the Company upon due presentation of said bonds for payment at the office of The Merchants National Bank of Boston.

The privilege of converting such bonds into shares of the Common Stock of the Company may be exercised by the holders of such bonds at any time before the expiration of ninety days after January 1, 1920, and after the expiration of such ninety days the right to convert said bonds will terminate. Holders of such bonds who deposit the same for conversion after January 1, 1920, and before the expiration of such ninety days will be entitled to receive the shares of stock and cash which, under the terms of said bonds and said Indenture of Trust and Mortgage, such holder would have been entitled to receive had such bonds been deposited for conversion on January 1, 1920.

Bonds forwarded to The Merchants National Bank of Boston for conversion or payment should be accompanied by a written statement specifying whether the same are forwarded for conversion or for payment. Registered bonds must be accompanied by written power to transfer the same, executed by the registered holder, or be registered as payable to bearer before such bonds will be paid by the Company.

AMERICAN CANDY

Preferred Stock

With Right to Buy Common Stock

The first capital obligation of one of America's oldest and strongest Candy companies, which has a record of thirty years' earnings, during which time the Company has paid out more in dividends than the present preferred stock issue. The business has been built up to its present proportions without the aid of outside capital. Earnings are now at the rate of nearly six times annual interest charges.

Purchase of the preferred stock carries the right to buy common stock now showing 25% earnings after taxes on the offering price. Application will be made in due time to list this stock on the Chicago and St. Louis Stock Exchanges.

ADVANCE IN CRUDE OIL.

Mid-Continent and Texas Product Goes to $2.50 a Barrel.

An increase of 25 cents a barrel in the price of Mid-Continent and Texas crude oil became effective yesterday, bringing the price per barrel up to $2.50, the highest that has ever been recorded for this oil. Recently there has been an advance in Pennsylvania crude, but the present advance is the first that has taken place in more than a year for Mid-Continent and Texas production. Announcement of the increase was made by the Prairie Oil and Gas Company.

It has been realized in the oil industry for some time that the production of high grade oils was far below demand and there have been frequent rumors that prices were to move forward in all the producing areas. Estimates by competent authorities place the increase in production at the rate of 1,000,000 barrels a month, while foreign and domestic demand is racing forward at the rate of about 4,000,000 barrels monthly.

During the war the price of crude petroleum was held down by strict Government regulation, but now the law of supply and demand is having full sway. One factor in the advance is the increased cost of drilling wells, which is estimated to have been some 50 per cent. during the year. In that time the crude price has remained practically stationary. It was pointed out recently by an oil man that gasoline was one of the few commodities which had not advanced in price.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER—Receipts yesterday, 9,755 packages. Market quite strong on fine and fancy grades of fresh creamery, with a shortage in nearly all stores. Demand exceeding the supply. This led to an advance of about ½c. Storage creamery very firm at the recent advance. Ladies and packing stock in sellers' favor. Creamery, higher than extras, 4 pounds, 78@79½c; extras, 93 score, 78@79½c; firsts, 90 to 91 score, 87@71c; firsts, 88 to 89 score, 63@65½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 57@61c; lower grades, 55@56c; held, higher than extras, 68½@70c; extras, 67½@68c; firsts, 62½@66c; seconds, 57@60½c; unsalted, higher than extras, 75½@76½c; extras, 74½@75c; firsts, 69@72c; seconds, 59@62c; State dairy tubs, finest, 70@71c; good to prime, 65@69c; common to fair, 54@64c; renovated, extras, 68@69c; imitation creamery, firsts, 65@66c; ladles, current make, firsts, 58@64c; seconds, 51½@52c.

EGGS—3,286 cases. New laid eggs continue very scarce and receivers having fresh gathered stock that contains a fair to large percentage fit for the best trade have pretty full control of prices. As a rule, however, they are willing to let the goods go in the range of recent quotations, prices varying according to the proportion of the different qualities contained. There is a very wide range and the under grades still move rather slowly. Storage eggs freely offered at unchanged prices, and the demand is not especially active, although a fair movement is reported in the highest grades. Nearby white eggs are still in small supply and prices are fully sustained. Two cars of California whites in today are going out readily at $1 and upward. Six Months for Beating His Son.

John McNichols of 201 Troy Avenue, Brooklyn, was sentenced to six months in the Blackwell's Island workhouse by Magistrate Folwell yesterday for beating his twelve-year-old son with a razor strop because he was slow with returning from an errand. The court record showed that McNichols had been in court twenty-five times on disorderly conduct charges.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

SPECIAL MEETING TO STOCKHOLDERS, NOVEMBER 24, 1919.

NOTICE.

In pursuance of a resolution passed by a majority of the Board of Directors of The Studebaker Corporation at a meeting held on the 28th day of October, 1919, a Special Meeting of the Stockholders (common and preferred) of The Studebaker Corporation is hereby called to be held at the principal office of the Company, No. 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City, New Jersey, on November 24, 1919, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of voting upon:

(a) A proposed amendment of Paragraph 4 of the Certificate of Incorporation (heretofore declared by resolution of the Directors to be advisable) providing for the increase of the authorized capital stock of the corporation from $45,000,000 to $90,000,000, of which $15,000,000 shall be "Seven Per Cent. (7%) Cumulative Preferred Stock," and $75,000,000 shall be common stock;

(b) A proposed amendment of Paragraph 4 of the Certificate of Incorporation (heretofore declared by resolution of the Directors to be advisable,) to substance authorization by the Board of Directors, from time to time, to set aside shares of the authorized, unissued common stock of the corporation to an amount not exceeding $2,000,000 par value, for issuance or sale to employees of the corporation, and providing that upon issuance or sale of stock so set aside to employees of the corporation, no stockholder of the corporation shall be entitled of right to subscribe for, purchase or receive any share of stock so to be issued or sold; and

(c) Any further matter that may be submitted to such meeting with reference to the affairs of the corporation.

The stock transfer books of the Company will be closed from the close of business on November 3, 1919, until the opening of business on November 25, 1919.

Dated, October 28, 1919.
A. G. RUMPF, Secretary.

Notice to Stockholders.

Referring to the foregoing notice of Special Stockholders' Meeting, the following announcement is made:

The Board of Directors, at their meeting held October 28, 1919, adopted a resolution directing that if the stockholders shall vote, at their special meeting hereinabove referred to, in favor of the increase of the capital stock as above set forth, there shall be offered to Common stockholders of record at the close of business on November 29, 1919, for subscription at 105, $15,000,000 par value of the increased common stock of the corporation, and that there shall be issued subscription warrants, representing such rights to subscribe, calling for payment in full for stock subscribed for in accordance therewith not later than December 15, 1919. Details of the offering will be mailed to stockholders at an early date.

The Board of Directors, at said meeting of October 28, 1919, also adopted a resolution providing that if the stockholders shall vote for said increase of stock as aforesaid, the $15,000,000 Seven Per Cent. Serial Notes of the Corporation dated January 1, 1919, shall be called for redemption on January 1, 1920.

In view of the closing of the transfer books from November 3, 1919, to November 24, 1919, inclusive, the Directors passed a resolution that all dividends declared at the regular quarterly meeting of the Directors to be held November 4, 1919, shall be payable on December 1, 1919, to the Stockholders of record at the close of business November 22, 1919, in order to give stockholders the opportunity of transferring stock after the transfer books are reopened and before the dividend rights accrue.

Dated, October 28, 1919.
A. G. RUMPF, Secretary.

LOREE TELLS HOW TO CRUSH DISORDER

Literacy Test for Voters, the Open Shop, and No Credit During Strikes Advocated.

CLASS DOCTRINE DEPLORED

Education the Basis for Curbing "The Actual Enemies of Civilization."

Taking as his subject "The Resources of Civilization Against Industrial Disorder," L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson Company, analyzed the forces which he characterized as the actual enemies of civilization and offered for the consideration of the members of the National Industrial Conference, before whom he spoke last night in the Hotel Astor, a program of legislative and community action to combat the elements of disorder. Serious as the situation was, he did not believe it gave cause for despair, adding that one must keep in mind the great underlying qualities that distinguish our people from the other inhabitants of the world.

Mr. Loree outlined as a legislative policy the limitation of franchise to those competent to read, write, and speak the English language, the prevention of any foreign control of our industrial activities, the maintenance at each legislative session of a competent organization to oppose harmful legislation, and to secure laws designed to give effect to the spirit of our Government and the adoption of anti-picketing laws. He also suggested that all voluntary associations designed to control or affect prices, wages, or conditions of employment should by legislation be charged with the same responsibilities as was the individual or the corporation.

Communities, he said, should organize open shop associations, and these bodies by proper legal organization, should hold to a strict accountability all persons who during industrial disorder, engaged in a violation of the laws, and should institute a general system of credit, when a strike occurred, placing the entire community on a cash basis. He gave public lectures as another way the community might take part in combating industrial disorder.

Discussing what he termed the enemies of civilization, Mr. Loree said, in part:

"Chief among these, are those who preach the solidarity of any class or group as opposed to the whole mass of the people. We have lately learned to our sorrow how dangerous is the fetish, distinctions arising out of original nationality, and it may be hoped that the unpopularity of "hyphenates" has become perpetual. Why, then, should one who considered himself as a capitalist-American, (if such a thing could be conceived) or a labor-American, (this seems to be far too common) be tolerated, if other forms of class-Americanism are not permitted?

"Yet the doctrine, once a laboring man, always a laboring man, is preached every day in the halls of hundreds of organizations and, in this land of amazing opportunity, where, during every decade, places of highest power and infinite respect have been occupied by men elevated by their own efforts from the ranks of those who labor with their hands, there are not wanting many who accept such debasing leadership.

"It is natural that such labor leaders as are sufficiently stupid or corrupt to preach such doctrine should come first to mind.

"They are not alone. One recognizes in the company of false leaders other groups equally distinguishable. There are university teachers, serving life terms where academic walls shut out the light of human activity, who delude themselves into believing they are able to devise formulas for the radical reconstruction of all industrial associations, although they possess but the faintest outlines of the organization that exists.

"And there is a variety, or several varieties of the idle or irresponsible rich, whose wealth represents neither the success of planned achievement nor yet that of systematic administration; men secure in the enjoyment of inherited wealth or of wealth in the possession of their wives, some who have become suddenly opulent by a caprice of fortune rather than the exercise of foresight; all such are easily led to criticise and condemn that which they do not at all comprehend."

Mr. Loree mentioned "the theoretical socialism of Marx," "the more recent socialism of the Soviet, always faintly hiding a despicable tyranny and a sordid despot," and the socialism of the State "recently so dear to the heart of William Jennings Bryan, although appealing strongly still to Lloyd George."

Mr. Loree said that if these conditions were to be opposed by the peaceful resources of civilization the whole process was suggested by the word education. The process, he said, must be value or order and the penalties imposed by immutable law on disorder, he added. Mr. Loree asserted that reputable business houses by their advertising frequently provided means for the support of publications which threatened the public welfare.

WOULD IGNORE PRESSMEN.

Publishers Are Urged Not to Recognize the New Union.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 20.—Publishers with contracts should not recognize the new pressmen's union which has been meeting in St. Louis. This was the answer today of H. N. Kellogg, Chairman of the special standing committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, to the resolution adopted yesterday by the new Web Pressmen's Union requesting newspaper publishers to eradicate from present contracts reference to the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union.

"Contracts between the members of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and Web Pressmen's locals," reads a statement issued here today by Mr. Kellogg, "are in great instances underwritten by the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union. Many contracts not so individually underwritten, when their terms were questioned by local unions, have been enforced by the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union, hence if any agreements members of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association now have with local pressmen's unions are violated, we will expect the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union to see that their terms are enforced."

Members of the Executive Council of the International Typographical Union will arrive in New York today and will make their headquarters at the Hotel Imperial. They are coming at the request of the Printers' League, it was said, in order to use their good offices to terminate the strike in the printing trade. George A. Berry, President of the International Printing Pressmen's Union, said that approximately 1,000 men had returned to work in the printing establishments of the city.

SEVEN TO BE CARDINALS.

Public Consistory to be Held at Vatican on Dec. 15.

ROME, Nov. 19.—The Osservatore Romano officially announces today that a secret consistory will be held on Dec. 15 and a public consistory on Dec. 18.

The new Cardinals, whose appointment will be announced at the consistory, the newspaper says, will be Mgr. Sili, Vice Chamberlain of the Church; Mgr. Camassei, Patriarch of Constantinople; Mgr. Vaire di Bouzo, Nuncio at Vienna; Mgr. Kakowski, Archbishop of Warsaw; Mgr. Bertram, Archbishop of Breslau; Mgr. Dalbor, Archbishop of Posen, and Mgr. Soldevila y Romero, Archbishop of Saragossa.

Owing to the grave condition of his health, Mgr. Guglielmo Sebastianelli is not included in the new appointments. Mgr. Sardi, Assessor of the Consistorial Congregation, was expected to be on the list, but at the last moment the Pope decided not to include him. Mgr. Sardi had already purchased his robes for the ceremony.

WANTS ALIMONY REDUCED.

Abraham Levy Says Wife is Either Married To or Supported by Henry Daslan.

Abraham J. Levy, a theatrical man, who was divorced in 1906 by Mrs. May Levy and was directed to pay her $300 a month alimony, started proceedings in the Supreme Court yesterday to have the alimony reduced and to stay the enforcement of a judgment for $1,000 for unpaid alimony. He contends that his wife is either married to or supported by Henry Daslan, theatrical costumer, who, Levy says, is worth more than $1,000,000. Levy bases the supposition that his former wife married Daslan on a statement that they have traveled in this country and Europe as Mr. and Mrs. Henry Daslan since the divorce.

SALESMEN WANTED.

This advertisement is directed to those keen, alert, aggressive, intelligent salesmen who are up against a stone wall in their present business connections and feel that they haven't found themselves; men who are convinced that a bigger opportunity lies in another field.

A financial institution finds a larger selling organization necessary because of rapidly increasing business; several good positions are open for men with selling aptitude and experience to sell a service on a salary basis.

The man should be between 30 and 35 years of age, should have active minds, good health, plenty of energy, initiative, tact, enthusiasm, and good command of English.

Experience in financial business not absolutely essential.

When writing, be sure to give details as to
(a) Age.
(b) Education.
(c) Religion.
(d) Selling experience.
(e) Nature of former positions held.
(f) Present position and salary.

Also state whether you think you will succeed best as a face-to-face salesman, telephone salesman, or correspondent, and WHY.

The position calls for residence in one of our branch office cities.

Your letter will be treated confidentially. Address R 57 Times.

SALESMEN WANTED.

If you have in your possession evidence of the most convincing character that you are of the boiled down, jammed over type salesman—

Willing to travel—only limited by the United States boundary—

Willing to work the only one way the real salesman will work, "commission basis"—

Write us just how much noise you can make in the selling world!

If we are further interested, we will have you call at this office and we will spread before you the King of road propositions.

This we back up with boiled down, jammed over evidence.

DROPS ZONE FARES ON FLATBUSH LINE

Will Be Resumed on Monday with Rebate Checks, Good If Court Upholds Nixon.

WILL SEEK EARLY DECISION

Brooklyn Grand Jury Takes Up Operation of Bus Lines and May Call Mayor Hylan.

Following intermittent disturbances yesterday on the Flatbush Avenue cars of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company, from which passengers were forcibly removed after refusing to pay second fares, H. Hobart Porter, General Manager of the railroad company, issued orders last night revoking instructions to collect second fares at Foster and Flatbush Avenues.

"The company decided that it would take this course until Monday next, which is the earliest time by which rebate checks could be ready for use," Mr. Porter said in a statement. "On Monday morning the company will resume the collection of the second fare at Foster Avenue, issuing for each additional fare a rebate check good for five cents if the order of the commission is finally upheld by the courts.

"The company, in postponing the collection of the five cent additional fare until Monday, is waiving none of its legal rights, but is making the arrangement entirely in the interest and convenience of the public and to avoid any misunderstanding which might arise due to continuing to collect the fare when it is not in a position to issue rebate checks."

The order of the Public Service Commission directing the company to cease charging two fares was served yesterday. It is peremptory and says that the two-fare charge must cease "forthwith." The order also states that the company has violated the law in collecting two fares.

Under the law the company has the right to submit the matter to the courts before complying with the order. Colonel William N. Dykman, counsel for the company, announced that all haste would be observed in obtaining a decision. It was suggested by Colonel Dykman that the issues be determined upon the law points, which could be speedily disposed of, and not upon a question of rates, which would involve long proceedings.

Disorders were less frequent yesterday at Foster Avenue. There was little trouble during the rush hour, but later several persons who refused to pay a second fare were lifted out of cars by company inspectors. James H. Kenney of East Thirty-fifth Street, Manhattan, had his leg wrenched while inspectors were taking him off, and W. Allen Sholty of 88 Kenilworth Place asserted that his ankle was turned and that he was kicked in the groin. An ambulance surgeon from the Kings County Hospital treated Kenney and Sholty.

The police refused to make arrests when complaints of rough treatment were made, unless the persons who complained would go to a police station to make a charge against the railroad men. None of the passengers would take that action.

Police Commissioner Enright and Commissioner of Plants and Structures Whalen have been requested by District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Brooklyn to appear before the Kings County Grand Jury today to begin an investigation of the operation of municipal buses in Brooklyn. The investigation of the Grand Jury is the result of complaints to that body that some of the buses and their operators are not licensed in accordance with law, that some of the drivers have been guilty of driving the cars at reckless speed. A number of other witnesses will be called and if it is considered desirable Mayor John F. Hylan will be asked to appear and give his views on the bus lines.

AVIATORS AID ACTORS' FUND.

Drop Notices on Incoming Ships—Hylan Indorses Drive.

Passengers on steamships nearing the port of New York are now being informed of the progress of the nationwide campaign for the Actors' Fund by means of leaflets dropped to the decks by aviators. This feature of the drive was inaugurated yesterday by Richard Depew, Jr., and William H. McMullen, piloting a Curtiss machine over the Bay from Roosevelt, N. J. To-day Clifford Webster will do the same thing, starting from Fort Washington.

In giving his indorsement to the drive yesterday, Mayor Hylan wrote: "When I grow old I want to believe that the great comedian who made me laugh, or the great tragedian who once stirred my deepest feelings, is sitting somewhere by a friendly fireside contentedly dreaming of other days. The Actors' Fund guarantees that no worthy actor shall wander homeless in the sunset of his life. Perhaps a good slogan would be, 'Keep the Old Actors' Home fires burning.'"

On Dec. 5, the day on which the drive will culminate in benefit matinees in practically every theatre in the country, the actors living in the Home on Staten Island will be taken to one of these performances as guests of the members of the Theatre Assembly, under the guidance of Mrs. J. Christopher Marks, its President.

INQUIRY INTO DROWNING.

Investigation of Capsizing of Police Launch Under Way.

Deputy Assistant District Attorney Direnzo started an investigation yesterday to determine the cause of the accident to police patrol boat No. 7 on Wednesday, which resulted in the drowning of Patrolmen James Hughes and John McIntyre near the 119th Street Bridge over the Harlem River. The launch was found bottom up.

Mr. Direnzo scouted the theory that the launch was overturned by the wind. He said that there was evidence that the boat had been in collision with some other craft. He has issued subpoenas to the captains of boats which are known to have been near the scene of the accident shortly before the overturned launch was found.

The Police Department is making an independent investigation of the accident.

Honor Roll Book for Cornell Givers.

The names of contributors to the $10,000,000 Cornell fund will be entered in a permanent volume, which will be kept in the university library, it was announced yesterday. It was also announced that contributors may attach their names to endowments for professorships, assistant professorships and instructorships in amounts not less than $125,000, $50,000 and $25,000, respectively.

Acknowledgment.

THE NEW YORK TIMES acknowledges receipt of $5 from Spiegel Brothers as a contribution in response to "Appeal for a Needy Family," published in THE TIMES of Nov. 10. The amount has been forwarded to the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.

This is Empire Silk Shirt Week
Wallach Stores

The purchase of one or more silk shirts is, or should be, an aesthetic diversion—a foray into a realm of artistic surprises.

This Week of Empire Silk Shirts at all Wallach Stores was arranged for this express purpose. It is a memorable Exhibit of ready-to-wear, Custom Tailored Empire "Loomcraft" silk shirts.

Empire Loomcraft SILKS

"Loomcraft" is the master mark and designation of the aristocratic Empire group—the most illustrious family of silk shirtings in the world.

All of them, Superspun, Mellowspun, Shapspun, Guildcrepe, Chateau, Commodore Crepe, and Kingcloth, are represented in the four beautiful Exhibits of ready-to-wear Custom Tailored silk shirts which will continue throughout this week at all Wallach Stores. You are invited.

It may seem out of place to mention price in connection with such rare creations. But the fact remains, these shirts are remarkable values at $10.50, $13.50, $15, $16.50 and $18
